PUTNAM'S
HOT FORGED NAIL

Every Putnam Nail
Is drawn down to a point from the red, thus:

receiving over sixty quick, successive sharp blows, at a welding heat. They are then scalded by the water process,

NO ACIDS
being used, and afterwards
HAMMER POINTED.

Our nails, therefore, are to all intents and purposes the same as the old fashioned hand and hammer pointed.

Some other manufacturers claim to make a Hot Forged Nail, but you will observe on all such a Sheared Edge near the point.

THE PUTNAM NAIL IS THE ONLY
Hot Forged and Hammer Pointed HORSE SHOE NAIL
Made by Machinery in the World.

We address these lines to HORSE OWNERS, because they are the parties most vitally interested. We feel assured that after knowing the facts, and giving the subject due consideration, they will INSIST that their horses be shod with the Hot Forged and Hammer Pointed Nail. A few months' trial will always convince.

CRITICAL ANALYSIS.

UNIVERSITY OF DESERET,
Salt Lake City, June 8th, 1887.

By carefully examining DeLand's Chemical Baking Powder with the microscope and with chemical reagents, I find that it is free from Alum, Starch, Flour, Bone Ash, Ammonia and White Earth; and that it consists essentially of Cream of Tartar and Bi-carbonate of Soda.

A SURE CURE FOR THE PILES.—You need not suffer from this most distressing disease again in all your life. Kmall's Ile is acts as a poultice and lubricator, absorbs the tumors and allays the intense itching at once. No caustic, no acid, no pain. A. McGibbons Esq., 19 Poplar street, Allegheny, Pa., writes: "I had itching and bleeding piles so bad I could not sit, stand or walk without intense suffering. I doctored with many physicians, and tried all the (so called) cures that I ever heard of, in vain (paying out hundreds of dollars), until I used Kmall's Magic Balm, or Ointment. After the first application I enjoyed the best night's sleep I had for ten years, and two boxes have cured me completely." ☞ Wherever introduced Dr. Kmall's Balm takes the lead, and has the largest sale of any Pile remedy in the world. Sold by druggists everywhere or sent by mail. 50 cent boxes. Address Zion's Co-operative Mercantile Institution, Salt Lake City. d&w (2)

INFANTILE SKIN DISEASES

Our oldest child, now six years of age, when an infant six months old was attacked with a virulent, malignant skin disease. All ordinary remedies failing, we called our family physician, who attempted to cure it, but it spread with almost incredible rapidity, until the lower portion of the little fellow's person, from the middle of his back down to his knees, was one solid rash, ugly, painful, blotched, and malicious. We had no rest at night, no peace by day. Finally we were advised to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES. The effect was simply marvellous. In three or four weeks a complete cure was wrought, leaving the little fellow's person as white and healthy as though he had never been attacked. In my opinion your valuable remedies saved his life, and to-day he is a strong, healthy child, perfectly well, no repetition of the disease having ever occurred.

THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN

Are born into the world every day with some eczematous affection, such as milk crust, scall head, scurf, or dandruff, sure to develop into an agonizing eczema, the itching, burning, and disfiguration of which make life a prolonged torture unless properly treated.

A warm bath with CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, and a single application of CUTICURA, the Great Skin Cure, with a little CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the New Blood Purifier, are often sufficient to arrest the progress of the disease, and point to a speedy and permanent cure.

Hence, no mother who loves her children, who takes pride in their beauty, purity, and health, and in bestowing upon them a child's greatest inheritance,—a skin without a blemish, and a body nourished by pure blood,—should fail to make trial of the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston, Mass.

EVENING NEWS.

LIFE IN BUTTE.

A Two Days' Record in Montana's Chief City.

The following record of events is from the Butte Inter-Mountain of December 20:

Last night John Shavillia, who has been employed all summer as foreman of the work in the Montana Central tunnel, just east of town, came into Smiling Albert's saloon on Main Street and took a seat in one of the vacant chairs. He appeared to be very tired, and but little attention was paid to him until he pitched forward and fell heavily to the floor. He was picked up insensible and placed in the chair again, and presently regained partial consciousness. A few minutes later he swooned again, and when the men who were watching him reached his side he was found to be dead. Mr. Shavilla was a man of temperate habits, and has always enjoyed good health until about a week ago, when he had a fit, from the effects of which he was confined to his bed for a couple of days, but had been getting stronger and better steadily ever since until he met with his death last night. He was about 45 years of age, and was born in America of French parents. The coroner's jury this afternoon returned a verdict to the effect that the deceased came to his death from natural causes.

Last evening about 7 o'clock two gentlemen, who occupy high official positions as executive officers in the city government met on the corner of Main and Park Streets, and one began upbraiding the other for not consulting him before proposing certain measures in connection with the police force. Both became somewhat angry, and the argument becoming more heated, one gave the other the lie. The man who had been complaining because his wishes in the matter in controversy had been ignored, stepped back, and hastily whipping out his revolver, fired at the other man, but missed him, and before he could shoot again a policeman who was standing near by, stepped in between them, and catching one of them with each hand, forced them apart. Twice did the man with the pistol endeavor to get a chance to shoot his opponent, and twice was he thwarted by the policeman. They were finally separated. The man at whom the shot was fired was unarmed.

Last night a war of words occurred in Main Street Saloon, between a member of the city council and a gentleman in the employ of the Street Railway Company, and for a time matters looked very serious. It seems that the quarrel grew out of the recent action of the council in refusing to permit the steam motor to be operated within the city limits, and the man who has the interests of the Street Railway Company at heart accused the legislator of being instrumental in securing this adverse ruling, and of being actuated by other than purely disinterested motives. He was promptly given the lie, whereupon he stepped back and said: "I won't fight you here where all your friends are, but if you'll come outside with me I'll make you take it back." He had jumped the wrong man, for the councilman was only too anxious to accommodate him, and replied, "I'll go to South Butte with you, if you like, and we'll settle the matter." Both men were armed and were thoroughly in earnest, so they left the saloon and started across the street, when a policeman who had gotten wind of the affair met them, and catching hold of both of them, informed them that if they didn't stop their quarreling he would place them both under arrest. Of course this settled it for the time, but as they are both men of much personal courage, and as they have the reputation of being desperate and determined men, it is feared that there may be a renewal of hostilities.

About 10 o'clock this morning a colored man dashed up the steps of the police court and into the room, and breathlessly informed Marshal Lou P. Smith that there had been a shooting scrape in Jack Dowd's saloon, on the corner of Main and Galena streets. Marshal Smith, accompanied by Jailor Wainecke and an Inter-Mountain reporter, at once started for the scene of the shooting and upon arriving there found a motly crowd surrounding two men, both of whom were bleeding from the face. Officer Carleton was already on the spot, and had succeeded in clearing a circle in the centre of the bar-room in order that the wounded men might get some fresh air. The cause of the trouble was a dispute over a game of cards.

It seems that Wilkinson, the man who did the shooting, had been playing cards with Jim Smith and Thomas Leonard, and had lost a trifle over five dollars. All three had been drinking rather freely, and the game had broken up in a dispute, Wilkinson claiming he had not been fairly used. Smith was remonstrating with him, and explaining to him that he had no kick coming, —that they had used him all right, when Wilkinson lost his temper and told Smith he didn't want to have anything to do with him, and to let him alone. They then separated only to resume their wrangling and quarreling in a few minutes, and this was repeated several times. Finally Wilkinson said: "See here, Smith, I am armed, and if you don't let me alone, I'll be d—d if I don't pump you full of lead." "Bah!" said Smith you shoot! why, you wouldn't shoot anybody. You haven't sand enough to use a gun." "I haven't, haven't I," replied Wilkinson, and as he uttered the words he whipped a 32-calibre revolver from his hip pocket, and before Smith could catch his arm or anyone interfere, he raised it and fired, the ball striking Smith in the mouth and powder-burning his face badly. Smith fell heavily to the floor, and as Wilkinson turned with his smoking pistol still in his hand, Smith's partner, Thomas Leonard, who is a very powerful young fellow, jumped and caught him by the neck, intending, as he afterward stated, to disarm him, in order to prevent his shooting anyone else. But he wasn't quick enough, for just as he grabbed him, Wilkinson whirled around with the rapidity of lightning, and with the remark, "Oh, you want some of it too, do you?" put up his pistol and pulled the trigger, the bullet going through Leonard's nose. With a cry of "I'm shot!" his second victim staggered back, and Wilkinson dashed through the front door and scooted down Main Street, putting his pistol in his pocket as he ran. When in front of the Oregon stables he slipped and fell, but quickly recovering his legs, turned around the corner of the stable, and continued his flight towards the depot.

Dr. Goodman, the veterinary surgeon, was on his way to his office in the Oregon stables, and was within a few feet of the door of the saloon when the second shot was fired and Wilkinson ran out, and leaving the pursuit of the criminal to the police, he entered the bar-room to ascertain the effect of the shots. He found Smith lying face downward on the floor, almost strangled by the pool of blood in which he lay, surrounded by a crowd of negroes and white men who were to much excited to render any assistance. Raising him up, Dr. Goodman forced some whisky and water into his mouth, and succeeded in making him expel the coagulated blood from the throat, which was choking him.

The two men were taken to Dr. Amsken's office, where their wounds were skilfully dressed. Smith's wound is much more serious than is Leonard's, the bullet having struck him squarely in the face and immediately below the nose, knocking out all his front teeth, piercing his tongue, and lodging in the muscles at the back of the neck. The bullet has not yet been removed. Leonard was struck from the side, the bullet simply passing through the lower portion of the nose. Bowmen showed the greatest nerve while Dr. Amsden was sewing up the wounds, and conversed freely, laughing and joking about the matter as though it were an everyday occurrence.

Wilkinson, the man who used his pistol so freely, is brakeman on a freight train, and runs between Butte and Spring Hill. He is a very pleasant young fellow of about 27 years of age, and is rather above medium height and powerfully built. At the time of the shooting he was dressed in a dark suit of clothes and wore a sealskin cap.
