

JAMES CHIPMAN AGAINST SECRECY Gives Real Amount of Utah National Robbery as $106,000.00.

DIRECTORS MET YESTERDAY Affair is Still in Hands of Pinkertons And Remains as Great a Mystery as Ever.

The mysterious robbery at the Utah National bank early in January remains as much a mystery as ever. Several new facts in the case, however, were brought out yesterday on the return to this city of Hon. James Chipman, one of the board of directors of the institution.

A meeting of the board of directors was held yesterday morning, after being in session for some time an adjournment was taken and the board re-assembled at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when it was again in session until 5 o'clock. During the day Mr. Chipman talked freely to his friends and associates in regard to the policy of secrecy which had been preserved by the bank officials regarding the real amount of the robbery, and he repeated his views in the meeting of the board. He said he advocated the utmost publicity in the matter and thought that a mistake had been made in attempting to keep dark the true amount of the loss.

AUTHORIZED STATEMENT. Mr. Chipman's authorized statement is as follows:

"The amount of money stolen from the Utah National bank was $106,000. I have been officially notified as a director of the bank by its cashier that this was the sum stolen from the reserve chest. The comptroller of the currency at Washington has furnished me, in common with the other directors of the bank, a report based upon the examination of the institution a few days ago by the national bank examiner for this state, which informs us that $106,000 was stolen from the bank and that it has been put back.

ACTUAL AMOUNT $106,250. During the meetings of the board of directors, President W. S. McCormick stated that the course of action followed thus far had been at the suggestion of the Pinkerton officials, who had had the entire matter in charge. This was the reason that the amount of the loss had been given to the press as $48,000. Technically this was correct, as the amount which the bank itself lost and which had been made good out of its surplus account, the actual amount secured by the thieves, however, is $106,250.

President McCormick immediately paid into the bank $50,000, and Jos. Nelson (then cashier, now vice president) paid $12,250. The remaining $44,000 was deducted as above stated from the bank's surplus. This is shown by comparing the two latest published statements of the bank; the one printed Dec. 8 last, gives the surplus and undivided profits as $38,000; the statement printed in February shows a surplus fund of $10,000 and undivided profits, $1,254.95. The charging of $44,000 to the surplus and undivided profits was approved by all the board and is corroborated by Mr. Chipman. As the overwhelming majority of the stock is held by the members of the board, it is not apt to be found with this action, and, of course, if the money is recovered, it will be paid back to the surplus fund, to President McCormick and to Vice Pres. Nelson.

An evidence of the confidence which the public and the depositors have in the bank officials is shown by the fact that in spite of the agitation of which the institution has been the center, its business is moving along without interruption, and few or no accounts have been withdrawn. The bank's deposits have shrunk only in about the same proportion that those of other banking institutions have since the recent financial flurry.

MR. MCCORMICK RETICENT. Mr. McCormick, as far as the public is concerned, still maintains an attitude of reticence, and will authorize no statement whatever as long as the matter is in the hands of the Pinkerton officials. It is known that most of the members of the board are taking the keenest interest in pursuing the investigation, and some of them have detectives of their own at work following various clues.

The full board of the institution is as follows: W. S. McCormick, president; Thomas H. Cutler, first vice president; Joseph Nelson, second vice president; W. F. Adams, Capt. McViech, John Henry Smith, James Chipman, O. D. Miller, J. W. Fitzgerald, Rodney T. Badger, and J. P. Gardner.

NEARLY A FIGHT OVER A TRANSFER Ira L. Reynolds of Ogden Insists On Getting His Gray Trip Slip.

PASSENGERS TAKE SIDES Rate Weberite Demands His Rights When Conductor Recites Company Rules—Other Complaints Made.

Because Ira Lester Reynolds, secretary of the Ogden Weber club, was refused a transfer on the Calder park line last night, there came near to being a pitched fight in the car between two employees of the company and a number of passengers, and at least one Salt Lake visitor left the city with an opinion that would not look well in print.

Reynolds paid his fare at 11:25 p. m. to conductor number 263. He declares that he asked for a transfer and the conductor declared that he did not hear him. Reynolds was loath to quietly letting the conductor get away without delivering, so he forcibly laid hands on the conductor, who then renewed his demand.

WHAT MANAGER SAID. Reynolds had read in the Salt Lake papers the authorized statement from General Manager Jos. Wells that the demand for transfer was not a year-pay money rule was meant only as a convenience and that conductors were under instructions to exercise their judgment and apply the rule with common sense and discretion.

CONDUCTOR'S SIDE. He therefore further proceeded to object to the conductor. At this point a second railroad employee boarded the car and backed up the assertions of the conductor. "If I was a little bigger I would whip the two of you, and if I was a Salt Lakeer instead of a visitor I'd do it anyhow," were the final words of the controversy. Several passengers threaten to sue the company for "five cents and damages" to bring matters to a head on the exact nature of instructions given to conductors in regard to transferring passengers.

Another complaint of the same kind comes from a local party who declares that to him also conductors have demanded a refusal to give transfers unless demanded in a loud voice and with instant precision the moment a nickel is paid, by saying that the foreman have never notice on them that five days of suspension would follow every instance in which they give a transfer under other conditions.

A "News" reporter who asked a conductor for the exact nature of his orders, said that they were posted in the car barns, and gave absolutely no discretion to the conductor. He had asked for further personal instructions and had been informed by Mr. Manning that the company was under no obligations to give transfers at all, if it didn't wish to, and that he was not to turn back even from the next passenger to give a transfer when it was not asked for at once. Also that five days of suspension would result from his giving a transfer out of order, and that the company would fully back up his refusal.

VERY LIVELY TILT BETWEEN COUNSEL Judge Maynard and Atty. Zane Clash During Coal Case Hearing.

REPARTEE WITHOUT GLOVES "Run Along Little Child, Run Along," Retorts Mr. Maynard When Aroused by Opposition.

Judge Maynard, special representative of the government, and Atty. Zane, for the Utah Fuel company in the coal land hearing, going on before Master in Chancery Lewis, here clashed several times this morning. Judge Maynard enjoyed a keen bit of repartee indulged in between the two attorneys when Atty. Zane ridiculed Judge Maynard's attempt to read Sprague's affidavit into the records. Judge Maynard was reading and came to a place where the witness said "he believed certain lands taken up by the Utah Fuel company to be coal lands." Atty. Zane interrupted with the sarcastic remark, "What does counsel mean by attempting to introduce into the records what a man says he believes? Does counsel mean to tell me he is going to?"

CONDUCTOR'S SIDE. He therefore further proceeded to object to the conductor. At this point a second railroad employee boarded the car and backed up the assertions of the conductor.
