NEWS OF THE WEST.

A Financial Manager Disappears, Leaving Creditors Behind Him.

PROSPECTORS IN WYOMING.

Cattle Outlook in Southern Alberta—Stockmen Cut Down Wages—Miscellaneous.

The old Wyoming State Journal plant will be moved to Cheyenne as soon as it can be transferred to the new Republican office.

Mayor Neville, of Omaha, has resigned, effective April 1st, and the City Council has accepted the resignation.

Manager Leslie of the Northwestern Union, which has offices in Omaha, Denver, Kansas City, Minneapolis, has been indicted. He was arrested and gave bond yesterday.

George W. Baker, editor of the Sioux City Journal, has resigned to take charge of the Chicago office of the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette, which is a morning of business, Mr. Baker will be in charge of Western business.

The Oregon City Woolen Mill will be in operation next month, according to the Enterprise. They have had a heavy order for goods, and have been working night and day for some time. Some 150 people will be employed when the mill is in full swing.

While digging in Dr. H. H. Fry's garden at Carbonado, a man's spade struck an iron box, which apparently has been buried for a long time. It was soon found that it was a box of gold pieces.

Boise Press: About 700 cattle were shipped from this point Thursday to Cheyenne, Colorado. The cattle were fitted to be turned on the Grand Ronde of Idaho. They will be put on feed the coming winter and go to market in the spring. Buyers.

Lewiston Teh-Ann: A letter from James Brown, formerly of Genesee, but now of West Point, Idaho, states that Mr. Orr, the gentleman who is carrying water of Lake Pend d'Oreille and sell it for a dollar per barrel, has a farm adjoining Mr. Brown's. Mr. Orr's farm is 160 acres, for the last 8 years, or ever since he came to this country, has been covered with water, so that it could not be plowed or used for anything but a pasture.

Chas. Cunningham, the Uinta county (Wyo.) "sheep king," who is in possession of several land and land office scrapes, has been in Boise for nearly eight years. He has 8,000 sheep, or use sheep to three acres. The ranges of all sheep are whitened without a period of lay-to-fallow.

The outlook for cattle all over southern Alberta, says an exchange, is the best it has been for many years. While the ranges are not in quite good condition, they are not as overstocked the long days now for the past few years, and they are changing up to a way to make the cattlemen want more stocked.

G. W. Martin has shown us a spray from Hood River, per Mr. Sylvester Kinney, which shows the heavily of a considerable spraying of fruit trees. The twig was covered entirely with the insects resembling about sixteen to the inch from the bottom twig. The spot resembles an iron rust and to the naked eye nothing of an insect nature is visible.

Between sixty and seventy prospectors, under the supervision of a Mr. Gould, of Salt Lake, have passed through Evanston in the past week, says the Register, headed for the gold placers of the upper Green River country. Men who worked those placers last year made from $3 to $6 a day, and this year, with improved appliances, better results are looked for.

The farmers of Midway, according to the Wasatch Wave, have at last hit on a name for a valuable grass which they have been trying to cultivate. It looks like a cross between a native rye with a stem as one and a hard brome at the other. The operator hitches a rye in one box with chips and sagebrush, inserts the needle into a spatter hole and jumps the needle to with the bellows, and in fact every squirrel in the hole quickly succumbs.

The Chronicle has says the Union Pacific and the Gulf have already made contracts for the shipment of 170,000 head of cattle from the South, which will be shipped north through this city over the Chicago & Northwestern. Paten cattlemen state that the number will be increased before the season ends. Two years ago 250,000 cattle were shipped through the city, which takes the record. The season for last, it is predicted, will exceed that.

Highland Bugler: George Dixon has resided for seven years on the extreme northwestern edge of the Bear river valley, about two miles north of Bear Lake. He informs a Bugler reporter that during those seven years he has in that vicinity has recorded two moons, from which were built such as they would are now left high and dry. Traffic on the lake has been very spirited of late. Mr. Dixon thinks the moon-stone fishing big, at least in the spring.

Boise (Idaho) Echo, 20 instant: It is a thing we feel loud to Mr. A. W. Tyrrell, who is the best number in Sutter of the Idaho Independent, and Mr. Tyrrell, in consequence of the duties of his office, is the only man among us who knows how fresh is a fellow's mail, and he knows it to a certainty. He is the only editor in the state who receives a salary of $1,000 per year. Upon that he has accumulated $1,000, but he is so generous that he gives away the money to the men who have helped him to the position, and he is so generous that he gives away the money to the men who have helped him to the position, and he is so generous that he gives away the money to the men who have helped him to the position, and