FRACTURED HIS SKULL.

Careless Driving of Three Young Men Causes a Serious Accident.

John P. Isaacs on His Ear Receives Critical Injuries in Badly Overturned Shaft.

Three young men named Cooper, Reiser and Dwiver started home from the races in a vicious state last evening, but they had not proceeded far when their reckless and boisterous manner of driving caused considerable which pushed in the unconsciousness of an old gentleman, in which the latter has but a chance for his life owing to the dangerous nature of the wounds received.

The gentleman who was injured, Mr. John P. Isaacs, was driving along just west of the river. He had been out to the races and was on his way home in a cart. He was in the middle of the road, and noticed a two-seated buggy coming up behind him in which he recognized three young men who seemed under the influence of liquor. They were shouting and yelling and were driving at a furious rate, and Mr. Isaacs concluded to give them the road so as to escape danger. The buggy passed by the carriage but had not got far enough when the buggy which had the boldness to upset him, breaking a shaft of the cart and a wheel, throwing Mr. Isaacs out and causing his unconscious form to roll away. The occupants of the buggy were thrown out also, one of them, A. G. Cooper, getting his right wrist broken.

Mr. Isaacs laid much where they the others, for by the time he was out was unconscious, remaining in that condition all night. Some time after the accident occurred he was placed in a carriage and conveyed to his home in the southern part of the city, accompanied by young Reiser, who was in the other buggy and free in the same locality. His horse and partially demolished cart had preceded him, causing great alarm in the family, who had instituted a search for him.

Drs. Richards and Wright were called to, and found that the fracture of the skull reached from the center of the business around to the back of the right ear, and that the skull had been indented and a piece taken off and removed as the brain. It was necessary to cut a hole in the skull to remove the broken bone and relieve the pressure on the brain, the operation taking about an hour and a half. It was carefully and skillfully performed, and this morning the old gentleman regained consciousness and was able to tell of events up to the time he was thrown from the cart. He is resting as his friends and the prospect for his ultimate recovery are better than they appeared to be last night.

No Session This Afternoon.

There was but little to do in the police court in the evening this morning and as the docket was cleared an adjournment was taken until tomorrow morning at ten, to allow the police and court attaches to attend the races.

Whose Goods Were They?

The case of Alex. Winter vs Sheriff McQueen and the Salt Lake Equitable Co-op. came up again in Commissioner McNally's court this morning, and after being proceeded with for some time was once more adjourned—this time till Monday. The Co-op. obtained a judgment against a restaurant keeper named H. E. Boyd, and levied upon all the goods but the plaintiff now claims that they were his, and is suing to recover them, or their value, which he places at $250, together with $50 damages.

END OF THE FIRST WEEK.

Gradual Increase in Attendance.—Enrollment.

The first week of the summer school at the University closed today. There has been a gradual increase in attendance as well as an increasing interest in the work of the session. The weather thus far has been such as to make the instructor's work congenial, and the students' duties pleasant. One of the gratifying features of the school that is manifest to the visitor is the spirit of industry that prevails in all classes, a spirit born of a desire to be fully informed upon all subjects that are pertinent to the teacher's profession.

In the department of physical culture, the same spirit has characterized the work. The daily lectures by Dr. and Miss Harmer are features of much interest, the latter being the lady who is to take the position of Dean of the Institute commencing with the next term. Miss Harmer spoke "The Physical Development of Women," to which the public are cordially invited. There will be no afternoon session.

Following is the enrollment in both the art school and physical culture departments during the week:

POCATELLO, June 28.—Leaving Ogden and the dead line of that place where I have spent nearly three years of exile, I was asked to come on June 15, leaving to see them all again at some future time. I went by train to Pocatello, Idaho, where I met Bishop Carl Cannon, feeling him well in health and enjoying the spirit of his calling. I visited Brother and Sister Samuel Spilsbury of this place, who entertained me, giving a welcome share of the have and an invitation to partake of a good repast. After supper three daughters and a son engaged in some very fine singing of pieces that were in preparation for the Fourth of July. This family are prominent leaders in the Pocatello choir.

It is one year since I was at Pocatello last, and walking around I find that the place has improved greatly. The streets are very clean and the place is, I think, very healthy. The opera house is a commodious structure. An invitation was given me to go and deliver it, I having been once at work at Pocatello and having taken some part in the songs. The building will hold about 500 people comfortably seated.

Early on the morning of the 20th there was a heavy thunderstorm here. The first clap of thunder awoke many from an enjoyable sleep, without the aid of the clock alarm. The lightning illuminated the whole horizon. The rain lessed but a short time, but the day broke cloudy and very cold. The sun was not visible all day.

Work is very dull here. Workingmen are seen at the office of the railroad shops every morning looking for a job, but the answer is, "No men wanted."

On Tuesday evening, the 26th, I attended the religious class exercises at the Pocatello branch of the Church; there were about thirty present. Bro. Erwin Harrison is teacher of the class, with Bro. Pulley is his assistant. Their way of teaching pleases me the best I have seen in all of my travels. Our lesson was the first chapter in St. Mark, the first twelve verses. I saw many of the Saints whom I have known for years and they gave me a hearty welcome. Bishop Cannon is well liked by all his flock, and is a man of integrity. The Saints here number about two hundred. There have been several added to the Church by baptism since I left a year ago. Fourteen baptisms took place in the ward last week.

On taking a short walk on the other side of the river I found there a neat little town built up. Should the Indian reservation be thrown open and the present metal be discovered, Pocatello will be a second Butte, but just at present it looks a count of somewhat dull. Many are anxious to see better times, especially storekeepers.

At fifteen minutes past eleven on the night of the 27th, when all were fast asleep, we were awakened by the alarm of fire. Owing to the brilliance of the electric light, the reflection of the blaze could not be seen, as the blaze was not a mile from us.

I had the pleasure of seeing Elder William, a returned missionary, which I met in Liverpool, England, in May, 1893. We were glad to see each other and told over some of our experiences while on a mission.

Elder Palmer, the lecturer, has done much good with his lectures at Pocatello, in confuting many of the false
