VICTIM OF THE GRIP.

Sam A. Steele Passes Away at Hank's Hotel, Logan.

Special to the NEWS per Deseret Telegraph.

LOGAN, Utah, Jan. 18.—Sam A. Steele, a traveling man for Pitkin & Brooks, crockery house, Chicago, died last night at 10:30, at Hank's Hotel, of catarrhal pneumonia. He was first attacked by la grippe a week ago. He has been cared for by Joel Mason, who will forward the body to Salt Lake for burial. He was well known and liked all over the State. He was a Mason, Knight Templar, and Mystic Shriner, and will be buried under the auspices of those orders.

Ward Entertainment.

The Nineteenth Ward meeting house was the scene of an enjoyable entertainment yesterday afternoon and evening. In the afternoon the children, some three hundred strong, held the floor and danced to the music of Clive's orchestra. The entertainment closed at 6:30 with a laughable clown pantomime, with his satanic majesty in the leading role. Then followed Santa Claus with his free distribution of candy and nuts. In the evening the music members of the ward participated in treating the measure.

Not Dead, But In Springville.

Marshall Adams, the missing link in the Fyles-McKune case, has been seen at Springville. He is not dead as reports would have it, but truly very much alive. In fact so much so, that he understands exactly the status of the case, and will very likely hie himself homeward when all is again quiet and serene. Several parties who have recently come up from Springville, report having walked and talked with him, and say that he is well informed as to the proceedings in the case.

ENTERTAINMENT NEXT WEEK.

Still Presided in the Salt Lake Theater —Inaugurating the Twenty-first Year of Old Folk's Reunions.

In 1875 the first Old Folks' excursion went to the Lake over the Utah & Nevada line, by courtesy of Hon. John W. Young, then president of the road. Since then the excursions have become established as a feature of Utah society, and entertainments for the aged, in which the widows, orphans, deaf mutes, poor and others whose lot in life is somewhat out of a number character are invited, are the custom throughout the State. This year, 1896, is the twenty-first year of the Old Folks' reunions, and in Salt Lake the festival will be inaugurated in the Salt Lake Theater on Wednesday next. Following is the official program issued by the Old Folks' committee:

Grand free entertainment tendered by the Old Folk's committee to all the aged people of 70 years old and upwards in this city and vicinity, to the widows of any age, orphans, deaf mutes, and inmates of the Salt Lake County House on the State road, on Wednesday, Jan. 22, 1896, commencing at 2 p.m. Doors open at 1 p.m.

By kind invitation, by the kindness of the management and members of the Lyceum stock Co., will be presented the splendid play, in four acts, entitled, Forgiven.

Old folks wearing their badges can ride free on the Salt Lake City and Rapid Transit railways to and from the theater.

This one entertainment is made possible by the kindness of the Salt Lake Theater management, the theater is cleaned and aired, City Hall, Academy Hall and Hinckley of the City and Rapid Transit railroads, and the Salt Lake Power, Light and Heating company.

There will be no tickets sold on this occasion.

Committee of arrangements—Wm. R. Pratt, George Goddard, C. W. Savage, Wm. Eddington, Wm. Nayler, W. B. Binder, John Kirkham, Nelson A. Empey, Andrew Jensen, R. S. Young.

Tickets will be distributed between 10 and 4 o'clock at Savage's Art Rooms, 12 and 14 Main street, on Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 20th and 21st.

All are invited, regardless of creed, color or nationality.

Deaf Mute Entertainment.

The exhibition given by the pupils of the Utah School for the Deaf last evening under the direction of Prof. and Mrs. Metcalf, Miss Shelley and Mr. F. M. Grigg, was extremely interesting. The exercises consisted principally of class work by the pupils of the different grades. There are now 54 pupils in the institution, and all seem to be doing excellent work. After the exercises the visitors were shown the work done by the students, such as wood carving, type setting, printing, and all kinds of manual work. Many of the legislators and their friends who attended were well repaid for their visit and went away with warm words of praise for the teachers of the institute.

University Lecture.

Prof. Whiting delivered a lecture to the students of the University last night. The following is a brief synopsis of what he said:

The speaker began his lecture by stating that mammals occupied the highest place in nature assigned to animal life. "He was distinguishing feature of the mammal is the presence of the mammary glands which furnish the milk whereby the young are nourished. These glands are probably greatly modified sebaceous glands, and the milk which they secrete still has much in common with the oily fluid secreted by the unmodified sebaceous glands. As feathers of some kind are always found on birds, so some kind of hair is always found on mammals. From a geological standpoint mammals represent the last developed of the classes of vertebrates. So far as is now known the order of development of the classes of vertebrates has been fishes, amphibians, reptiles, birds, mammals. Almost all of the mammals possess greater or less powers of discrimination and memory. From these two mental powers they form judgments and conclusions, and most of them are capable of love, hate, and aversion. These qualities, which are found in almost all mammals, are especially developed in a few, and thus they are fitted to serve man or domestic animals, and in this way they have played an important part in civilization. The benefit, however, has not wholly been on the side of man. A study of the past introduces proof that vast numbers of animals which once lived have perished, but so far as we know not one form which has been discovered has become extinct. So in the animal world as in the human world, "the meek shall inherit the earth."

A long study related domestic animals is interesting to note how the structure of each proclaims his original home. The horse and donkey are first cousins, but only the horse originally lived in the plains while the donkey lived in the mountains. To the horse eyes were of the utmost importance, for his view was unobstructed, while the test of eyes would be of little value to the donkey as the mountains would prevent his seeing very far. To him ears were more important than eyes; to the horse the reverse is true, and we find each provided for in a way that best suits his needs. The wons of the domestic dog, which is so especially admired in the city, is a magnificent vision for the mountains.

Mrs. Lyon's Funeral.

The funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Jennette Thompson Lyon, whose death was announced in yesterday's News, will take place from the Twentieth ward meeting house at 11:30 a.m. tomorrow, instead of from the Fourteenth ward meeting house as heretofore announced.

HIGH TEMPERATURE SESSION.

Republicans of the Third Precinct Have a Big Family Row Amid Elliott's Court Imbroglio.

The meeting of the Third precinct Republicans last night was even more bitter and tropical than was anticipated by the most ardent supporters and anti-supporters of the movement. Ironically-inclined politicians who attended the meeting say the fluid in that part of the city was greater than in any other portion on account of the intense heat manifest by those who participated.

The meeting was protracted and fairly spiced with factional feeling. Chairman Geddes called the house to order and read the call under which the gathering was held, and on the resident destination of others to preside, performed that duty himself. B. F. Grant acted as secretary.

Mr. A. F. Dotseus was the first speaker. He stated in very plain language that Mr. M. M. Elliott, who had been named by the City Council to succeed Mr. Watson was not the kind of man the people wanted. The rights of the people, in fact, had been infringed upon. Mr. Dotseus amplified on this idea at length, and when he finished speaking the Elliott men attempted to secure an adjournment. A veritable uproar ensued, and no less than a dozen speakers on each side were heard. J. M. Tanner moved that a committee of three be appointed to draft resolutions of presentation to the City Council, expressing their dissatisfaction of Mr. Elliott as a gentleman and of the manner in which he was given the place he now holds. The motion carried by a large majority, and J. B. Morris moved that the City Council appoint such committee. Another wrangle ensued, but the motion was lost and the chair named J. M. Tanner, A. F. Dotseus and John H. White. Morris immediately had the resolutions were already prepared and that all that was necessary to do was to sign it. Tanner warmly resented the insinuation and Morris retaliated in his characteristic style, whereupon the chair threatened to have him thrown out and appointed a couple of sergeant-at-arms for that purpose.

The committee on resolutions after having been out for a time reported the following, which was adopted by a good sized majority:

Resolved, by the Republican voters of the Third precinct, in mass meeting assembled, that Mr. M. M. Elliott is illegal right of the City Council to fill the vacancy in that body caused by the recent death of one of its members from this precinct, and that the said Council is not lawfully bound to execute our wishes in the matter, we at the same time feel that our inherent right as citizens entitles us to a voice in the selection of our own representatives; that, through the hasty action of the Republican majority of said Council in filling the place without a knowledge of our wishes, we have been denied a most inestimable privilege, and are conscious that our feelings and interests have been neglected.

A committee was appointed to present the resolution to the City Council. Morris vainly attempted to secure the passage of a substitute resolution that the Council be thanked for having named Mr. Elliott. The meeting will be remembered as one of the stormiest gatherings in the political history of the Third precinct.

Winter Doings in Woodruff.

WOODRUFF, Jan. 17, 1896.

To the Editor.

We are having fine winter weather; however, counting the future, it would be better if we were plodding around through two feet of snow—last season's crops suffered for lack of water. The farmer of the future will not have the anxiety that we upon those of the present; reservoirs will be made and the early spring supply of water will be held in reserve.

A large number of cattle are being fed in this valley for the eastern market. Mr. Stevens, of the Bear River Land and cattle Company, recently returned from the East and reports the market unfavorable for feeders.

Inaugural day was honored by our patriotic citizens and the general expression of sentiment was "Give the condition of the past and all hail Utah of today!"

Last Tuesday evening members of the sitting Priesthood and their ladies met at the residence of Bishop John M. Hess to pay respect to him and Sister Agnes Hess. The kind words of love and good will that were spoken by all present will be treasured up in the hearts that were warm and filled with appreciation for their labors in behalf of the people of this ward. It was a fine long to be remembered.

Mrs. Jane Fish, 808 East Second street, Kansas City, Missouri, says: My first attack of inflammatory rheumatism came in 1887, and ever since then I have been very much of an invalid as the consequence of repeated spells of rheumatic trouble. I spent thousands of dollars for doctors, but received no benefit. Finally I took Munyon's Rheumatism Cure, but only to please my husband. Therefore was marvelous. After taking the pills only three days, I felt better than at any time for twenty years. I continued the remedy until I had used three vials, and I have been troubled with that useless disease.

ANOTHER RAMBLER DAY.

The Rambler boys made a great showing in the Ogden races. The Rambler of the day was the mile road race, in which McCombey finished second, Talbot third place and third time prize. Three miles the third race, Joe Davis taking second in the novice, Fowler 2nd, Weber second, and Thatcher third in the open scratch class B. Fowler gets the prize. In the half mile open, McCombey took second, Carter third. Half mile class B, Thatcher second, Fowler third. Five miles, class B, Fowler 2nd, Weber third. This race was won by a yellow suit (or behind and hill Chatcher and Weber being immediately behind him, the Rambler team will go to Ogden parties and the race be to Evans. The five mile, class A, was won by Hamilton first, McCombey 2nd, Joe Davis second and McCombey third. Fourteen prizes in one day is about enough for any one.
