CIVIC LEAGUE OF IMPROVEMENT

Planning Great Things for the Betterment of City if Moneyed Men Will Put up Means.

SESSION OF CITY COUNCIL.

Park Commissioners Are Appointed for Beautifying of City—Miss Thomas Recital.

Ogden, May 21.—The Civic Improvement league at its meeting last evening considered numerous matters that, if carried into effect, will greatly improve the appearance of the city.

The league addressed a letter to Hon. Samuel Newhouse, asking him to give to Ogden City a public park, of sufficient size to be of use, which should bear his name.

Another move in the right direction was the sending to Mr. Harriman a communication, asking him to provide a suitable club house in Ogden for the comfort and pleasure of the many railroad employees in the various railroad departments.

A resolution was passed, requesting the Weber stake authorities to improve the tabernacle square. The resolution sets forth that the church cannot afford to longer let the property lie in such a rough condition as it has done for many years.

The city council will be asked to employ a mounted policeman to patrol the residence portion of the city, mostly for the protection of people's property from straying cows and horses. A resolution was adopted asking the city commissioners to pass a law prohibiting the placing of any kind of signs on the rocks in the canyon.

The Utah Light & Railway company and the Bell Telephone company will be asked by the league to remove from the streets all poles and to place them in the middle of the blocks.

The league decided to hold a flower carnival next August. As an extra inducement prizes will be awarded. Already nearly $60 has been received for the purchasing of prizes, and it is expected that that fund will be increased to $200.

All citizens interested in any way in the beautifying of Ogden canyon and the protection of its natural beauty are urged to attend a mass meeting called for Thursday evening at the Weber club parlors for the purpose of preparing a protest against the granting to the Utah Light & Railway company the privilege of placing a pumping system on the Ogden river.

The league addressed a letter to the city council, asking it immediately improve the road to Ogden canyon.

CITY COUNCIL SESSION.

Mayor Nominates Park Commissioners—Monument to Capt. Brown.

Ogden, May 21.—In a communication received by the city council at its session last night, Mayor E. M. Conroy submitted the appointment of John S. Lewis, Thomas H. Carr and Bela Kadish as park commissioners for Ogden City. These appointments were made pursuant to the law creating the board of park commissioners passed by the recent legislature. In electing the men for the commission the mayor evidently chose those who had been identified with the work of beautifying Ogden in the past. Mr. Lewis is president of the improvement league and framed the bill which provided for the appointment of the commission. Mr. Carr is a member of the board of education of Ogden and was formerly president of the city council. Bela Kadish is connected with the Ogden Smelting company, located near here. The council confirmed them.

By tacking on several amendments the purpose of the ordinance, presented at the last meeting of the council regulating the speed of teams over street crossings and limiting the time for blocking the same, was almost completely lost. The ordinance was brought before the council for its second reading. Mr. Lewis introduced an amendment instead of ten miles an hour between Twenty-first and Twenty-eighth streets. After a heated discussion the time for blocking crossings was increased from two to ten minutes. In this condition the ordinance passed its second reading with three members voting against it.

The council decided to erect two concrete bridges over the old and new channels of the Ogden river near the mouth of Ogden canyon. The city engineer was instructed to proceed at once with the plans and specifications for the same.

The question of location for the 18-foot monument to be erected to the memory of the late Captain Brown was referred to the committee on laws, buildings and grounds and public improvements committees for investigation and report. The monument is expected to arrive in Ogden within the next few days and it will probably be located on the west portion of the city hall square.

The law committee to which had been referred the question of violations of the provision in the franchise granted to the Salt Lake & Ogden railway, recommended that six months be granted to the Bamberger people to comply with the requirements of the franchise. The recommendations were adopted.

MISS THOMAS RECITAL.

Those who went to the Ogden Tabernacle last evening to hear Miss Ellen Thomas, were delighted beyond expression. Her voice is a soprano of unusual sweetness, especially in her high notes on the low notes, while her high notes are clear and enchanting. She also has a most pleasing appearance. It does not seem possible that three years of vocal culture could make such a vast improvement in a voice as it has done with Miss Thomas. Those who heard her previous to her departure for New York to study under Madame Ashford, were free to state that they would not know it as the same voice. She was on for four numbers on the program, on the additional time he granted to the Bamberger people to comply with the requirements of the franchise. The recommendations were adopted.

FUNERAL OF ELIZABETH AUSTIN.

The last sad rites over the mortal remains of Elizabeth L. Austin who died Saturday morning were held yesterday afternoon at the Second ward meetinghouse, Bishop Robert McQuarrie officiating. The meetinghouse was filled with sorrowing relatives and friends who assembled to pay a tribute to one who was beloved by many. Besides selections by the ward choir, Mrs. Mary Farley sang the stanzas "O Mother and 'Some-time We'll Understand.' The eulogist speaker was Elder Samuel G. Dye who preached a very comforting sermon on the resurrection. President C. F. Middleton eulogized the noble life of the deceased, and Bishop Robert McQuarrie made a few comforting closing remarks. The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful.

BRIEFS AND PERSONALS.

Raise in County Tax Valuations—New Postmaster Installed.

Special Correspondence.
Cedar City, Iron Co., May 15.—The snow and rain storm that visited this region, commencing on the 11th and ending on the 13th inst., was unusual for the amount of moisture that fell. The ground is well moistened and the grain and lucern will be greatly benefited from the storm. Grain and lucern was considerably injured by the heavy frosts during the latter part of April and early in the present month. Most of the early fruit is destroyed by frost in this locality.

Presbyterian missionaries are holding forth here and through the kindness of the ward authorities are permitted to use the ward hall in which to hold their nightly services.

Sheep shearing is going on at a lively rate at Iron Springs, where most of the flocks in the locality will be shorn. The clip is reported to be very good and extra clean. As the price offered up to the present time does not appear satisfactory to the flockmasters, who anticipate a raise in the price of wool.

The electric light and power company organized some time ago has a force of men at work on its canal in the mouth of the Cedar canyon and it is confidently expected that by next fall this town,
