Twenty-one vacancies in the Upper house of the Riksdag were to be filled by elections in the provincial legislatures (landsting) in the latter part of this month. There are 25 such legislatures, with an aggregate membership of 1125. The number of sheep is diminishing in Sweden (from 1865 to 1890, according to statistics, the decrease was about 2,000,000, or 12 per cent). It must, however, be observed that nowadays the sheep are better fed and kept, and consequently the decrease in number of the sheep stock does not necessarily involve a reduction in value.

The Swedish-Americans who were declared doctors of philosophy at the university festivals in Upsala, are as follows: Prof. O. O. Olson, president of Augustana college in Rock Island, Ill.; Prof. C. As King Oscar was eating his dinner while hoeing barley on his island Mr. Gustafson, a Hitinghorg Boat, presented him with a miniature of the royal cruiser Drott in Bowen. This unique work of art was a faithful reproduction of the vessel. The hull was made of a fine wire net, in which were stuck flowers of the same colors as the vessel. The chimneys, masts and ventilators were all made of flowers of the same colors as the corresponding parts of the vessel. The king was pleasantly surprised and expressed his admiration of the work.

The Swedish people are supposed to have lived in the land they now inhabit for at least 3,000 years, during this entire period not having an invasion to show. The king has so far at least to an extent which mentioning, so that the Swedish nation is not so much far richer than any other of greatly exciting envious of Sweden. The Swedish people are the good subjects of the union of Sweden and Norway, for all historical accounts prove that the Swedes have kept to short, most peaceful territory (probably independent of foreign dictation, perhaps for a long time divided into lesser communities, but for the past 1000 years united for a single realm.)

NORWAY.

Diphtheria is raging epidemically in Fredrikstad.

Nils Nelson, who was one of the most wealthy citizens of Arendal, is dead.

The new Christiania theater which is now being erected will be completed in the fall of next year.

The owner of a country house at Christiania, prompted by economical reasons to keep hay and straw out of his warehouse. The result exceeded his expectations, the new method yielding every year, instead of the usual loss, a considerable gain, there whose set of cats had been experimented.

The country around Christiania has had a second spell of dry weather. In many instances the small grain was reaped and housed without taking it in. But the attempt proved disastrous in other crops. A new industrial company at Vardalen is now in the air. Edward Langset through the press appeals to the public to provide for school children, "for there is a large number of school children who suffer in from cold and hunger," he says, "these people put the impossibility of teaching children the doctrine of Christian charity while they are suffering from want to the loss of such an paramount to Christian people.

The radical Dagbladet thus writes as follows: "Finland has made great strides since 1811. Her trade in 1811 represented 1,500,000 crowns. This has increased to 250,000,000 crowns, which is a greater increase than we can point to in Norway. We are continually told that we owe our progress to the union with Sweden. Does Finland owe her progress to her union with Russia? We think not. We believe the progress of Finland is due to the energy and ability of her own people; then we must also admit that the Finlanders must be more competent in opening up new resources and improving old ones, and less dull and conservative than too many of us Norwegians are."
