NICARAGUA REPLIES

To Great Britain's Ultimatum on the Mosquito Trouble.

DEMAND FOR ARBITRATION.

Is Probability of a War Between the Two Countries—Diplomatic Efforts for Further Details.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—It is report ed here that Nicaragua has replied to Great Britain's ultimatum, in which the course of a similar proposal and an ultimatum in case of rejection of the British demands, and as such it is not yet known whether Great Britain will accept it or responsive to Nicaragua which made these propositions:

First—A money indemnity which will satisfy the alleged personal injuries to British subjects, including British consul Hixon.

Second—The promotion of the development of settlement against British subjects.

Third—The situation of a commercial agency during arbitration the demand in order to property of British subjects in Nicaragua.

The dispatches contained no hint of how far, if at all, Great Britain has yet gone in a consequent note the last of it formally states that an answer to the ultimatum would be expected within seven weeks at Managua, which seven weeks at Managua, which seven weeks are up to-morrow.

Nicaragua's answer is in two parts. In the world doubtless it says that Nicaragua stands ready to submit the whole question to arbitration, and that the war blind demands, the answer is not in order to preserve friendly relations with Great Britain's government, but with the purpose of harmony and peace. Nicaragua proposes that all questions of payment be referred to the Hague, or to a tribunal, which shall be agreed upon, or submission to arbitration. The foregoing is regarded as a most diplomatic answer, and Nicaragua's reply to Great Britain's ultimatum, and, consequently suggests that the 1,000 pounds demanded is a mere pretext and that the whole question of a change should be left to arbitration. Great Britain's answer is an ultimatum, beginning in a week or two, but Nicaragua's reply is so pacific in character that it is believed that the case is here's prospects that this company will adjust matters without details.
