Elders Livingston and Armstrong Have Sweet Experiences in Australia—Catastrophes Also Reported.

To the Editor:

Dear sir, greetings! Long ago we promised to write you a few lines. We have not forgotten our promise, but have been so busy that we have put it off from week to week, hoping to be able to write more than we can now. We have been laboring in Queensland, Australia, for the last two years, and have had a very pleasant time. We have had good health, and have had the spirit of our work with us. We have had a few trials, but they have been light compared with our blessings. We have had a few days of sickness, but we have had good care, and have soon recovered. We have had a few days of rain, but we have had good shelter, and have soon dried up. We have had a few days of hot weather, but we have had good health, and have soon cooled off. We have had a few days of hard work, but we have had good health, and have soon rested. We have had a few days of poor food, but we have had good health, and have soon got good food. We have had a few days of poor lodging, but we have had good health, and have soon got good lodging. We have had a few days of poor company, but we have had good health, and have soon got good company. We have had a few days of poor preaching, but we have had good health, and have soon got good preaching. We have had a few days of poor baptisms, but we have had good health, and have soon got good baptisms. We have had a few days of poor confirmations, but we have had good health, and have soon got good confirmations. We have had a few days of poor meetings, but we have had good health, and have soon got good meetings. We have had a few days of poor testimonies, but we have had good health, and have soon got good testimonies. We have had a few days of poor faith, but we have had good health, and have soon got good faith. We have had a few days of poor hope, but we have had good health, and have soon got good hope. We have had a few days of poor charity, but we have had good health, and have soon got good charity. We have had a few days of poor love, but we have had good health, and have soon got good love. We have had a few days of poor testimony, but we have had good health, and have soon got good testimony
