THAT "INFAMOUS LIBEL."

Judge Blackburn Replies to the Charges of the Provo Bar.

His Honor is Full of Indignation and Offers a Kindly Word to the Younger Attorneys.

When Judge Blackburn took his seat in the First district courtroom at Provo yesterday he delivered himself of the following speech in reply to the allegations of the Bar association, recently published:

I want to say this morning that to my absence an infamous libel was perpetrated on the court, purporting to come from a bar association. Now, the record shows that the whole thing is a wilful and mischievous fabrication. The record shows here that I have tried 355 cases; thirty-five of them have been appealed, and out of that thirty-five there have been ten reversed. That shows how correct my decisions have been, and how well cases have been decided. I don't suppose there is another court in the Territory or anywhere else that can show a better record.

This whole matter, I suppose, originated from the fact that I did not give satisfaction to the attorneys on the trial of the Davis case; and the publication of this is what I saw coming on. The attorneys have the right, I suppose, to make insult and false charges against the courts the department, if they see fit. I don't complain of that; they can make as many charges as they desire; that is their privilege. But I do complain that they have published charges that are false and I feel sorry and aggrieved. If I felt that any of those charges were true I should feel a good deal worse than I do now, but as they stand they are a notice to the court that "if you don't decide cases as we want you to decide them, we will see that you get the proper punishment in our organization." (Bar association). It is a constant threat to the court that he must decide as they want him, and not only to me, but to my successor, if there should be one. It seems to me, and must seem to the public, that it is an open threat to the courts that "we regulate our decisions and dictate how they shall try the cases." It can have no other appearance and certainly that must be the object. There can be no other reason for it.

I want to say one thing in kindness to the young attorneys. That is, that you don't make great law yers of yourselves by abusing the court and attacking him. There is only one way to do. If you want your cases squarely tried, get them in good shape, and they will be fairly tried.

I don't want the reporters to take down what I have said here unless they take it from the notes of the official stenographer, because I want what I have said here this morning to be reported, if reported at all, fully and truthfully — not the inferences that might be drawn, but the exact words. The stenographer has taken them down, and if wanted they can be obtained from him.

A $2000 Damage Suit.

Erastus G. Dater has instituted a $2000 damage suit against Hanlahan, Griffith & Morris in the Third District court. Plaintiff was in the employ of the defendants first at the jail city and county building on September 24, 1892, and was taking brick and mortar to the masons who were working there. He alleges that while thus engaged a scaffold upon which he was wheeling his hand brake, and he fell to the ground, a distance of thirty-five feet. He was badly bruised by the fall, and his injuries were such that he was unable to resume work for several weeks. He also paid out about $75 for medical attendance. Damages are claimed on the ground that the defendants were criminally negligent in not having the scaffold properly erected. Frank H. Stephens is the plaintiff's attorney.

A Car on Fire.

The passengers on the Waterloo and Warm Springs street cars due in the city from the south at 8:30 a.m. today were subjected to a lively experience. Through improper insulation of overhead wires the top of the car was set on fire and a hole nearly a foot square burned in the roof before water could be obtained to extinguish the flames which were making rapid headway.

Court Callings.

Jacob Johnson has been released from the penitentiary upon the expiration of his sentence. He was sent up from the Third district court one year for grand larceny on June 8, 1892.

Charles H. Preston, an Ogden hotelkeeper, was on October 1, 1892, in the First district court, convicted of embezzlement, and sentenced to the penitentiary for eighteen months. A movement is on foot to secure his pardon.

James A. Gardner is suing Alonzo E. Hyde in the Third district court to collect $278.50 alleged to be due for cedar wood delivered at Tintic.

The suit of William Langford against Salt Lake City, in which the plaintiff demands $5000 as damages to his property in Jordan plat, from the sewage of the city being allowed to flow into the Jordan river, came up on a motion for an injunction before Attorney Merrimanas, special master, yesterday afternoon and is in course of hearing.

The case of the Hughes Fruit & Produce company vs. the Driver Mercantile company, involving the sum of $2,134, has been transferred to Justice Gee's court from that of Commissioner Meyer.

The case of the Salt Lake Loan & Building association vs. Tom McEvoy et al., was tried before Commissioner Norrell yesterday afternoon and judgment was rendered against the defendant for $100.

AS TO WHEELS.

THE OLDEST WHEELED VEHICLE IN EXISTENCE.

A duplicate of probably the most ancient wheel vehicle in existence has been received at the World's Columbian exposition. It is a duplicate of a chariot that was exhumed from the ruins in Egypt, and is now in the museum in Florence, Italy. The transportation department could not get the original, but had one made that in every particular is as perfect as the original. It is procured at the expense of the Exposition company, and will be exhibited in the vehicle division.

Of course there is no telling how old this car is, as it was buried in the ruins many years before Christ. It probably lay in the Lava beds for at least two thousand years. The strange thing about it is that everything is as perfect and free from decay as it could have been when it was buried. Even the very hide strings that support the footboard have not decayed. Another curious feature is that the wheels are not materially different from the wheels used at the present time. The spokes are tenoned into the felloe the same as they are done at the present time. Of course there is no tire on the felloe, but the spokes instead of being driven in the hub, as they are made at the present time, were glued in, forming a solid joint. The spokes are sawed out of large pieces of wood, so that the ends of the spokes are long, and when glued together, form the hub. The axle is of wood, turned round, making a very good arm, and the wheel is going on by the ordinary linch pin.

Probably the most striking of modern vehicles at the Exposition will be made by the well known firm of Studebaker Bros. Mfg. Co. at their factory, the largest in the world. They are now building a line of work for the Columbian Exposition, which will rival in magnificence any vehicle display ever made.

The Salt Lake branch of this establishment is making a fine display of novelties during conference week and visitors are invited to look over their stock.

The Nancy Hanks Sulky with low wheels and pneumatic tire is shown, also a full line of wagons and buggies at prices that are right.

Being=Beautiful

Is the least of being—that's all right for us hardware folk; we only think of being good and of how many nails we can give for a dollar. But with the women it is important to be too sweet for anything, and the MAJESTIC RANGE or RELIABLE GASOLINE STOVE will sweeten the temper of any woman. They too have wound their way into the hearts of many a housekeeper solely on their own merits.

They may not be as beautiful as some, but who looks for beauty in a range? It is quality and price that are looked for, and the Majestic Ranges and Reliable Gasoline Stoves possess both, something never before found.

When not too busy drop in on us and we will tell you the little we know about steel ranges and gasoline stoves.
