The Broom Will.

Matters respecting the so-called last will and testament of the late John Broom are becoming more entangled as time passes. Saturday, Annie Madsen, one of the daughters of the deceased by another wife, filed a petition in the probate court asking that James A. Spargo and John S. Carlaw be appointed administrators of the estate, and that the appointment of Mrs. Hester Broom as special administratrix be set aside. The petition sets forth that Mrs. Broom is incompetent, by reason of her age, to manage the affairs of the estate with out great loss to those interested

Fourth District Court.

Judge Minor made the following orders in the Fourth district court saturday: In the case of A. C. Fish vs J. Wesley Hill et al, the demurrer was overruled and ten days were given in which to answer.

Joseph Jenkins filed a damage suit of $500 against Ralph Hunt, George H. Fowers, George E. Higley, John Manning, Thomas Gibson, A. C. Christiansen and Wm. Parker, directors of the Hooper Irrigation company. The plaintiff alleges that the defendants have so operated the canal as to greatly damage the plaintiff's farm, through which the ditch now runs, by reason of allowing a rank growth of willows and weeds along its bank and in the canal thus causing the water to overflow and seep through the banks to the damage of the crops growing on plaintiff's farm.

Notes and Personals.

UTAH COUNTY NOTES.

Social and Business—Accidents—Improvements, Etc.

One of the most enjoyable events of the season was the celebration held at Lincoln Beach, the Utah Lake resort, on Tuesday last, in honor of the fifty-sixth birthday of Mr. John Hawkins of Benjamin. The beach is fast becoming a popular resort. It is situated at the point of the West mountains, about ten miles from Payson, and with a little money properly expended will make a fine bathing resort. The proprietor is Mr. John Hallet, a young man who was deprived of his eyesight and of both hands by a giant powder explosion in Provo many or several years since, and who is assisted by his father in managing affairs at the resort.

Runaways have been frequent of late. Yesterday a buggy in which were the Misses Ellie Marsh and Mary Ann Thatcher was tipped over, the top broken off and the occupants thrown to the ground. On Monday, a horse, attached to a buggy in which were two young ladies, Moses Inez Fillmore and Annie Jones, became frightened at a passing bicycle, tipped the vehicle over and ran away. Both the occupants were thrown out but in neither of these accidents was anyone injured. Another runaway occurred at Benjamin, during the late part of the week, by which Mrs. Mary Stewart received some severe injuries.

C. W. Wright received his commission as postmaster of Payson and has entered upon the discharge of his office. Mrs. Marstek, who has occupied the position for several years, will remain until the fifteenth of the month to aid the new incumbent in mastering the business. Payson has had no cause to grumble at the manner in which the postoffice has been conducted while in charge of Mrs. Marsteck, and nothing more can be desired than that the new incumbent shall handle affairs as satisfactory as the outgoing post mistress has done.

A crowd of dejected, tired-looking passengers were unloaded at the Rio Grande railway station here on Thursday morning at 5 o'clock. They were returning from the dance excursion of the day before and when Springville was reached about midnight, two or three of the cars were derailed, causing the delay.

Mrs. Wm. J. Taylor, of Spring Lake, was the victim of an accident on Monday last. She was getting in a buggy when an open umbrella frightened the horse. She was thrown violently to the ground and her leg badly broken.

Andrew Jensen, the historian, has been visiting the neighboring settlements for a week or two past and spent Sunday and Monday at Payson, gleaning a correct history of our city from old settlers and records and various other sources.

A little boy of Marion Hunsaker's had his right arm broken and other disfigured a few days since while driving a horse. The injuries were promptly attended to and the little fellow is improving fast.

An unknown entered the co-op. mill on Monday evening and as a result about two hundred pounds of flour was missed next morning.

Mr. J. D. Irvine, our precinct registrar, has added several new names to the registration list.

A fine new fence has been placed around the Central school house grounds.

The hum of the thresher is heard on all hands.

The marriage of Mr. Argent Butler of this place to Mrs. Caroline Larson of Santaquin is the latest to the matrimonial list. ONEYEAR.

PROVO WOOLEN MILLS.

Manager Cutler Submits a Proposition to the Employees.

At the meeting of the employees of the Provo Woolen mills on Saturday afternoon, a proposition was submitted to them by Manager Cutler. He explained that the mills had been running on borrowed money, but this could not be continued for the reason that money could not at present be obtained even on the best security. An immense stock of goods, with but small prospect of sale, was on hand. An order had been received for cloth for 5000 suits for the California militia, but this cloth could not be manufactured except at a heavy loss, unless other goods were manufactured in connection therewith. Under these circumstances and before closing the deal, he desired an acceptance or rejection by the employees of his proposition—to run the mills six days a week and pay one half in cloth and one half in produce. Where are we to get money to pay our taxes? Where are the coal, tea, coffee and sugar coming from?—were questions uppermost in the minds of those who sat behind the loom and spinning wheels as they walked into the mills to seriously consider the proposition. In twenty minutes they returned and notified the management that the proposition had been accepted for they would return to first principles, trust for some tax money, burn wood instead of coal, and get along the very best they could under the circumstances until times brightened up a little.

It has been suggested that the county court and city council should make some provisions for the payment of the taxes of the woolen mills hands by accepting cloth in part, or be paid to county and city officials on their salary accounts.

A Divorce Wanted.

Amelia M. Carson has filed suit in the First district court to obtain a divorce from Samuel D. Carson. Mrs. Carson resides in Pleasant Grove and Mr. Carson in Camp Floyd. Plaintiff asks for the severance of the matrimonial bonds on the ground of adultery, alleged to have been committed by defendant with Mary Carson October 19th, 1892. Plaintiff also asks that defendant be enjoined from disposing of his property pending the suit.

Carson was arrested a week since on the charge of adultery alleged to have been committed with Mary Carson, his stepdaughter, who recently gave birth to a child.

Mortgage Foreclosure.

Suit has been brought by the Mount Pleasant Commercial & Savings bank against John Lowry & Son et al for the foreclosure of a mortgage of $2100.

Obstructions on the Tracks.

A badly-frightened boy was young Mr. Hanks of Salem, who was lodged in the county jail on Saturday on the charge of placing obstructions on the Rio Grande Western track in Emery county, where he had gone with his father. The boy could neither eat nor sleep in the jail, but did nothing but cry and protest his innocence. He claimed that he was removing obstacles from the track which he had found there when the certain man came up. As the railroad people did not award out a complaint within the required time, Attorney Christensen intervened and secured the boy's release.

Road Lock in the County Court.

Thomas Fowler has resigned assessor of Utah County, and John A. Brown of Provo and James E. Hall, of Springville, are applicants for the position. The resignation of Fowler's successor came up in the county court on Friday. Brown received the votes of Judge James and Selectmen Fowler, and Hall the votes of Selectmen Jones and Deal. Several ballots were cast, but the result was each time the same. The matter came again on Saturday, but there was still no change.

On Monday the matter will again be considered.

University Lands.

A number of residents of Provo bench, who have settles on university lands, are quietly watching over contrary counsel a scheme on the part of James H. Jennings of Salt Lake City and C. H. Lloose of Provo to sell them of their farms. The lands were placed on the market in accordance with the territorial law of 1892, and purchased by the two gentlemen referred to, the advertisements of the sale being so obscure that the attention of the Bench settlers was not attracted to them. Several lawsuits have been brought on the lands by the purchasers or their agents. It is stated, to comply with the technical requirements of the law. Some of the interested parties are willing to compromise, but others wish to carry the matter into the courts.

Distressing Accident.

The five-year-old girl of William Loveridge, of Alpine, met with a painful accident last week. Mr. Loveridge was mowing his meadow, and the little one, in her play, came too close to the mower and was caught by the knife. Her ankle was cut through and the foot was left hanging by a small strip of skin and flesh. It is feared the limb cannot be saved. The family is not in the best of circumstances, and this blow falls very heavily. The kind hearted people of Alpine will doubtless come to their assistance at this trying time.

Sold Under the Hammer.

Sixty acres of farm and meadow land belonging to the Streetworks in Springville were sold at auction on Saturday by Deputy Marshal Fowler, on the suit of the Molino Sheep company. The property was bought in for $4500 by Mr. Lewis of Salt Lake City, a representative of the bank.

Notes and Personals.

In response to a telegram to the effect that his father was failing in health, Reg Sanford has returned from Harvard. He will not go back to his studies until times improve.

Deputy Registrar Snell is making his rounds.

Receiver Brennan has complied with the instructions of Judge Smith in commencing suit against the delinquent stockholders of the Sun Foundry, the names and amounts of alleged delinquency of whom were published some time since in the News.

"All this rain makes the corn climb up," is the song of the farmers today.

The Union Pacific train, from Salt Lake, due at Provo at 8:30, was one hours late last night. A washout between Sandy and Lehi Junction caused the delay.
