It is reported that a rich discovery of placer gold has been made by Ogden parties in a small canyon this side of Devil's Gate in Weber canyon.

The Burlington Hawker says—The season throughout eastern Col rado has been peculiarly favorable for stock, and the "cattle on a thousand hills" are prospering and growing fat day by day.

The fifteen-year old daughter of Mr. Chock was accidentally shot in the thigh a few days ago by her brother, who was cleaning a loaded pistol. She was placed under chloroform and the ball extracted.

The new school board has practically accepted of plans submitted by Architect Kenlow, who will put up a bond that the building can be erected for twelve thousand dollars.—Richfield Advocate.

Elmer Chock of Monroe has been arrested on the charge of seduction, preferred by Miss Florence Golding, the victim, and brought to Salina. He has since been bound over to the grand jury.—Salina Press.

For several days this week western Nevada has been enveloped in a thick, meshwater fog, not unlike a pogonip. The air is very frosty and cold are prevalent. The weather of one week ago was as perfect as could be—warm with sunshine.

Four saloons in Richfield have been found to be too many and Dr. Hetten an Clayton Tannett have each one out of the business. Mr. Hettert is engaged in the manufacture of his Cascade bitters, and Mr. Tannett has sold out to Pat Gallagher.

The Idaho state board of charities and reforms, which began investigations at the Laramie penitentiary on Monday morning and which took testimony bearing on the recent fights between convicts and wardens on the county, have adjourned till February 7th.

Some of the rustling residents of Millard county have made arrangements for the securing of water for 160,000 acres of land near Leamington, and a colony of German Hebrews, consisting of about three hundred families, will locate there next spring. They are all sturdy old farmers, and their settlement in Utah is looked forward to as a valuable addition to the territory.

A serious if not fatal accident has occured in the Bobtail incline at Park Hawk, Colo. Pietro Cortez, a young Austrian, being through with his shift, rang the bell to hoist. The engineer and the unfortunate Pietro Cutor was caught between the car and steam pipe. He received internal injuries and it is feared his back is broken.

John Terrill lost his son John over nine years ago, the lad having been killed by lightning. The body was buried in the Golden cemetery. Recently Mr. Terrill found out that for nine years past he has paid for taking care of another grave than that of his boy. Flowers have been frequently put on the grave by family and friends, while the grave they intended to decorate has been neglected.

At the annual meeting of the Calumet Mining company, held at Menlon, Colo., an important proposition was made. It was that the Pharmacy and Calumet companies consolidate, with a capital stock of $3,000,000, the Pharmacy to take $2,000,000, and the Calumet the remainder. The proposition was left in the hands of the board of directors, to accept or reject as they may deem advisable.

St. James M. E. Church at the corner of South Ninth street and Colfax avenue has been attached by the General Electric Light company for a bill of $114.60. The church was in the hands of Al Johnson, custodian for Justice Sidger's court, yesterday afternoon, but a bond for the payment of the debt has been secured by the pastor, the Rev. G. W. Ray, and the congregation has the use of the building. The amount of the claim has been raised by subscription.

The coal business has again assumed a place which will be of a great deal of interest to the people of Laramie, says the Boomerang. The combine are very active, and for the past two weeks have had powerful and influential friends at work. It is authoritatively reported that the combine, through Mr. Megath of the coal department of the Union Pacific, is endeavoring to purchase the Black Butte mines. The price the owners place on the mine is said to be $25,000, but it is believed that $20,000 would buy it.

F. P. Madison, a Midland passenger conductor, has had a narrow escape at Colorado City. He was on an electric car going west and got off while the car was in motion in the middle of a block. As he stepped off on the right side he swung around the end of the car to cross both tracks. Before he could move the second track a car going from the opposite direction struck him. Mr. Madison was thrown outward from the track, the result would have been serious. As it was he sustained a scalp wound three inches long and had his right hand nearly cut off.

Governor Waite at Denver has been approached by a delegation from the German Turn verein, who desire that he take a position in behalf of their Sunday evening concerts. The governor told them that he knew nothing concerning the arrests by the fire and police boards authority on the previous evening except the information conveyed through the press. He knew no reason why he would interfere in the execution of the law which has been placed on the statute books by a state legislature. What might be his opinion of the law he would not say. As an individual his views were one thing; as governor of the state his duty was another.

As the Rock Island passenger train approached Pizon station, ten miles south of Pueblo, Col., on Tuesday morning at a speed of forty miles an hour, the engineer was horrified to see a small child lodged in a cattle guard only a short distance ahead of him. He was going too fast to stop, but made an effort to do so, and the train came to a standstill after having passed over the child with six coaches. The trainmen ran to the place and found the little fellow—who was only two years old—unhurt, excepting a few bruises about the head, caused by gravel thrown by the force of the train. He was found tightly wedged between the rails with but little more than his head exposed above them. He was crying lustily when released from his dangerous place. He is the son of John Scarlo, the Rio Grande section foreman at that place.

Industrial improvements are with the order of the day at the coal pits in South Santa Fe county, New Mexico, says a special to the Denver News. At the Waldo or Rogers mine forty-two neat cottages are already completed and the company, under the supervision of Architect Joseph Marshall of Topeka, Kan., is putting up a store building 50x100 feet in basement. The main building is of cut stone and brick. The temporary offices of the company are here, Superintendent Herrecke and Bookkeeper Sewell occupying one of the commodious located cottages while Joseph Bickham, the company's engineer, is at present domiciled at the miners' supply depot, a large building literally packed with supplies. Underground the work has been progressing in the same extensive driving stopes, sloping rooms and putting in machinery and chutes. Similar improvements are being made at the White Ash pits. At the Lucas pits, just above the White Ash, an army of mechanics have begun work on a $30,000 hard coal-breaking plant and various other works. Similar improvements, the building of additional houses and stores and roads even will be pushed through the entire year. About 500 men are now at work in the coal fields and this number is being gradually increased. It is expected that within the year the number of employes will reach fifteen hundred.
