REJECTED cases, even in most cases can be obtained by us.

Models should be sent us when practicable. The U. S. Patent Department has a model from every patent issued since its organization, and is the largest in the world, and is constantly receiving additions from the patents issued by the Government.

INVENTORS should be careful how they place their business in the hands of others who may be ignorant of the business, or who may be unfriendly to the interests of the inventor. We refer to Hon. Thos. Ewing, ex-Secretary of the Interior, and to officials in the Patent Office, by permission. Our Manual, containing the Patent Law and Rules and Forms for obtaining Patents, sent free everywhere. The "World" and its Compositors.

NEW YORK, 26.—There is trouble in the New York World office with the compositors. They heard this afternoon that a reduction in wages, or substituting non-union men, was contemplated, and a committee waited on Mr. Hurlbut, but got no decisive answer. At 9 30 o'clock to-night all the compositors were discharged peremptorily by the publisher, and a bach of new hands marched into the composing room. A strong force of police was on hand and no trouble occurred. The old hands left in a body. Much excitement prevails. The World doorways are guarded and the stairway is lined with policemen. Typographical Union No. 6 will act on the matter to-morrow.

Wool Market.

Wool is very quiet; sales, 13,000 pounds of spring California at 16; 4,000 pounds of fall at 12.

The Acklen Affair.

NEW ORLEANS, 25.—D. P. Penn, a member of the Acklen investigating committee, furnishes a synopsis of the evidence on which that committee took action unfavorable to Acklen. He accuses Acklen of duplicity in dealing with the committee, and goes on to show that evidence was produced to the effect that Acklen, after intimacy with the daughter of his plantation manager, was active in marrying her to a hostler on his place; that the hostler deserted her in a few days, and that the girl soon after was delivered of a child, and gradually sank lower in social life, dying of yellow fever in September.

Swamp Lands.

WASHINGTON, 26. — Secretary Schurz, to-day, officially denied the application made by Senator Grover, that certain lands around the Little Klamath be certified to the State of Oregon, as swamp lands. The Secretary directs the general land office to proceed, under the rules already established, for an adjustment of the Oregon swamp land grant, which he says, will protect all parties in interest, whether pre-emption settlers, or claimants under state titles, and afford them a full opportunity to present the testimony.

Silver Bullion.

The Secretary of the Treasury, to-day, secured all the silver bullion he desired at below the London quotation.

A Poisonous Pill.

Peter McNamara, a well known resident of this city, died yesterday afternoon, his death being the result of poison in the system by the bite of a man named Danaher, with whom he had an altercation over two months ago.

Robbing Himself.

CHICAGO, 26.—Charles L. Otto, a jeweler at Peoria, reported to the police there, this morning, that he had been robbed of $2,800 in cash and $10,000 in goods. An investigation indicated that Otto himself was the thief and he was arrested, his brother being held as an accomplice. Otto is a young German, who moved in the best German society there.

The Walking Match.

There seems no chance for Campana to make 450 miles in six days walk, and it looks, even, as if O'Leary would not make much over that figure. Campana finished his 200th mile at 9 30, and his trainer says he will come on the track at 1 o'clock a. m. to-morrow, and walk and run until 8 o'clock. At 10 o'clock O'Leary completed his 285th mile, at which time he was 25 miles ahead of Campana, who was in bed. O'Leary remained on the track steadily increasing his lead.

A Defaulting Clerk.

The managers of the Fidelity Safety Deposit vaults were somewhat disturbed, this afternoon, by the unusual absence of George A. Blaike, assistant custodian, who, for some years past, has been the only man possessing the combination of the special deposit branch of the vaults. Up to a late hour tonight he has not been found, and suspicion which, however, may have no foundation is entertained that he may have violated his trust and absconded. The amount of property in the special vault is a matter of speculation—it might have been very large or very insignificant.

Later—Blaike was found by a bank policeman, on the West Side, this evening, and confessed that, under a financial pressure, he had abstracted a package of the value of about $1,000, intending to return it. The vault was opened and the contents, with this exception, found to be intact.

The Election Law Violated.

The Journal's Washington special says: The trial of democrats in South Carolina for violating the federal election laws and for interfering with federal officials while in the performance of their duty, will not take place until some time in February. It is understood here that leading democrats are interesting themselves in these cases, and that already sufficient money to obtain the services of lawyers of distinction to defend the accused, has been raised. It is quite probable that government will also employ special counsel to assist the United States district attorney, as the trials are regarded as test cases, and as establishing the precedent whether federal election laws can be enforced or not. Chief Justice Waite will preside.

Notice of Contest.

Acting under advice of leading republicans, E. W. Mackey has served a notice of contest on Gen. M. P. Conner, who obtained a certificate of election as representative from Charleston, S. C. District. It is believed to be susceptible of proof that Conner owes his election to the stuffing of ballot-boxes with tissue tickets. In Charleston County, and his refusal to allow a large number of colored republicans to vote.

Murphy for the West.

The News' New York special says: Francis Murphy is going west. Last night he said he had received an invitation to come to that State and lecture, and he looked forward with pleasure to the visit.

Correspondence.

Christmas at Nephi.

MOUNT NEBO, Juab Co., Dec. 25th, 1878.

Editors Deseret News:

From my lofty height I gazed down upon my children dwelling at my feet in the town of Nephi, and saw a sight that pleased me. In my time I have gazed upon many many scenes, have dwelt in solitude when the hum of life and industry was hushed, and silence, almost painful, ruled. But now the scene is changed, and has been since my peaceful vales have been inhabited by the worshippers of the living God.

For a few days I noticed a busy work going on in the Nephi Meeting House. Young men with teams came up my slopes and bared me of some fine young pines which were taken to decorate and beautify that building. Pictures, flags and banners emblazoned with appropriate mottoes were tastefully hung around. Two of the pines on each side of the stand were converted into Christmas trees upon which a number of curious articles were made to appear to grow. Busy folks sat at a table writing names in books, on cards and pictures, working as diligently as if they were to receive the greatest reward for their labors. This morning, a real Christmas morning, everything was covered with snow, there poured forth a stream of life to that meeting house, teachers and scholars, all in joyful anticipation. Being seated the services commenced.

The Sabbath school choir sweetly sang, "Give us room that we may dwell." The Patriarch Jacob G. Bigler, sr., invoked the divine blessing. The Nephi brass band arrived, and accompanied the school, who sang "Jesus mighty king in Zion." Counselor Joel Grover expressed his joy at seeing so many smiling, happy faces, encouraged and blessed the children. School sang "We thank thee O God for a prophet."

Counselor K. H. Brown gave instructions on the birth of our Savior and the benefits resulting therefrom.

The school sang, "Oh, my Father."

Superintendent Wm. H. Warner addressed the school expressive of the joy and satisfaction of this joyous meeting.

County Superintendent George Teasdale moved a vote of thanks to the committee on decorations, Bros. L. A. Bailey, B. Riches, T. Bellerton, and Sisters A. C. Bigler, Kate Love, Mary Udall, and assistants.

School sang, "Mid scenes of confusion."

Sister Amelia Goldsborough addressed the school in a very feeling and affectionate manner.

Music by the band.

Sabbath school choir sang, "My God the Spring of all my joys."

A recitation by Sister A. C. Bigler, "Let us try to be happy."

A comic song from Bro. S. Shaw, greatly amused the children, followed by an interesting address by Sister Hannah Grover.

The school sang "Our Own Sabbath School" with band accompaniment.

Bro. Geo. Kendall spoke encouragingly to the children.

School sang "The Standard of Zion."

Patriarch J. G. Bigler, Sr., invited the children to visit his family Christmas tree at home and blessed the children.

Bro. A. Orme moved a vote of thanks to Supt. G. Teasdale for his labors in behalf of the Sabbath Schools.

A vote of thanks was given to Bros. G. Kendall, T. Crawley, Wm. Cutler, Mary Udall and Kate Love, committee on finance.

Supt. Teasdale expressed his pleasure at this happy meeting, and blessed the children.

The teachers were then supplied with the presents for the children, who received them with great joy.

The band enlivened the occasion with their fine music.

Packets of candy were then presented to all the school, and the County Superintendent made a few encouraging remarks with regard to the future labors of the school. Congregation sang, "The Spirit of God like a fire is burning," all standing, with band accompaniment, and were dismissed with prayer and blessing.

With light hearts and radiant faces, the happy children hastened home to display their presents to their parents and to tell of the happy time spent at our "Nephi Sabbath School."

Happy are thy children, O Zion: Whilst distress and calamity are overtaking the nations, peace and prosperity are within thy borders. Surely thy inhabitants should be grateful for so many blessings from the bountiful hand of thy glorious redeemer, whose praise was so celebrated, this happy, long to be remembered day.
