SUNDAY SERVICES.

Elders Henry Dinwoodey, Victor Wells and Charles W. Penrose Address the Saints.

The services at the Tabernacle yesterday afternoon were presided over by President Angus M. Cannon.

Choir sang:

Glory shall with joy unfringed
Pass, sign of power divine.

Prayer was offered by Elder Will. H. Fowler.

Choir further sang:

Thus refreshed we go our course,
Compel life's cross to meet.

Elder Henry M. Dinwoodey, who returned from a mission to Europe some ten months ago, was the first speaker. Just three years ago, said the speaker, he left his home in response to a call to go upon a mission to Great Britain. At that time he had not a testimony of the Gospel, but as he had been taught to honor and respect those in authority in the Church from his youth up, he felt that to respond to the call was but his duty and he therefore respected the authorities and engineered to the utmost some. He had been premised before going away that if he would put his trust in the Lord while laboring in the ministry he would be had a matter of which time until he had received a testimony. Upon arriving in England he was assigned to the London conference wherein he then to yield obedience to the instructions and advice given him and he was pleased to state that a testimony had been given unto him as promised. His labors in the mission field had been a source of joy and satisfaction unto him and he could now see that God's work had indeed been established on the earth with all its ancient purity and holiness.

Jesus Christ first cried unto the people to seek first the kingdom of God.

He further said that He came not to do His own will but the will of His Father, who dwell in the heavens. He also showed His disciples to be disciples of God's Church and kingdom by going down into the waters of baptism and being immersed therein in an as example unto all nations upon the earth. Those who had faith and repented for the remission of their sins, and after which He went forth among the people crying unto them to repent and be baptized, but the judgment of God he compared unto tares. Jesus in His ministry sent to His assistance the weak men of the earth, those who were humble, for in them He could see the good work could be accomplished. So it was in these latter-days. God had called to his assistance Joseph Smith the prophet, a young, unlettered man, whom He made the instrument in His hands in bringing about the restoration of the Gospel.

The town in Egypt in ancient times were been had with Israel of the Church and Kingdom of God to these days; and it was necessary for the people to yield obedience thereto in those times, it was just as essential for them to obey the principles of the Gospel in these days. The Gospel had been established upon the earth in these last days; God had given his laws unto the people and He exercised otherwise unto them, and use promised certain blessings unto those who would obey. Therefore it should be Saints to have courage, strengthen their hand and to strive to serve Him with all diligence. In conclusion Elder Dinwoodey bore his testimony to the truthfulness of the Gospel. He knew that the same power and authority was upon the earth today as anciently, and testified that those who would serve him with full purpose of heart, would eventually be exalted in the celestial kingdom.

Elder Victor Wells, a recent arrival from the British mission, was next introduced to the congregation. He had listened with great interest to the remarks of the preceding speaker and felt to endorse every word that had been uttered. His experience in the missionary field has been such as to cause him to appreciate the work in this more so than he had ever done before, and when he looked back upon the privileges and pleasures which he had enjoyed in, he felt sorry that he had wasted so much precious time. Since returning home he had been led to contemplate the thoughts upon the many opportunities that the Saints in these valleys allowed to pass by without advantage. Here Temples had been erected wherein the Saints were given an opportunity to perform ordinances for the salvation of the dead, and how many took advantage of these privileges? He was sorry to say that many of these precious privileges were not held in more high esteem as the Saints should hold them. In England where had seen nothing, the people were in a vastly different condition religiously. Those who belonged to other denominations, had their beautiful enthusiasm to assemble in but the blessings and privileges which were given unto the Latter-day Saints, were not with them. The Saints should learn to appreciate the blessings of God toward them, that they might reap the full benefits of a merciful God in His Church.

Elder Wells had his much joy while promulgating the principles of the Gospel in England and he felt that the experience which he had gained was worth to him more than silver and gold. He was proud to contemplate the fact that he was numbered with the Saints of Christ and hoped that he would be able to continue faithful and to march all the blessings promised unto those who would do the will of the Father and keep His commandments. In closing he asked God's blessing to rest with the Saints in the extent that they might be led to faithfulness and diligence in His Church and kingdom.

Elder Charles W. Penrose was the next speaker. He could not help noticing the remarkable similarity in the remarks of the Elders when they returned from the mission field. This was an evidence to him that ears of the young brethren were following a similar course in preaching the Gospel. They used their time in explaining the first principles, and if they did not have a testimony of the work when they left their homes, they had been given a testimony while in the pursuit of their labors. The Elders, upon returning to their homes, were generally humble and felt that they could state all that they had never hoped to have in the Gospel work. To see the Elders in such a condition was gratifying and his prayer was that they might ever remain true and faithful to the Church of which they were members.

The speaker, in an excellent doctrinal discourse, then went on and showed unto those assembled that the time would come when all mankind, not a very few, would be given an opportunity to be numbered with Israel, but that only after they had paid the penalty for the sins they had committed on the earth. He likewise touched on the benefits to be derived from obeying the Gospel on the earth showing that such an action brought with it inestimable blessings and closed by asking God to help His people to press forward in the attempt to bring about a better state of affairs in the earth and to extend unto their fellowmen an invitation to join with them in the service of God.

Choir sang the anthem:

Israel's God will not be moved.

Benediction was pronounced by Elder Elias Morris.

For Fine Photographs.

Cartlidge, the Lodge Mandolin and Guitar club, Miss Sallie K. C. Fisher and Mrs V. M. C. Silva.

A Struggle in the Storm.

About 5 o'clock yesterday evening a squall blew up at Saltair and lashed the usually placid waters of the lake into foamy billows for nearly an hour. A couple of young fellows were at the time on the platform to the northwest of the pavilion. One of the two could swim, but the other was not so much at home in the water. A big crowd gathered at the railing to see the bathers struggle against the turbulent billows. By slow degrees they neared the swimming point, but before reaching a landing the swimmer was obliged to turn back to assist his companion, who was frantically calling for help. Both were exhausted when they reached the landing.

A Remarkable Cure for Rheumatism

Westminster, Cal., March 21, 1894.—Some time ago, my sweetheart was malaria, I found that I had rheumatism in my knee so badly that, as I remarked to my wife, it would be impossible for me to attend to business that day. Remembering that I had some Chamberlain's Pain Balm in my store, I went for a bottle, and rubbed the stiff joint thoroughly with it, according to directions, and within an hour I was completely relieved. One application did wonders for me. It is the best liniment on the market, and I tell it on my positive guarantee. E. T. HARRIS. For sale by druggists.

Some time ago I was taken sick with a pain in the stomach, followed by diarrhoea. I took a couple of doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy and was immediately relieved. I consider it the best medicine in the market for all such complaints. I have sold the remedy to others and every one who uses it speaks highly of it. J. W. SCHUCKER, Valley Center, Cal. For sale by druggists.

Having used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family and found it to be a first class article, I take pleasure in recommending it to my friends. J. V. FOSTER, Westport, Cal. For sale by druggists.
