THE TORREN'S BILL.

Purport of the Illinois Bill Introduced by Allison.

DEAF AND DUMB INSTITUTE.

Propositions to Incorporate and Separate It from the University—Other Legislative Work.

Business was transacted in the Senate yesterday afternoon after the NEWS went to press as follows: The reading of the Torren's land bill introduced by Allison was proceeded with until clerks and Senators alike were seized with fatigue. The measure is one that was recently given effect in Illinois. At that time it received no extended editorial review in these columns. Although it appears to be an excellent system and will doubtless be given very careful consideration. It provides for a uniform system of registry of lands throughout the State; that records and exemplifications of deeds in the several counties in the State shall be registrars of titles and their deputies deputy registrars; fixes the bond to be given by registrars and deputies, which is $20,000, except in counties of more than 100,000 people, when the penalty shall be $100,000; fixes the duties of deputies, forbid registrars to practise law, authorizes each registrar to appoint two attorneys to be examiners of titles and legal advisers and define the liability of registrars for acts of their deputies.

It provides first for the registry of the fee simple to land, after which mortgages and other charges can be registered. No tax title can be registered except the party holding it can prove possession under the title for ten years. The registrar shall investigate each application made for registry, and if he finds it an representation, shall issue a certificate of title to the applicant. The registrar shall publish a weekly statement of all first registrations. Certificates of title shall be made out in duplicate, one copy to be filed with the registrar and the other to be given the applicant. The registrar shall note at the end of each certificate the particulars of all estates, mortgages and encumbrances to which the title is subject. The registrar shall keep a book, to be "Register of Titles," in which he shall enter all original certificates, either by binding or writing them.

The fees of the registrar shall be as stipulated in the last and 86th section which is as follows:

On the filing of any application for first registration, the applicant shall advance the sum of $15, which shall be in full of all services of the registrar and examiners up to the granting of the certificate title. When the application includes titles derived from more than one source, an additional sum of $5 for each source shall be advanced.

For granting certificate of title upon each application and registering the same, $2.

For registering each transfer, including the filing of all instruments connected therewith, and the issue and registration of the new certificate of title, $5.

When the land transferred is held upon any trust, condition or limitation, an additional fee of $2.

For entry of each memorial on the register, including the filing of all instruments and papers connected therewith, and endorsements upon duplicate certificates, $2.

For filing copy of will with letters testamentary, or filing copy of letters of administration, and entering memorial thereof, $5.

For the cancellation of each memorial or charge, $1.

For each certificate showing condition of the register, $1.

For any certified copy of register or any instrument or writing on file in his office, the same fees now allowed by law to recorders of deeds for like services.

Allison also introduced Senate Bill No. 4, providing for the incorporation of the Utah State School for the deaf and dumb and the government thereof. The institution is by this bill separated in all particulars from the State University.

Five trustees will govern the school. The first board shall be appointed in 1896, two to serve to July 1, 1895, two to serve until July 1, 1896, and one until July 1, 1902. The vacancies shall be filled by election or appointment bi-annually and the term of office shall be for six years. The Governor may fill vacancies by appointment.

The board shall elect a president and appoint a superintendent, secretary and treasurer and shall have the power of removal for incompetency. The school shall occupy the present building for the remainder of the fiscal year, but before September 1, 1896, shall be moved to the site provided by law.

SILVER RESOLUTION.

Warner introduced Senate Joint Resolution No. 1 as follows:

Whereas, The country has been oppressed by unfriendly and unwise legislation in Congress, in which silver has been demonetized, and

Whereas, As a consequence of such legislation, the people generally are suffering, prices of property, produce and labor reduced, business paralyzed and confidence destroyed; therefore, be it

Resolved, By the Senate and Legislative Assembly of the State of Utah, that the Congress of the United States be memorialized immediately to remonetize silver and provide for the free and unlimited coinage at a ratio of 16 to 1 with gold, without waiting for the action of any other nation, and thus insure the return of prosperity and confidence to business in the region, and your memorialists will ever pray.

After some discussion the resolution went to the table temporarily on a strict party vote, the Democrats favoring its passage under a suspension of the rules and the Republicans alleging that such party action was unnecessary.

Rules governing the actions of the Senate were adopted and the appointment of the following committees agreed upon:

Judiciary, 7 members; ways and means, 7; public lands, 7; State affairs, 7; education, 7; irrigation and agriculture, 7; elections, 5; appropriations and claims, 7; railroads, 7; mines and minerals, 7; bank and banking, 5; counties and municipal corporations, 5; federal relations, 5; public institutions and buildings, 7; private corporations and insurance, 5; public health, 5; public printing, 5; manufactures and commerce, 5; fish, 5; engrossed and enrolled bills, 5; appointment, 5; military affairs, 5; highways and bridges, 5; game and game laws, 5.

HOUSE.

An invitation to visit the poultry show was accepted.

Several minor matters were disposed of and an adjournment taken until 2 p.m. today.

In the House.

Condon in the House (H. B. No. 3) to repeal an act to provide for the support of the deaf and dumb and blind, approved March 6, 1890, so as to provide as a fund for the deaf and dumb and blind the money of any person under the age of 18 years, and providing a penalty of not less than three years nor more than fifteen for the first offense and not less than five years nor more than thirty for each subsequent offense, and providing a lesser penalty when the male is under fifteen years of age.

H. B. No. 5, by Nebeker, passed.

It provides that until otherwise provided by law, the secretary of state, county and district court clerks, county recorders, sheriffs, assessors of weights and measures and county surveyors are required to collect fees for all services rendered in pursuance of chapters 2 and 3, par. 19 of the session laws of 1895. The money to be covered into the proper treasuries.

Crouchon offered a substitute to H. B. No. 1, introduced by Nye, providing for holding courts and commencing cases on the same. Referred after a long and wearisome debate.

After the appointment of the following committees, an adjournment was taken until 2 p. m. today:

Rules—Taylor of Salt Lake, chairman; Nye of Salt Lake, Condon of Weber, Ferguson of Carbon, Nebeker of Cache, Riggs of Davis, and Mansfield of Wayne.

Judiciary—Crouchon of Salt Lake, chairman; Nye, Lewis and Ferguson of Salt Lake, Ferguson of Carbon, Nebeker of Box, Maddox of Wasatch, Hodgson of Cache and Howard of Sevier.

Agricultural College Press Bulletin

The NEWS has received from the Agricultural College of Utah the Fourth biennial report of the board of trustees to the Legislative Assembly, and the sixth annual report of the experiment station. The report gives an explicit statement of the General receipts of the College, and the relations of the National government and of the State of Utah to the institution. The mission of the land grant colleges is plainly set forth, together with a summary of the courses offered and the work of instruction pursued at the College. The book is illustrated with halftone engravings of the different buildings and rooms, and contains representations of pen drawings of specimens, showing the regular work of the class room. It contains in a brief and striking manner the advantages of higher and practical training—offered free in the College to all qualified applicants.

By sending a written request to the Agricultural College, Logan, Utah, a copy of the report will be mailed to any address.

At the Infirmary.

Richard G. Lismert, who was elected superintendent of the county infirmary at the last session of the county court, entered upon the discharge of his duties today. Mr. Miller, the new matron has also taken charge of her department.

The Mercur King.

The Mercur King Mining company filed articles of incorporation in the office of the county clerk yesterday. The number of shares of stock subscribed by each incorporator is as follows: E. A. Wall, 80,000; E. L. Sloan, 10,000; George W. Thatcher, 24,000; George E. Blair, 216,000; A. W. Mathews, 12,000; R. W. Sloan, 4,000; George Romney Jr, 9,000; Charles M. Smith, 9,000; H. W. Sloan, trustee, 11,000; J. R. Walker, trustee, 6,000. The capital stock is fixed at $1,000,000 divided into 200,000 shares of the par value of $5 each, 150,000 of which are issued. The officers are George W. Thatcher, President; George Romney Jr. vice president; George E. Blair, secretary and treasurer, and these, with E. A. Wall and E. L. Sloan, constitute the board of directors.

The company owns the Golden Fleece, Golden Circle, South Beau and Gable End all claims situated in the Camp Floyd district.

The Practical Situation.

We have never known a case of international dispute in which, on all grounds, a settlement by arbitration seemed more urgently advisable; and Lord Salisbury's denial of our friendly request seems to us as reckless and as evil a thing as modern history can show. His strongest argument for the Monroe doctrine is wholly offensive to us as a nation. But Salisbury will not always be prime minister; and that which is right and just should triumph in our relations with England without one single blot of an unpeaceful by-history. We anticipate as we wish, believe Lord Salisbury wrong and President Cleveland and Secretary Olney right regarding the applicability of the Monroe doctrine and the principles of arbitration to the Venezuela difficulty. It does not seem to us that the resources of diplomacy have been by any means exhausted. We are confident that the Venezuelan question will be settled within the year, 1896, and that the sober, peace-loving people of England and the United States will not take out to hate each other or to fight each other. It would be entirely impracticable for us to send a commission to the region in dispute; but we heartily approve of the plan of a commission sitting in Washington who will give our Government concerning the downright merits of the controversy. Meanwhile, it is not in the least necessary or desirable to contemplate hostilities as a result of the fight which such a commission may throw upon the burning question. The question involved are intellectual ones which can be as readily determined in Washington as anywhere else. The controversy is one of at least 30 years' standing, and all the facts have been already completely unearthed. All that Great Britain can claim has been printed in British blue-books; and, moreover, Lord Salisbury's letter contains the best presentation of the British case that experts could make with all added time at their disposal. President Cleveland's commission, assuming that it will be duly appointed, will have merely to lay to the merits of these claims already presented by Great Britain, and to examine the Venezuelan claims, which, with all the evidence that it presents, have already been carefully considered.—From January Review of Reviews.

The Breeding Boar.

First, the boar should be kept in a lot separate from the sows. A grass lot is preferable where he can have plenty of exercise and in summer time plenty of shade and pure water. Feed good, healthful food, not much corn. Ground oats and ground wheat, about two-thirds oats and one-third wheat, make an excellent food. In winter, or through the breeding season, feed some oilmeal once or twice a week; also give him turpentine, as the oil is to reinvigorate his flesh and helps to keep him vigorous. Don't let the boar get too poor. It is a mistake to let him get as poor as Job's turkey. To get lots of pigs the boar should be kept in good, healthy condition, not too fat, to make him sluggish, or too poor, not in as good health as possible to get good, strong, healthy pigs. We should remember that this is laying the foundation of success in the coming pig crop. If the pigs come weakly and diseased, no amount of feed will bring them out.

The service of the boar is very important, and which a great many mistakes are made. Some will turn the boar in with the sow, or several sows, perhaps, and let them run with him all through the period of heat. The boar will no doubt serve a sow six or eight times during her heat. This will run him down, until he will not get full, strong litters. Every breeder and farmer as well as those who raise hogs should have a breeding box. This can easily be made of common fence boards 1 by 6 inches. Make it 16 to 18 inches wide, 20 inches high and 3 feet long, without top or bottom. Nail a 2 inch slat across the bottom of the rear end of the box, then make a bridge 3 feet long, 2 feet wide and 2 inches high. Place this at the rear end of the box. When the sow is in, this will give the boar seven inches elevation, and in this way he can serve the larger sow without straining himself. One service is enough; then put the sow in a quiet place by herself until she goes out of heat. This is for large sows and large boars. If a small sow and large boar are used, put a temporary bottom in the box to raise the sow. Always watch and assist the sow by placing a broad board under her belly to hold her up. In this way small sows may be bred to heavy boars.—Rural Breeders' Journal.

LOSS OF VOICE
After Acute Bronchitis
CURED BY USING
AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

A PREACHER'S EXPERIENCE.

"Three months ago I took a violent cold which resulted in an attack of acute bronchitis. I put myself under medical treatment, and at the end of two months was no better. I found it very difficult to preach, and concluded to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. The first bottle gave me great relief; the second, which I am now taking, has relieved me almost entirely of all unpleasant symptoms, and I feel sure that one or two bottles more will effect a permanent cure. To all ministers suffering from throat troubles, I recommend Ayer's Cherry Pectoral."—E. M. BRAWLEY, D. D., Dist. Secretary, Am. Bapt. Publication Society, Petersburg, Va.
