THEY NOW HAVE TEN

Difficulties in Getting a Jury in the Hyde Murder Trial.

NEARLY ALL HAVE OPINIONS

And Are Excused From Service—Pleas Made for Exemption of a Deputy Fruit Tree Inspector.

The criminal division of the Third district court, presided over by Judge Hiles, is attracting great public interest at present on account of the trial of Harry Hyde, a well-known sporting man of this city, for the murder of Walter J. Dowdoley.

The indictment against the defendant charges him with murder in the first degree. The main circumstances of the case are these: In the latter part of February last Harry Hyde left this city for a visit to Montana which he expected would occupy several days. He returned home, however, on Sunday, March 1st, and reached his residence a little after 4 o'clock in the morning. In answer to repeated knocks by the husband, Mrs. Hyde opened the door. She was in her nightdress and appeared to be somewhat nervous in her manner. A little later on Hyde discovered Walter J. Dowdoley in a small close in the act of viewing himself. The husband naturally jumped to the conclusion that the relations between his wife and Dowdoley were criminal and he ordered the intruder from his house, at the same time commanding Mrs. Hyde to make preparations for a similar excursion. The woman became very much excited and manifestly exclaimed: "What will become of me now?" when Dowdoley, who was by this time partially dressed, said: "Come with me, Maude; I'll take care of you." The words had scarcely left the doomed man's lips when the enraged husband fired three shots in rapid succession at Dowdoley, who fell to the floor. All three bullets had entered the body of young Dowdoley and the wound caused by either one would alone have proven fatal. The wounded man was taken to St. Mark's hospital, where he died a short time afterwards, on the same day.

At the time the occurrence attracted widespread attention on account of the prominent family connections of Walter Dowdoley. The parents of the deceased received the sympathy of all classes, while the outraged husband developed an equal number of friends who justified him in his deed.

Mrs. Hyde was 17 years old and very prepossessing and with many who were acquainted with the facts her intimacy with young Dowdoley had been state news for a year or more past. The young man was a bright fellow of twenty-four, who was very good looking and had many relatives among both the high and lowly.

THE LINE OF BATTLE.

It is the intention of the defense to show and prove that the killing was done in the heat of extreme passion and was excusable under the statute which makes the taking of a life justifiable "in a sudden heat of passion caused by the attempt of any such offender to commit a rape upon his wife, daughter, sister, mother or other female relation, dependent, or to defile the same, or when the defilement has actually been consummated."

The prosecution will endeavor to show that the killing was not the result of the discovery by the husband of the criminal relations existing between his wife and the deceased, but that it was brought about later by the quarrel over the woman's fate and that it was committed after more or less deliberation. It is apparently also proposed to establish the fact that Hyde's wife had before aware of the relations existing between his wife and Dowdoley, and that the woman's former reputation will come in for scrutiny. According to the statutes Mrs. Hyde cannot be compelled to testify against her husband, but that has not prevented the defense from admitting the killing. The sole defense of the prisoner will be on the line of justification.

GETTING THE JURY.

Three men out of thirty-eight examined for the jury was the result of yesterday's work and today the tedious process of getting the necessary number was continued. Many difficulties there are in the way of getting the jury, making an account of fatigue or expressed opinions or sympathy for the defendant or the family of the deceased.

To get twelve men who are entirely unbiased as to the case is a difficult matter, because the news of the killing spread like wildfire over the whole State and it was on everybody's lips within a few hours. All discussed the tragedy and naturally formed some kind of an opinion as to the justification or non-justification of the homicide, or set the foundation for a prejudice which has since in many all cases impressed. Now and then, however, one may be found who was confident he could judge the case and the whole family in the face of any personal misgivings he might have and he was allowed to keep his seat in the jury box.

Up to press time this afternoon sixty-six names had been drawn and their cases examined for service in the case. Of these the following were excused: D. T. Potter, J. W. Hoskins, Frank Weeb, Arthur Farnon, Jesse W. Fox, D. H. Neslen, J. W. Cline, F. W. Mathews, T. R. Ellsworth, A. L. Greene, Jos. S. Wells, C. R. Walt, Jas. Austin, Geo. F. Austin, Isaac Richards, Alex. Cosier, O. F. Miller, H. G. Cutler, M. E. Snyder, John Dabel.

Out of the sixty-six names there have been twenty-one excused or serve on the jury in the case. They are H. S. Hagerty, John Gallagher, Jas. Moffitt, J. W. Wakefield, Jas. Harry G. Cutler, Fred Gassmer, J. S. Rapson, William M. Hodge, Sam Harrisburg, John Doering.

Also A. Smith, J. D. Gillespie and John McDonald Jr. were under examination when our report left off.

A technical interest in the attempt to get a jury was in the case of Mr. Harrisburg, who was desirous of getting out of the serving. Mr. Harrisburg said he was justice of the peace in Sandy and he claimed exemption on that account. The children were excluded and it was discovered that the exemption applied to jurors holding county offices and as the juror said he was a precinct office Judge Hiles ruled that he was not exempt. Then upon Mr. Harrisburg announcing that he was a "deputy fruit-tree inspector," which "brought down the house," he is spared.

NEW TRIALS.

The Mineral County Mortgage company today filed in the Third district court a complaint in the amount of $[illegible] against E. C. H. Hoy.

C. S. Nicholls filed a satisfaction of judgment and discharge of the action against M. E. Coleman and others in consideration of $25 payment in full of all claims and as a nonjudgment.

An interlocutory decree was filed in the case of Gustavus A. Dumont vs. Max T. Thomas and the Dupont Gold Mining company.

PROVO VALLEY.

High Water on the River—Business Improvements.

Special Correspondence of the News.

CHARLESTON, Wasatch Co., June 1st, 1896.—Provo river is higher than it has been for twenty years. Much of the farming land is under water along the valley and the result will be serious to farmers in this county. The wagon bridge spanning the river between here and Midway is threatened. A gang has been put up warning travelers not to attempt to cross over it. Other bridges are in danger of being washed away. The road to many places between here and Provo city is under water and it is with difficulty that teams make the journey up or down the canyon. Those who are in a position to know report more snow on the head of the river than has been for a great many years.

The Charleston Creamery company are erecting a large factory here town, the old place becoming too cramped for their increasing business. This is a great source of revenue to the people in Provo valley. The latter turned out at this institution in cheese and nearly a ready market. The good people of Midway are preparing to establish a cheese factory at that burg. Crops and grass bid fair to a good yield.

Refreshing rains have visited the valley and everything appears fresh and fine.

A corps of surveyors are locating a line through Provo canyon on which the D. & R. G. W. will build a road to Park City. A large force of men are building a ditch in the canyon to convey water for the Provo river power plant and altogether the canyon makes quite a lively appearance. Road Supervisor Oliver Hawe of Provo is repairing the wagon road and when done the thoroughfare will be in fine shape.

Your blood in Spring is almost certain to be full of impurities—the accumulations of the whole winter. TOOK THE TICKET UP.

The Rev. Mr. Hermans Undoubtedly Reached Kansas City.

TRAVELED WITH HIS BAGGAGE.

Very Strong Proof That He Did Set Go North—The Idaho Man Evidently a "Double."

It may be that the Rev. Mr. Hermans is playing a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde game with the police and public. It may be that he has sought refuge in the tangled wilds of the Jackson's Hole country in Idaho. But the chances are as 10,000 to 1 that he is not within hundreds of miles of where Captain Dinwoodie and Detective Jenney and their drummer friend are seeking him. Evidence to substantiate this conclusion is multiplying hourly.

Yesterday the News sent telegraph tracers east with a view to ascertaining whether or not Hermans had purchased a ticket or transported yesterday and published last evening had been taken up. Those who were doubting still the fact that the News was bought have complied with the test that the News had traced the preacher's baggage to Kansas City proved nothing. It must also be proved, they contended that the ticket itself had actually been used, that it had been taken up by the Burlington & Missouri. That proof was difficult to obtain and was not forthcoming until this afternoon. The ticket was used by some person who traveled in and answered to Hermans's name. That person was unquestionably his name himself and no reasonable doubt remained that he doubled back on his journey as least in time to leave Ogden and go north on the night of May 31st unknown to anyone.

The ticket was taken up by a Burlington & Missouri conductor on the 8th or 9th of May and is now on file in the Omaha office.

Chief Frost received no tidings, telegraphically or otherwise, from Hermans and Jenney today. It would not be easy to do so, as these officers are now said to be in the Jackson Hole country far removed from telegraph and railroad service. Something definite may be learned tomorrow or next day.

HERMANS WAS A SAILOR.

Were Widower's Words at Oakland and Preached Eloquently.

San Francisco Chronicle of Sunday: Rev. Francis Hermans, who is so badly wanted in Salt Lake for the murder of Maurice Cohen and Annie Bannister, well known in Oakland, where he passed some weeks two years ago last August.

At that time Hermans was in attendance at the annual conference of the Norwegian and Danish Methodist church of the Pacific coast. This conference includes Utah, Montana, Washington, Oregon and California, which accounts for Hermans' presence in Oakland.

The conference lasted nearly a week. It was held in the pretty little Norwegian and Danish Methodist Episcopal church, on Twentieth street, near San Pablo avenue. Bishop Fitzgerald presided and next to him, perhaps, Hermans was the most important personage. It was a conference of missions and Hermans was secretary, secretary, partly because of his proficiency in English as well as the Scandinavian tongue.

At the time Hermans was here he was wearing widower's weeds for his third wife, who was recently dead. It is not regarded as improbable that all any of the mourning transported Scandinavian girls of Oakland.

During the day the exercises at the conference were conducted in English. In the evening the devotions were in Norwegian or Danish, whichever came most convenient to the minister in charge. Hermans, in addition to his duties as secretary, which he is said to have performed very adequately, spoke one evening and made a marked impression by his eloquence and appearance. He spoke in Norwegian and received many [illegible] to speak a second time.

Rev. August Pearson, the pastor of the Oakland church, asked Hermans informally and personally long before the latter came to Oakland. They used to correspond, but have not since their last meeting. Mr. Pearson knew Hermans' second and third wives. He says that the second wife, Miss Wenger of West Superior, whose death occurred in February, 1891, and after whom Pearson preached the funeral sermon, died from natural causes and was, in fact, honest. He married wife was a Miss Lowery of Iowa.

Mr. Pearson says that Hermans is a Swede, about 45 years of age, and was formerly a sailor. After his conversion he was interested in seamen's missions. He was a well-educated man, having earlier had a collegiate training.

AMUSEMENTS.

CARTER.—The announcement that Dumas' great story would be the bill at the Grand this week, with Jessica Rennick in the title role, elicited considerable diverse comment as to the ability of that lady to portray the lovely cosmopolitan woman of the world so graphically described by the French master in his La Dame Aux Camelias. The play is well known and has been given here so many times that an audience viewing it now is compared actually of critics as to the deadly hard work necessary to make the strong scenes effective, but Miss Rennick was equal to the occasion, and the appeal, graceful and powerful, bespoke a thorough mastery of the difficult role, which she portrayed anyhow and she was compelled to repeat a number of her exits. Her performance would rank favorably with that of any lady who has played the role in this city, and she is a good actress in the best and broadest acceptation. Mr. H. Cooper Cliffe shared the honors in the position of Count of Armand Duval, performing it in the most effective manner. Perhaps he presented the fourth act. Mr. Cliffe always thought was a favorite with us as an actor of care and study, but he fairly eclipsed himself as Duval. The balance of the cast was to the taste of Mrs. Cook as Madame Prudentia, Mr. Royce as Count De Varville, Sarah Truss as Nichette, Miss Gleason as Olympia, Chas. W. King as the valet Digby, Handsome as Gaston, Mr. Latshaw as Gustave and Helen Henry as Nanine the maid. Manager John R. Rogers was continually appointed when observed as the dealer the game of chance in the fourth act, but he might be prevailed upon to turn his face to the audience if only just once. Camille goes for the balance of the week.

THE LYCEUM.

A delighted house greeted the performance of Two of a Kind at the Lyceum last evening and the indicrous situations of the play met with hearty applause from the audience. Farce comedy inked with laughing and dancing seems to meet with the approval of a good many theater going people. Two of a Kind is one of a kind that is in the hands of Jas. F. Post, Villa Sayre and the balance of the Lyceum company will doubtless give much satisfaction.

MINOR MENTION.

In the police court today Pat Kiely was fined $15 for drunkenness, while Mike Donnelshaw and Hugh Hammond who were guilty of a similar offense, enriched the city treasury to the extent of $5 each.

There are now three dark accounts in the city continuing, for all of which Charles Livingstone and James D. Adams are extremely doubtful, so they will no longer be required to put in twelve-hour shifts.

Teachers and others interested are invited to see the drawing of the first year geography students of the University in room 25, University building, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, June 3, 4 and 5.

Brigham H. Young, has identified both as manager of a western theatrical exchange with headquarters in the Commercial block, this city. The organization purposes to do a general dramatic and theatrical business.

Bishop Leonard and the Rowland Hall faculty will give a reception at the school named on Saturday evening from 8 to 10. An interesting time is anticipated. The closing concert will be given at the First Congregational church on Tuesday evening, the 9th inst.

Miss Jessie B. Russell, who is now in the lead in the voting for carnival queen, is a native of Pennsylvania, her parents having come to the Quaker State from Scotland. A few years later the family returned to the old country, and lived near Glasgow. There they met with many Utah people, to whom they were very friends. About two years ago Mr. Russell died. The family has come to Utah to make this state their permanent home.

TRAVELERS' ASSOCIATION

A Year of Bondage and a Sigh for Deliverance.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., June 2.—The Travelers' Protective Association of America are assembled here in the seventh annual convention. In an address, John A. Lee, national president, said the organization had grown in numbers and extent of territory, now comprising 82 state divisions, 110 municipal and organizations and 1,110 active members. The indemnity paid during the year for accidental injury and death amounted to $9,41 per month while the collections for the indemnity fund amount to $6,23 per month, showing a safe margin. In concluding Lee said: "Our members assembled here today have passed through a year of commercial trials and bitter conditions. We have been compelled to sell twice the quantity of goods we sold ten or even five years ago in order to make the usual expenses at sixty dollars owing to the enormous decline in values of nearly all lines of goods. We have found employment hard to secure and harder to retain then heretofore and many people are finding their success growing almost impossible.

"Whether God in his mercy and wisdom may close the pillar of divery clouds by day or a pillar of golden fire by night with which to guide the people out of this bondage, or happily employ a combination of both, we will be content if relief comes, providing it comes quickly."

MEN OUT OF WORK.

Indirect Results of the Destruction at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, June 2.—The work of relief and restoration goes on today in the midst of rain. Contributions of money, clothing, provisions and other articles of necessity are coming in liberally and all who are destitute will be cared for.

The losses caused indirectly by the tornado are just beginning to reveal themselves and will be nearly as great as the immediate effects. Because the tornado ruined many mills and factories, a large number of men will be out of employment for weeks and months. How many men have been deprived of an opportunity to earn a livelihood cannot be stated with accuracy, but it certainly runs into a hundred in excess of the number employed to repair the damage.

Ten district messenger and fifteen clerks left the office of A. H. Fredericks, president of the hospital association, today to make an official estimate of the losses. The experts will make a house to house canvass in the territory visited by the tornado. Fredericks expects to have a complete report a week hence.

Nine burial permits were issued today for interment of storm victims.

In East St. Louis scenes of persons are kept busy sending out groceries, shoes, dresses and other needed articles, and so generous have been the responses to money and other gifts that for the time being there is no danger of want.

BURIED IN THE RUINS.

ST. LOUIS, June 2.—It is feared that William Harrigan, a working miner of Birmingham, Ala., is beneath the debris of some wrecked building.

Harrigan came to St. Louis two days before the tornado to purchase from machinery and has not been seen since Wednesday.

AYER'S PILLS

"Ayer's Cathartic Pills have for over thirty years been kept on my good health, never having had a sick day since first time. Before I was taken I suffered almost continually—as a result of my situation—from dyspepsia, headaches, neuralgia, or bile and other results of diseases. When I became convinced that nine-tenths of my troubles were caused by constipation, I began the use of Ayer's Pills, with the most satisfactory results, never having a return attack that did not readily yield to them. My wife, who had been an invalid for years, also began to use Ayer's Pills, and her health unexpectedly improved. With my children I find no fault that nearly all their ailments are prevented by constipation, and I enjoy the pleasure of knowing that with children as with parents, Ayer's Pills, if taken in season, avert all danger of sickness."—H.
