Beet Sugar.

We have a sample of sugar from the beet sugarie of Sacramento. We have never seen superior sugar either from beets or cane. The crystals are large and brilliant, and the sugar is free from every impurity. The company has erected a cooper shop to ensure regular supplies of barrels; and it is contemplated to put up a distillery, to convert its molasses into pure spirit. The syrup that remains after the sugar is extracted from beets, is not suited for table use.

The company has not made a dividend for 1872. It has levied assessments, but it is not to be inferred that it has not made profits. Besides the permanent improvements and the new inventions it has added, it has made purchases of rich land at low prices; thus judiciously reinvesting its profits.

It is known that a war among the sugar refineries of San Francisco reduced the price of sugar and curtailed the profits of our beet sugaries. The Sacramento works saved themselves by opening a market for their sugar in the State of Nevada, without the intervention of San Francisco.

The outlook for 1873 is full of promise. The company is planting largely. At least 1,200 acres of beets will be cropped this season for the Sacramento mill. This will yield 18,000 tons of roots and 1,400 tons of sugar. The lowest profit on this would be $75,000 on a capital of $200,000.

As the success of beet sugar making is now assured, it is probable that new mills will be started elsewhere. Santa Clara, Stockton, Mission of San Jose, Antioch, Vallejo, Napa, Petaluma, Sonoma, Healdsburg, Santa Rosa, Marysville, Gilroy—each should have its sugar mill.

It is well to understand a 60-ton a day sugarie cannot be put up and worked with less capital than $100,000—besides whatever land may be bought. It is also well to have it understood that high-priced land should not be preferred for beet sugaries. It is wise to go a little further and buy cheaper land, that your stock may not be burdened with over-weight of high priced land, high taxation and high-priced beets.—San Francisco Rural Press.

The Cause of Hard Times.

We are fast becoming a nation of schemers to live without genuine work. Our boys are not learning trades; our farmers' sons are crowding into cities, looking for clerkships and places in the post office; hardly one American girl in one hundred will do housework for wages, however urgent her need; so we are sending to Europe for workmen, and buying of her artisans millions worth that we ought to make for ourselves. Though our crop of rascals is heavy, we do not grow our own hemp; though we are overrun with lads who deserve flagellation, we import our willows. Our women (unless deceived) wear European fabrics; our men dress in foreign cloths; the toys which amuse our younger children have generally reached us from over the sea. Hence it is that we plunge deeper and deeper into debt in the Old World. We are like the farmer who hires his neighbor's sons to cut his wood, feed his stock and run his errands, while his own boys lounge at the grog-shop, playing billiards, and then wonder why, in spite of his best efforts, he sinks annually deeper and deeper into debt, till the sheriff cleans him out, and he starts West to begin again. We must turn over a new leaf. Our boys and girls must be taught to love labor by qualifying themselves to do it efficiently. We must turn out fewer professionals and more skilled artisans, as well as foodgrowers. We must grow and fabricate two hundred millions worth per annum, that we now import, and so reduce the foreign debt that we have so long and so successfully augmented year by year. We must qualify our clever boys to erect and run factories, furnaces, rolling-mills, tanneries, machine shops, etc., to open and work mines, improve and fashion implements, and double the present product of their father's farm. So shall we stem that tide of debt that sets steadily against our shores, and cease to be visited and annoyed by hard times. —Ex.

The Denver Arabs—What should be Done with Them?

Denver is certainly not lacking in the matter of the "small-boy" element. Considering our somewhat limited population we are not sure but that we might claim, for our city, a certain pre-eminence in this essential feature of a modern metropolis. The boot-black brigade always rejoices in full ranks, and there are other juvenile gangs and organizations which pride themselves on excessive and peculiar raggedness, unparalelled impudence, profanity of the subtlest character, and conspicuousness, by day or night, in and about all public gatherings and crowded thoroughfares.

All these classes of juveniles are sui generis. But few have the slightest knowledge of the ordinary relations of father or mother, or the faintest idea of "a home." To be certain of enough of anything edible to satisfy the gastric juices during the day, and to have on hand "a bunk" for the night, constitute, with them, the great ends of life.

They assimilate naturally to the sunny side of the street, are certain adjuncts of all rows, fires and every kind of social disturbance. They have a dialect of their own, in which blasphemy is the most prominent ingredient, and slang the next. Dogs and policemen are their special abhorrence.

The ages of these Denver Arabs it would take a Niebbur to determine. They run from seven to seventeen, but all ordinary guides, by which such things are determined, are set at defiance in their case. With them, clothing is more a matter of accumulation than taste or adaptability. A six-year old is as likely to have, for headgearing, dilapidated relics of a masculine tile, as the elder portion of the gang are to have the jackets of striplings. It's all one so long as nakedness is barely concealed and a certain degree of warmth generated.

As to the occupations of these Denver Arabs, much might be said. The boot-blacks represent the more aristocratic portion, but there are innumerable other gangs which have no apparent mode of life—whose very existence seems close on to the miraculous. As to the future of these semi-outcasts it embodies little of hope or sunshine. Passing through such a boyhood, we have little right to expect a worthier manhood. And yet among these rowdy juveniles, there could be found much that is noble—much that, if developed, would make honorable and useful men.

Is it not within the reach of society, of philanthrophy, at least? The question is now being most seriously considered in the larger cities of the Union, and we trust that Denver, prominent in so much that is good, will not be behind in a project embodying consequences of such a far-reaching character, involving the destiny of a large portion of a rising generation.—Denver Tribune.

Aberystwith, Wales, must be a charming place to dwell in. The Inspector of Nuisances has found many houses entirely unfit for habitation, being overcrowded and both sexes promiscuously herded together. In one place a family lives in a hut which is also used as a slaughter-house, skin room and butcher's shop; and in another, a woman, a grown up daughter, a cow, a heifer, and nine fowls occupy one room, which has no fireplace, no window, and no light or ventilation beyond that provided by the door.
