THE CORNELL STORY.

Resolutions Passed by the Students and Trustees.

THE FRESHMEN DENOUNCED.

Five Hundred Dollars Offered Toward the Expenses of Investigating the Killing.

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 26.—Over a thousand Cornell students gathered in the library before noon this noon to take action regarding the banquet tragedy. A prolonged discussion was held over the adoption of the resolutions as presented by the four class presidents. The following resolutions were adopted:

"We, the students of Cornell University, in mass meeting assembled, formally express regret at the deplorable occurrence connected with the sophomore freshman banquet, which, although not falsified and highly colored statements, have nevertheless degraded the university in the eyes of the public.

"We disclaim the acts as acts of individuals unauthorized by any class or body of students in the university. We tender the civil authorities of our sympathy and co-operation in their efforts to bring the offenders to justice. We condemn the authors of exaggerated and misrepresentative reports which have placed the students of the university in a false light before the world, and unjustly slandered the name and fame of the institution. We express our conviction that if the freshmen are permitted to continue their banquets, they should be held under the jurisdiction of the whole student body. It is the sentiment of the meeting that they should be exempt from molestation by any individuals or classes."

The trustees passed resolutions authorizing the contingent to draw on the treasurer of the university for $500 for the purpose of investigating the tragedy.

For the Employes.

CHEYENNE, Feb. 26.—George E. Holmes, counsel for the Union Pacific railway employes, appeared before Judge Riner of the United States circuit court today and obtained an order that the schedule, pay, and rules and regulations affecting the employes in force on the United States receivers' lock change be continued in force until further order of the court. The court directs the receivers to issue notices of this order to be distributed among the employes. Judge Riner will make the same order in Colorado and Wyoming.

IN CONGRESS.

Closing Proceedings in the House of Representatives.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The proceedings in the House were full of exciting incidents. Bland, being unable to secure a quorum, consented to allow debate on the bill to proceed, at the close of which declaring that he would return to the assault tomorrow.

Two sensational speeches followed, one by Pence of Colorado, who denounced the Republicans for assailing in the crook of a speaker Reed's walking and warned him of the election of President was thrown into the House bill, he would use his filibustering weapon, and the other by Pitman, who condemned in the severest terms the action of his Democratic colleagues having part in the filibuster.

Toward the close of the session Pence's reflections on Pickler and Hill of Oregon drew from them a statement which Pence characterized as "unfeelingly untrue." He was twice called to order, and the House, by vote, refused to allow him to proceed. It is probable that Pence's speech will be the occasion of further comment.

The Flag Transferred.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—A [illegible] received last night by Secretary Herbert from Admiral Benham at Rio, states that he had transferred his flag from the San Francisco to the New York. His purpose was to allow the San Francisco to go outside the harbor for fresh air. The ships are taking turns at the duty of sleeping in the harbor, and it is now the New York's turn.

Off for Africa.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—The four hundred marines now stationed at Chatham have been ordered to be in readiness to proceed to Bulbund, West Africa, to take part in the expedition against the slave traders.

A Gladstone Rumor.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—The Morning Post publishes an unconfirmed rumor to the effect that Gladstone informed the queen yesterday that he was about to undergo an operation for his eyes, and desired royal sanction to Lord Rosebery's acting as premier pro tem.

The Scourge to Spain.

BROOKLYN, Feb. 26.—At 2 o'clock the investigation attending the circumstances of the loss of the Kearsarge on Roncador reef, began on board the Vermont.

The officers and the crew of the lost ship were sworn. They all testified to the correctness of the report of Chapman, and no complaint was made against any of the surviving officers or crew. The men were discharged and the court adjourned.

THE GERMAN-RUSSIAN TREATY.

Discussion of Its Bearing by Conservatives and Importationists.

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—In the reichstag [illegible] the Russo-German commercial treaty opened. Von Mirbach, [illegible] of the conservatives, gave [illegible] of the reserve which had [illegible] the party not to support the treaty, declaring that the Prussian junkers would prove no injury to the German economy greater than agitations which would possibly follow its passage.

Von Bodenbaken declared the German manufacturers and merchants secured under the treaty an inestimable boon. The boycotting politics nothing by the previous German tariff and the treaties should direct their efforts toward influencing the federal government in favor of a practical solution for the German industry. The government could not surrender at discretion to the demands of the agrarians.

Count Von Mirbach opposed the treaty in the name of the junkers.

Bueck urged the adoption of the treaty, saying the entrance of Russia into the European commercial community would have important consequences.

The house adjourned. It is estimated that every will be adopted by a majority of fifty to twenty.

THE RATE WAR.

An Additional Cut by the Rock Island.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 26.—A. H. McNair, general railway passenger agent of the Rock Island, whose headquarters are in this city, today made a cut rate of $17 from Kansas City to all southern California points, by way of Fort Worth and El Paso, $20 for round trip tickets, good for fifty days, and to be placed on sale March 1st. The same rate applies to San Francisco by way of the Rock Island to Denver, Denver & Rio Grande and Rio Grande Western to Ogden, and Southern Pacific from Ogden to San Francisco via Sacramento. This is likely to stir things out and will force the Santa Fe to cut the rate from Kansas City to Los Angeles $10 in order to retain the San Francisco passengers to reach that city for the same price the Rock Island offers.

A Plea for Silver.

CALCUTTA, Feb. 26.—At a meeting of native and Europeans in the town hall resolutions were passed urging the government to be induced to settle the silver question by an international agreement.

A Rebel Vessel Destroyed.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—A Herald special from Rio confirms the report of the burning of the rebel warship Javjiro in Rio bay last Thursday. A shell exploded in the boiler-room and set fire to the powder magazine, which blew up and sank her. The entire crew perished.

Riots in Vienna.

VIENNA, Feb. 26.—A riotous demonstration of the unemployed took place today. A meeting was held, at which about 1,000 were present. The unemployed, after listening to several fiery addresses, became uproarious and many attempted to march through the streets singing revolutionary songs.

WILSON SICK IN MEXICO.

He Occupies a Private Railroad Car at Guadalajara.

Everything Done for His Comfort.—The Nearest Regard Shown as a Great Statesman.

CITY OF MEXICO, Feb. 26.—Congressman Wilson is in the private car of A. A. Robinson, in the Central Railway company's yards at Guadalajara. The car is on a sidetrack and removed as far as possible from all disturbing influences. The patient is receiving the utmost care and now has a good fighting chance for his life. His temperature was unchanged today.

Guadalajara is 383 miles from this city, 18 hours by rail. Dr. Prevost here cannot leave his large practice for a long period, but receives two hourly bulletins daily by wire from his assistant in Guadalajara. The latter reports the temperature this morning at 104 and this evening at 102.

Consul General Crittenden and Congressman Tarsney are in close communication by wire, watching for every change in Wilson's condition, but so far nothing of note is seen. The governor of Jalisco has issued a decree prohibiting taxis of music to play on the streets of Guadalajara, but under the circumstances at the station, as the music may have a bad effect on Wilson. The locomotives are not permitted to whistle in the yards.

If Wilson recovers the Mexican authorities will give him an ovation, as they esteem him a great statesman.

The End of the Deadlock.

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 26.—The first break from the Democratic senate came tonight, when Senator Miller of Cape May made a speech, denouncing the deadlock and declaring his intention of having nothing more to do with the senate. He did not propose to go into the Republican senate, nor to make himself any more conspicuous than necessary, but before he would see the Republicans organize the senate he would leave them. Into the chamber and assist them in his support.

The opinion prevails here that the action of Miller practically means an end of the deadlock.

Forged Receipts and Fled.

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—The Herald's special from Lexington, Ky., says: William H. Hawley, secretary and treasurer of the Hawley & Pace Distilling company, has written his daughter that he has forged warehouse receipts, and is on his way to Mexico. It is understood that the forgeries amount to $80,000.

Cleveland and Stevenson All Right.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 26.—There is not the least uneasiness among the officials of the White House or the state department over the news of President Cleveland and Secretary Gresham, who left in the show yesterday on the lighthouse tender Violet, for a few days cruise down the Potomac. The last cast of congressmen have received news to the effect that Cleveland informed Tillman he would send for commissions and be I. [illegible] within a week when the party would be expected to reach the city again.

Democratic Caucus.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 26.—In the caucus there was [illegible] relative to an inquiry in a New York office, published in a New York paper, in which he was quoted as saying the tariff bill to be passed by the house would have passed by other was rejected brigadiers, all of which were spoken, referring to Jones, Mills and Voorhees.

Voorhees said he was [illegible] strongly in reply to this statement, but [illegible] to have replied with no [illegible] ing.

While the interview with Brice was being discussed, the chair seated [illegible] the floor and said it was not in order a question of who made the statement or as to the manner in which the bill was prepared as to whether it was true or untrue. Several speeches followed in this vein, the chairman declared it was not the province of parliamentary [illegible] to inquire into the veracity of the author of a newspaper interview. [illegible] the matter was finally dropped.

TO FRUIT GROWERS.

The Necessity of Pruning and Properly Caring for the Trees.

Editor Deseret News:

The time is now come when it will be necessary for our fruit growers to prune up their trees. Having been in the business of raising and caring for such trees for half a century, I feel that some suggestions from me may be of value.

In order to keep trees healthy and in some good, well-shaped form, the trees should be systematically pruned every spring. Young shoots expecting should be pruned for the first six years of their life. With each pruning, one-half of the previous year's growth should be cut away, having the upper and outward.

In hundreds of orchards the tendency to prolong grows the trees at the expense time has resulted in debilitating the trees and destroying the flavor of the fruit. In such orchards the fruit grows smaller every year, and finally becomes worthless.

If the owners would take off from one-half to three-fourths of the wood between the lower limbs and the top of these old trees, they would see an improvement in the size, soundness and quality of the fruit. The thinning out should be done yearly and when good judgment is used in way and manner may be increased and make the source of much profit in retaining a good flavored and an abundant yield.

If my experience would be considered worthy of consideration I will be glad to render such aid and make such suggestions to fruit growers as I can.

JOSEPH LOGAN.

PROVIDENCE PLACE, Salt Lake City, February, 26, 1894.

The Last Stroke at Taking a Whale.

But if a man have the good fortune to be present at a "chase," and, above all, if he be, as I have been, in the harpooning and in the lancing boat, he has a taste of sport which it would be ill to match. To play a salmon is a royal game, but when your fish weighs more than a substantial ville, and is worth a clear two thousand pounds when, for your life it is a thousand thousand, manila rope with fifty strands, every strand twisted for thirty-six yards, it awakes slumber experience. And the lancing, too, when the creature is spent, and your boat pulls in to give it the coup de grace with cool steel, that is another matter. I shudder lance of despair as it crimsons the waters up into a red foam; the great black fins are rising and falling like one sails of a windmill; spouting the while in a shadow as they strong, every, but still the harpooner clings to the beat, where one harp has gone, and with the wooden butt of the twelve-foot lance against his stomach, he presses it home until the long strings go in finished and the black mass blow over to expose the dead, whitish surface beneath. Yet amid all the excitement—and no one who has not held an oar in such a scene can tell how exciting it is—one's sympathies lie with the poor hunted creature. The whale has a small eye, little larger than that of a bullock, but I cannot easily forget the mute expostulation which I read in one, as it dimmed over in death within hand's reach of me. Was it not, I ask, poor creature, of the lawful supply food demand, or how could it imagine that when mere glazed an elastic filter inside its mouth and where man dwelt, the place of which it was composed were the pearls and yet intricate things in oceans, the Jonahs attack was [illegible]—From a Cape Cod Log in The Universal of the AGE," in Stillwell's Magazine for March.

A NARROW ESCAPE

Little Charlie Wray Almost Stolen From His Mother's Arms.

Two Well Known Residents of Salt Lake to the Rescue.

THE MOTHER'S INTERESTING STORY.

[illegible] south Second West street is situated the little cottage wherein resides Mrs. S. J. Wray. She is an interesting lady and in an interview with the writer gave the following story of her little son's rescue:

My little son Charlie is now years of age. He has been a constant sufferer from catarrh ever since he was born, and during the past few years he has become so much worse that we feared death daily.

At the age of two years he LOST HIS HEARING. He now would stay up four weeks, then lie down. He would constantly hawk and try to raise an obstruct, which at times would almost strangle him, large lumps coming to accumulate that was impossible to cough up.

He had spasmodic nodes in the ears and would put his hands up to his head and, as he expressed himself, try to keep the noise out of his ears.

MASTER CHARLIE WRAY, AS HE APPEARS AFTER TREATMENT.

He could not eat, and what food he did take seemed to lay heavy on his stomach and caused him much pain, he was very weak and looked as though he had no blood to feed to his self.

He would sit around for hours and not notice anybody, his relief seemed to be far away, and when spoken to would start up as though he was scared.

We had to take him out of school for he would sit and listen, as was very interested about his condition and although he was always under treatment, the case seemed to be one that baffled all human skill.

One day after giving up all hope of ever curing the child, we noticed a man coming in his long sacred hair, Shoes & Shores, the specialists, and we decided to take him there. The doctors examined him and informed us the case was a severe one, but they would do all that could be done for him.

My son has been under their care for one month and I am happy to state he has been entirely cured. He has no more headache, HEARS WELL, has a splendid appetite, is gaining fat and looks like a new child.

I cannot say too much in praise of Drs. Shores and Shores, for they have certainly saved my child from an untimely end. Hoping this other sufferer will be benefited by this statement, I am yours very truly,

MRS. S. J. WRAY.
