Earthquake, Health and Fruit.

Editor Deseret News:

Quite a heavy earthquake shock passed over this region this a.m., at about 6:45 o'clock, causing windows, doors, dishes and furniture to rattle noisily. It seems to be going from West to East.

The health of the people in general is better than in the recent past, the which time we had been indulging considerably in "it," or "la grippe," and mumps, the latter still operating, though waning in "influence."

Spring is very backward, and changeable. Fruit has bitten considerable of our fruit.

Very respectfully,

M. K. PARSONS, Secretary."

TO FURNISH FLAGS.

Superintendent Millspaugh stated that he had been requested by the Patriotic Order of the Sons of America that they be allowed to furnish the school children with flags, on the occasion of the visit of President Harrison and party to this city. Referred to the superintendent with power to act.

FIRST DISTRICT PROPOSITION.

Joseph Warburton, on behalf of the the ecclesiastical organization of the First ward, offered to sell to the board a lot on the west end of lot 8, block 12, plat B, 10x12 rods, for $5000, of which $3500 was to be paid in cash. Referred to the committee on sites.

Committee on finance.

WARRANTS TO BE ISSUED.

As the amount of money in the treasury was not sufficient to pay all the teachers for the present month, the clerk was instructed to issue warrants. Committee on finance.

MAY HOLIDAY.

On recommendation of Superintendent Millspaugh it was decided to celebrate May 1st as a holiday in order to allow the school children to enjoy themselves.

ON CROWDED SCHOOLS.

The committee on school work, to whom was referred the matter of the crowded schools, reported that the third grade of the Twentieth school had been transferred to a vacant room in the Lutheran church. Approved.

NOT ALLOWED.

In regard to a claim of Mr. Newburn for additional compensation for some additional work which he had performed in the Tenth school, the committee on teachers recommended that it be not allowed. Adopted.

Mr. Nelson prepared and read the following memorandum:

"The recent decision of the Territorial Supreme Court in the matter of the school taxes for last year in this city, relieves the contestants in suits of residence in that taxation from the obligation of paying the same, on the ground that the proper year's assessment roll was not taken in the month of May, as the law stands. It follows, therefore, that those who have paid their special school taxes for that year have yielded to an improper levy and should have relief. It is likely that they would find it impracticable to recover by lawsuit, and much difficulty certainly surrounds the whole subject, but nevertheless, in order that the burdens of the maintenance of the schools may be equally distributed among the taxpayers, a way out of the dilemma, and for the refunding of the money, should be found. That is the purpose of this announcement.

"Let the money received on the school tax levy of last year be treated as a loan, a debt to be repaid to those who have advanced it. This will be legal on the supposition that the board receives from the people of the several districts, school sites and school houses to many times the value of this money as advanced, in fact, a large percentage of the money received from this taxation was spent for the purpose of paying for sites and building school houses, and has been so applied. This contribution will bring the money so advanced, and to be treated as an indebtedness, within the statutory specification of purposes for which bonds may be voted and issued.

"Let the amount of bonds proposed to be issued be increased from $300,000 to $450,000, and the $150,000 so added to be sold and the proceeds used in refunding to Collister Hardy equal to those who returned it on last year's school tax. This amount named being the almost exact sum of the total of said taxes in this city, it would all be thus repaid by the sale of the bonds proposed. In the faith of this repayment, let those who have objected to the payment of the tax now come forward and pay it. But in case they do not, those who do so, should be here to repay to the collector, and the residue could be available for public uses.

"The introduction of bonds having been declared invalid by the supreme court, no special inconvenience as regards the new election would result to the adoption of the above, while it would be absolutely fair, and just to all, in that it would apportion the school taxes of the city upon the people at large therein, according to the valuation of their property, contemporaneously with the adoption of the general school system."

After a brief and unimportant discussion the matter was referred to the finance committee. The Board then adjourned for two weeks.

Tonight.

The pupils of Professor Younger will give a grand exhibition of fancy dancing tonight in the Salt Lake Theatre. Particulars will be found in the advertisement announcing the entertainment.

There will be a children's matinee on Saturday, at 2 p. m.

CRIMES AND CRIMINALS.

Judge Anderson Lectures Wrong-doers and Punishes Them Lightly.

Upon the opening of Judge Anderson's department of the Third District Court this morning several defendants were brought in to receive sentence, according to the undergiven yesterday. The first to stand up was Louis Montague, a strapping young fellow about 21 years of age, whose offense was that of breaking into the house of Mrs. Elizabeth Davis, of the Eighth Ward, on the 28th of last month. This is the individual who when arraigned yesterday expressed a desire not to furnish his correct name, and gave Montague as that by which he wished to be henceforward known in police annals.

When asked by the Court if he had anything to say in his defense, Mr. "Montague" poured a long and woful story into the Judge's attentive ear. He described himself as having been "worn out" by want and exposure at the time he broke into the lady's residence, and said this was the first time he had ever been guilty of such an act. He was discharged a few days from the service of the Union Pacific Railway company last December and from that time until his arrest on the present charge he had only been able to obtain casual work—scarcely enough to keep body and soul together. He subsisted in the house-breaking exploit was to obtain something which he might convert into money, just to carry him on and buy food until he could get employment. Having been "on the road" six weeks he "got disgusted." He was suffering from la grippe at the time, and altogether in a bad plight.

Judge Anderson said the offense of housebreaking was a very serious one. It was a worse offense than the forcible entering of a store or warehouse, because it not infrequently happened that when men went on such work one dwelling house they were ready to resort to violence, and even murder if necessary.

Defendant could by interposed with the remark that he knew no one was at home before he entered the premises.

He was sent to the penitentiary for one year.

A SUCKER'S OR INGRATITUDE.

George Haight, a respectable looking young man who said he was 20 years of age, was the next to come forward. He was arraigned on the charge of grand larceny and admitted having forged a check for $25.

Attorney J. A. Williams, who appeared for the defendant, said this was Haight's first offense. He had been working in a restaurant in this city in which he himself was interested, and had proved a good and excellent servant there. The gentleman who had adopted him from his infancy—and who had stood in the place of a father to him—lived in Idaho, being engaged in mining, but had property in Salt Lake. The defendant, who bore his name, had had authority to collect its rents now for some time, and in that respect had always shown himself honest. Unfortunately young Haight got "hard up," and it was this which drove him to forge the check in the name of his benefactor. With this exception, however, that he would honor it upon learning the true circumstances. The trouble arose from the check being paid into a bank other than the one at which Mr. Haight of Idaho did business. Counsel further explained that he had written several letters to Idaho, but could get no reply. He hoped the Court would temper justice with mercy.

Judge Anderson told the defendant that there were always business persons to be found in a city like this if a young man was really in distress, and it was greatly to be regretted that he had so far forgotten himself as to stoop to crime. He would fix his punishment at one year in the penitentiary.

Assistant United States District Attorney Stephens said that there was a further indictment against the defendant of forging a second check of the same amount (the $25 being the tax levy). It follows, therefore, that those who have paid their special school taxes for that year have yielded to an improper levy and should have relief. It is likely that they would find it impracticable to recover by lawsuit, and much difficulty certainly surrounds the whole subject, but nevertheless, in order that the burdens of the maintenance of the schools may be equally distributed among the taxpayers, a way out of the dilemma, and for the refunding of the money, should be found. That is the purpose of this announcement.

BIG, TOO, WAS HARD UP.

Frank Colony, for burglary at Gunning & Co.'s saloon in Park City, was the third man to come up for judgment.

Assistant District Attorney Stephens informed the court that defendant was a miner and had lived at Bingham for six or seven years. On the morning of April 7th, about 1 o'clock, Mr. Gunning locked up and left the premises, and some fifteen minutes later it was noticed that the blinds were moving. A police officer was notified, went in, and discovered the defendant behind the bar. When arrested he said it served him right, as "Tommy" always treated him well. He (Mr. Stephens) had been informed by the defendant's former employer that up to this particular time nothing wrong had been known against him. When he committed the burglary he had been out of work for some time.

Judge Anderson read the defendant a lesson from the text, "The way of transgressors is hard," and sentenced him to one year's imprisonment in the penitentiary.

FOR NEXT TUESDAY.

James Hamilton, charged with a crime against nature, will be tried on Tuesday next.

BEGUILED.

The personal injury case, Slater vs. the Union Pacific railroad company, partly heard yesterday, was then produced. It is expected to finish this afternoon.

BEFORE JUDGE ZANE.

The following business was transacted before Judge Zane today:

Yesterday afternoon the case of Charles L. Anderson vs. Amos Fenstermaker, involving the ownership of certain water rights in Tooele county, was taken up, and after hearing the evidence the court took the matter under advisement.

In the case of Andrew C. Brixen vs. F. D. Cliff, the plaintiff brings an action to require defendant to issue a new lease on the Cliff house, which the latter refuses to give on the ground that conditions of a former lease are not complied with. The matter was submitted today.

The following defendants were ordered to appear for arraignment on Saturday morning:

Luther Dalrymple, adultery; David Simmons, fornication; J. A. Kirby, malicious destruction of property.

A Missing Bailiff.

This afternoon the corridors and hallways leading to the Third District Court chamber, on the fourth floor of the Wasatch building were filled with attorneys and witnesses, shortly before the regular hour for beginning business. The doors leading to the court room had been locked and the crowd were unable to effect entrance, as the court bailiff Theophilus Parsons, was non est, and the keys could not be found. Judge Zane arrived promptly on the scene as the clock struck two. On learning the condition of affairs he ordered that one of the doors be broken down. The hurly burly of an employee of the United States marshal's office was thrown heavily against the door and it finally swung back on its hinges. Judge Zane took his seat and was followed by the crowd, and business was commenced as though nothing unusual had occurred.

A Natural Conclusion.

Good News: Small Boy—Our history says that during the reign of Tiberius a man was put to death because he discovered how to make glass that wouldn't break. What did Tiberius do that for?

Father (whose family burns kerosene)—I suppose Tiberius was a manufacturer of lamp chimneys.

ALLEGED DIAMOND THIEF.

Forbes, Alias Ford, the Victim of Mrs. Derrah's Vigilance, Held.

AN ALLEGED HOLD-UP LAST NIGHT.

Bunco Sharpers and Confidence Men Still Plying Their Trade.

The almost everywhere present bunco sharper and confidence man is thriving, and new victims each day with its name and frequency that are remarkable. Yesterday afternoon, Paul Redenbonne, who, with pick and shovel digs deep into the bowels of the earth in search of hidden treasures, was lured into a gambling joint on Second South street, and relieved of $175. With sleeping spirits and empty pockets he went to police headquarters and related with considerable dramatic effect the story of his investigement and loss. He claims to be a resident of a mining camp in the Centennial State, attracted hither by the Deep creek boom.

At the instigation of Redenbonne a warrant was issued for the arrest of the guilty parties. The dive was raided by a number of officers, and four professional sharpers at any rate, were rounded up and taken to jail. When arraigned before Justice Laney last evening, the keeper, J. W. Anderson, entered a plea of guilty and was fined $100, which was promptly paid.

E. H. Addison, F. D. Snively and C. H. Holland a trio of trappers, for the place in question, also pleaded guilty to gambling and were fined $5 each.

BORDER HELDS.

Thomas Forbes, alias Thomas Ford, the dude burglar and confidence man, who for sometime past has been sporting this city in the dude of Mr. Derrah, and who was so cleverly caught by Mrs. Derrah, on an Ogden passenger train, on Wednesday night, appeared for examination. He was placed under $2500 bonds, in default of which he was sent to the county jail to await the action of the grand jury.

The valuables found in the safety deposit box for which the prisoner held a certificate, comprised an almost innumerable variety of jewelry. Many of the articles are already been identified by parties from whom they were stolen. That the accused is a member of a gang of bunco-steerers that has operated in this city and Ogden, for the last year, there can be no doubt. His capture is entirely due to the keen and vigilant eye of Mrs. Derrah.

ALLEGED DIAMOND THIEF.

Billy Smith, the Australian light-weight pugilist, was arrested at the Variety Theatre, on Franklin avenue last night, on the charge of stealing a diamond valued at $600. The sparkling stone, however, was not found in his possession, and as the complaining witness failed to put in an appearance at court this morning, the prisoner was discharged.

REPORTED ROBBERY.

Pete Scully, a negro musician, whose clothes are of fashions latest mould, and a young woman, (also colored) by the name of Jennie, reported at the police station last night that they had been held up by a burly highwayman and robbed of $10 and a gold watch and chain and other articles of jewelry. The hold-up is alleged to have occurred on Second South street between Second and Third West streets at 8 o'. No clue.

NOTES.

Thomas Eden, forfeited $5 today for drunkenness.

William Green was sentenced to twenty-four hours imprisonment for a similar offense.

H. L. Syringer is under arrest on the double charge of drunkenness and disturbing the peace. He deposited $25 with clerk Stewart as security for his attendance in court this afternoon.

The Rat Project.

Editor Deseret News:

I am pleased to learn of the endeavors now being made towards the organization of a company, with a capital of $50,000, for the manufacture of hats in our fair Territory. This is indeed a needed industry, and should be encouraged. The necessities of the people should be produced by the people as far as possible. Over half a million dollars is sent out of this Territory annually for felt hats, which could easily be manufactured at home, and the money retained among the people.

Thousands of hands would thus be employed, and the enterprise made to prove a blessing to us.

In this Territory there are at present successfully manufactured shoes, hosiery, underwear, and clothing in general, except hats. True, there have been a sufficient number of the latter produced to demonstrate the feasibility of the scheme, and these made have been of excellent quality; but the great trouble has been the lack of sufficient means to carry on the enterprise successfully as to compete with the large eastern firms.

There is here in Salt Lake City a "farming mill" whose capacity is forty dozen hat bodies per day. It was purchased at a cost of several thousand dollars in Philadelphia, and prior to being shipped to this city was placed in the shop of Stetson, the hatter, and there fully tested. This valuable machine was left in Philadelphia for want of means. Through the lack of requisite means. We have an abundance of wool, rabbit and beaver furs. These are the materials necessary for the production of felt. The turning out of only forty dozen first-class hats daily will give employment to over fifteen men, young women and boys, and at the figure hats are wholesaled for in this Territory, an immense revenue will be realized.

Did any one ever hear of a hat manufacturing company failing? Their profits are large and their goods in constant demand. There seems to be some prospects of this business being located in Logan, providing the good people of Cache valley will give proper inducements in the way of taking stock in the concern and providing a suitable location.

They should certainly not permit this opportunity to pass by. Let the men of means impart of the same and likewise use their influence in the way of having the business located in Cache. It is stated that people in Davis county have already made an offer (as an inducement to the company to settle at Farmington) of a site for the factory and natural gas. An abundance of the latter is found near that town, requisite for steam power, light and heat. They have also subscribed for a large amount of stock. We need home manufactures; we need hats, etc.

VERDICT, NOT GUILTY.

The case of C. C. A. Christiansen, charged with unlawful cohabitation, was tried. Counsel tried very hard to draw out criminating testimony from the alleged wife No. 2 and the children of the family, but gave up in despair, and stated that there was apparently not enough evidence to convict the defendant. The judge instructed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty.

Christiansen was found guilty of the same charge at the September term of 1889, appealed to the Supreme Court and was granted a new trial.

The tongue hung out of the mouth and was swollen. The eyes bulged from the sockets and the nose was flattened in the face, and about the neck was a circle of congealed blood. The appearance of the face convinced the coroner that the woman had first been strangled and then cut. On turning over the body it was found that the murderer had left his mark. The broken end of a knife had been used to make a large cross on the base of the spine. Deputies Jennings and Hoover then visited Mary Mundton told the police all they knew about the case. The housekeeper said the murdered woman's companion was decidedly German in appearance but she could not tell from his appearance how long he had been in this country. She said he resembled a sewing man. Mary said the woman was a well-known character around the neighborhood, but no one seems to know her, or where she lives. The police is scouring the city and the vessels around the docks for the murderer.
