THE DUKE OF CLARENCE

His Condition Continues Critical—Very Grave Symptoms.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—A bulletin issued at seven o'clock states that the condition of the Duke of Clarence continues critical. The most dangerous of unfavorable symptoms in the case is that the strength of the Duke is well retained.

Until yesterday evening only one lung was seriously affected. This morning, however, an examination showed both lungs congested. The patient's pulse frequently acute pain, and his inability to sleep is still set. The patient is continuously nursed by his mother, who is occasionally relieved by Princess Mary. The regular nurse, Miss Rankin, known as Sister Victoria.

A gentleman issued at one o'clock Tuesday morning says that the condition of the Duke is, if anything, slightly better.

The malady developed so rapidly this morning that no neither relatives at his bedside, refusing to leave any one throughout the night. L. ge groups of persons waited outside of the gates of Sandringham Hall during the day, trying to gleam any information which might be obtained in regard to the condition of the patient.

I know Mary too a friend that this was the seventh day of the illness. Wednesday last, she said, the Duke was a member of a party shooting game coverts situated a long distance from Sandringham Hall. The luncheon he complained of not feeling well and was soon to retire, and said he felt that he was taking cold, and on reaching the house he complained of a chill
