Announcements.

"Peaceful Valley" was given a second time last night at the Salt Lake Theatre to a fair audience. Sol Smith Russell was so well received as on the preceding night. Although Mr. Russell is of course the "light particular star" of the company, yet there is some splendid talent outside of him in the troupe. Miss Rankin as Viola Allen, Miss Redmond as Nina, and Miss Leslie as Rose's mother are charming actresses. On the whole Mr. Russell's support is far beyond the average. "Peaceful Valley" will be given tonight for the last time this season.

Nat C. Goodwin will appear at the theatre on Friday and Saturday. As is universally known, he is an actor of extraordinary ability, and one for appeals to all classes. Not only from the high plane of fellow-feeling so apparent in his talent and gifts, but the sympathy of the upper ten are in the gallery, and in Mr. Goodwin the charm in his impersonations which move all to applaud his wonderful skill in moving to tears and exciting to laughter. He is an artist at both. His engagement may be looked upon as an event for Salt Lake and one that the amusement lovers of this city are sure to take advantage of. Friday and Saturday evenings will be devoted to "The Nominee," and the matinee Saturday "A Gold Mine."
