PROVO.

Provo, Utah, April 22, 1895.

THE PELICAN POINT MURDERS.

Investigations are Still Being Made into The Horrible Mystery.

Coroner Berg and the officers who have been investigating the Pelican Point murders returned from Lehi the evening. The coroner's jury has not finished the investigation, but has adjourned awaiting the result of some investigations now being made by the officers. The examination yesterday was conducted with closed doors and but little new evidence, so far as known, was elicited. Attorney Whitecotton, who has been for legal advice of Hays in the land dispute between Hays and Hale was not permitted to remain while the examination was in progress although it is stated that he represented Hays. The son of Mr. Hays, who was now fast winded and well away as Hays says in December, was brought up some of the Lehi people to see if in the lake. This is doubtless a mistake, as he is wanted for Harry Klinger on Provo bonds for a time and while there seems to be another to Glenn coat for money to return home with. He put him $75 through the post office, and it is believed he is now home. The officers have telegraphed to the young man's mother in Salt Whether he has arrived at Whitman.

Sheriff Brown, this morning, expressed a strong conviction that the officers would be able to bring the crime to the right man.

First District Court Business.

Jesse King has entering complaint his division in the case of Healy vs. Alpine City, asking the immediate payment by the plaintiff to return the city from his a certain day of July for a time, on the ground that Healy had neglected to the time for letter to the land. This, however, was paramount the court in his opinion. Healy had to adhere to the land to whether he may be. The court ordered costs against to pay the own witnesses and costs of court clerk and reporter fees.

Is It a Bear?

Frank and Parley Carter, of this city, yesterday brought in an affidavit calf and took something a strange paper with the following written in pencil: "I am a bear and I am not an animal. I am a bear and I am not an animal." Frank said he thought it was a bear. Bell Crowell said it looked like a bear. Bell Crowell said it looked like a bear. Bell Crowell said it looked like
