ON THE BOURSE TODAY.

The Call Rather Tame as Compared With Some of Its Predecessors.

NEARLY 30,000 SHARES SOLD, HOWEVER

Sensitive Creates a Mild Sensation—Highland Boy Tramway—The Combined and Yates.

Today's call was rather a tame affair as compared with the proceedings of the past two weeks. The brokers seemed to have lost the spirit of trading and therefore failed to allow their enthusiasm to get the better of them. Even attributed the slackness to the near approach to election day, as everybody that had more to do with it than anything else. As it was the call brought out sales of nearly 30,000 shares, the bulk of which vested in the power-proved convertible.

Four Aces was quite active but displayed a weakening tendency, the stock selling as low at 27½ cents, a figure representing the closing bid quotation. Hyde-Marion was about stationary, if anything a little weaker, while Grand Central stood out boldly with good figures and had a closing bid of $1.80, as against offerings at $1.85. Mammoth slumped a little, although a sale was made at $1.12, and Lower Mammoth found its prospects to be more suggestive, 1,000 shares at 9 cents a share. Homestake remained firm in the bidding, and small lots of Silver King were much sought after, but all to no avail.

Dealing with stocks of a lower order Chloride Point took the initiative, and opened at $1.05 and remained in good demand at $1.12½, the Brown's quoted practically unchanged, while Hornsilver ended up with good sentiment, owing to a lot of bidding and making inquiries at from $1.75 down a short distance. Yesterday Hornsilver was in healthy tone and sold at 1½ cents, and Little Pittsburg showed a marked improvement, with sales at 6½ and 5¾ cents. There was also a good deal of inquiry for Ontario, Ophir, Eight Hour, and Rabbit Hole.

Sales at 41.25, while Hidden Hook Tunnel was more favorably inclined upon and was sold in between 18 and 22 cents.

The closing figures were as follows:

HIGHLAND BOY TRANSAIL

Work on Progressing Favorably—Ringing Same Making Some.

The Bingham Bulletin says that good progress is being made on the Highland Boy tramway work. What will be known as the terminal station, the large portion of which is to be built as we saw and the upper part, is nearing the terminal machinery. It is fairly tried. The frames are in place and heavy, and rest on a solid masonry foundation. The wheel is a novelty and durable structure. There will be 38 trucks on the line, varying in size from 16 to 28 feet, and the work of bringing them from Salt Lake City is being carried on with good speed. The cable is being worked with natural strength to the wheel and the work of the work, while not so far a war between the two great factions of the country in the matter of Great Britain.

CAPTAIN MARCHAND.

No matter what may be the termination of the African trouble between the French and English, it must be admitted that the conduct of the campaign of Captain Marchand has been of a nature to win for him the respect and good wishes of all who are not deliberately prejudiced against him. Marchand seems to be the man destined at present to Britain's African ambition. He is the French officer who started out two years ago from the west coast of Africa with his command just at the time when General Kitchener was beginning to recover his army from the southernmost corner of the continent into the Soudan. There is no question but that Captain Marchand is in possession of Fashoda, on the Nile, 400 miles south of Khartoum. General Kitchener has sent word to him that he had previously taken possession of all Nile country in the name of Great Britain. Marchand in his official report to the home government of Lieut. Colonel Germain Kitchener of the British Egyptian army, gives the features of his trip from the time he left the west coast of Africa until they reached and took possession of the Nile. The expedition is being worked with natural strength to the wheel and the work of the work, while not so far a war between the two great factions of the country in the matter of Great Britain.
