IN ITS NEW QUARTERS

The Stock Exchange Moves Into a Place Fit for a King.

BUSINESS AS IT WAS IN THE PIT.

Bids as a Shipper — Bullion-Beck Business—The Comstock Mine—Notes on Its Pale Range.

Without noise or ceremony the stock brokers made their entrance into the fine hall on the rear of 15 east, second floor, about the morning, and transacted a fair amount of business in a place fit for a king as compared with poor Jerusalem occupied by that institution.

As stated before in these columns the new session opens on six of eighty and to the exclusion that has not been taken advantage of by the outsiders. The room is large and airy, is fitted up with every convenience, and will prove as attractive and for visitors as for are certainly invited to drop in and while away a few pleasant moments watching the busy proceedings. The pit is secured by a railing and has been supplied with a good number of chairs and an electrical system for the protection of stock quotations. Outside the railing are seats and tables. Outside the railing extends a wide space and the room has not, either a large and of the room has been reserved for a mineral exhibition—a feature that will appeal the Mining Exchange, it is said, is to be a new special idea.

In order that the latest information is made use of by authority at liberty to visit the exchange from time to time. It is proposed to enforce the rule requiring a member to be in the room when he wishes to do business, so that the outsiders will not have to do business with. Other rules are being drawn up, the old standard and serviceable ones will be practically copied after by the certainly governing board.

The call today was preceded by calls for the Bullion-Beck, Chloride Point, Jerusalem and Horn Silver stocks. Bullion-Beck and Horn Silver were well made on the other hand were well made. Bullion-Beck sold at 1.20 and Horn Silver at 1.10 and 1.15 and closed easier with a 20-cent shipment of Bullion-Beck. The sale was made on a falling off in the Bullion-Beck.
