NEWS FO THE WEST.

Carbon, Wyoming, Coal Mines May be Abandoned.

SHEEP ON UINTAH RESERVATION.

Total Accident—Attempt at Suicide—Ignorance Among Children—Captured by a Fruit Car.

Eastern Utah Advocate: To one unfamiliar with authoritative statements that the entire west end of the Union Pacific coal mines at Carbon, with the exception of a few men, who, otherwise refuse to recognize the supremacy of the strikers, have been ordered to close down.

At Victoria, B. C., is announced the decease of Andrew Gridley of the notorious Yakima Sawyer, who by his pistol Yakima Sawyer, who by his pistol killed one man, to bring about the death of seven others. When he died it was with difficulty that the relatives were prevented from giving him a wake to awaken to life. Also stories told the friends that if they carried out the idea of dressing the man as they proposed, they would call in a United States marshal.

Forgery charges have been discharged from the records of the Union Pacific Coal company at Carbon, Wyoming. The cases have been pending for some time, and have been a source of annoyance to the company. Carbon Coal miners have been working in the mines for some time, and have been informed that the company contemplates abandoning those mines in the near future, and it is rumored they will fill their coal in from the branch mines at less expense.

Every winter due Horvatine, Cal., is swarmed with tramps, who come in from all over the state, and as a result the county has staid at seventy inmates in the county jail to feed at a cost of $15 to $20 per day. Wednesday the board of supervisors took the matter in hand and will find some scheme to make winter workers work. One proposition that has been advanced is to haul rock from Carbon and have it piled in the jail yard, where the inmates work it up in an hour on the highways of the county.

Milton County Progress: Miss Kate Sullivan attempted to take her own life at her parents' home, at Lamoille, on the 12th of August, by taking the contents of half a bottle of laudanum, which is still very active in some form. Miss Sullivan and two girl companions got into a dispute over a "yard" that had been lost, and they said Miss Sullivan had told by and so she was entirely blameless, she insisted she would, if not let alone, take the poison she had taken. She was determined to end her life as she would not take anything for some time to kill the poison.

Deputy Registrar Howley, of Springlake, has made a most detailed for examination of Indian children in Carbon county, says the Price Advocate. He found there several families of children between the ages of six and fourteen years who had never seen the inside of a school house. In one family alone are five children who are totally and densely ignorant. The parents live about ten miles from Spring Lake and all very poor. It would appear that something should be done at once in order that these children no longer be deprived of their right to something in the way of an education.

At Castle Gate, while excavating for the new bicycle track, George H. Edwards was, without warning, thrown to death by the sudden fall of a mass of dirt and rocks, says the Price, Utah county, Advocate. He had no chance for his life as the mangled and crushed body showed when recovered. Pat Welsh, who was working with him, was thrown down but not seriously injured. A coroner's jury rendered a verdict of accidental death. George Edwards was a prominent Knight of Pythias and took great interest in the founding of the order here. He came originally from Pennsylvania, but has been working in this vicinity for a number of years. He had a host of friends many of whom followed his remains to the grave on Wednesday, Sept. 4.

Tombstone Hay, of the Wyoming division of the Union Pacific, received a telegram Tuesday from Superintendent Fillmore of the Southern Pacific to look out for a couple of tourists who had been reported to be in a sealed car on an incoming train, giving the number of the car. Upon the arrival of the train the car was opened and two men, giving their names as H. Lock and A. H. Anderson, were found in the center of the car, which was well loaded with crates of peaches and grapes, billed to Portia Cuba. The car was loaded at Newcastle, Cal., Sept. 1, and the men had been stowed in it by friends. They were well provided with food and drink and clothing, and were baseball pilots with the name of the Knox Island base ball club on their breasts. They were arrested and given ten days in jail for trespass.

Monday evening at 5 o'clock W. Brooks, a hop-grower on Upper Bear river, Cal., received an intimation that the Chinese pickers would be raised by some 200 of 300 whites. He immediately armed a few willing men with such weapons as he could procure and stationed them in his hopfield. About 8 o'clock the first detachment of raiders put in an appearance. He interrupted them and explained that his scouring Chinese help was a case of necessity. He had taken whites and Indians as long as they came, and would keep them to prevention to Chinese but there were not enough and he was compelled to get Chinese to save the crop. This pacified the mob for a time, but later on they were joined by some 200 recruits from the lower yards and the drunken, whooping mob could only be checked by placing armed men across the street and commanding a retreat, which was readily complied with when the click of gun locks was heard.

William Manaugh, a prominent California rancher, was killed on the highway three miles south of Live Oak, Butte county, Monday. He slept was Hilliard H. Crum, ex-deputy sheriff of Butte county, who resides at Live Oak. There had been trouble between the men for several years. When they met yesterday morning Manaugh shouted out: "Have you seen Frank Chance?" and Crum answered "No," with an oath. Manaugh asked why he did not make the same answer on the night of the election at Live Oak, and advanced toward Crum with his hand on his hip pocket. When at close quarters he pulled out a pistol and Crum struck at him. Then they struggled for the pistol. Crum knocked Manaugh down and the pistol was discharged. Manaugh was on his feet again, came to the fray, and fought like a tiger. Crum knocked him down again and as he was in close range that he knew for the last time but he was mistaken. The struggle ended about 5 o'clock a few minutes afterward.

Tuesday morning, a Karuka known as Joe Eagle, alias Black Eagle, attempted to murder an Indian woman named Emma, with whom he has been living for several months at Sacramento, Cal. He came to the Indian Spaulding, where he wounded several in order to keep away from the Sebastopol in which he and the squaw were living. He knocked her down with his fists and then added insult to injury in brutal manner. After she had been rendered unconscious he grabbed her by the hair, dragged her out of the house and threw her into a rowboat, which he pushed into the middle of the river. He then climbed up on her and had intercourse with her in the boat, after which he threw her into the water. Then men on the Y. O. county shore saw what had the affair at once started in a boat to rescue the woman, who upon the Knoxville side, but some had the boat again. The woman, who was almost dead, was taken to the home of Washington, where her wounds were dressed by a surgeon. Later she was taken to Woodland. Black Eagle was placed under arrest and then in jail at Winters. It is thought the Woman will die.

A private letter received in San Diego, Cal., from a miner working on the coast says that a gigantic discovery has been made lately in the Mellenbe Mountains. The miner says no more attention recently, and pictures having gone so far as to say that it will be the longest Pegleg. The writer says that a few days ago Mr. Haney was doing some the ground in the cabin, prospecting it very closely, when he came across a little opening that led to a tunnel of gently inclined shaft, in which he was horrified to find the bones of five human beings. He noticed the men working at the mine, and a thorough search was made of the old shaft, but nothing else was found, not anything to indicate how the men came to their death. The miners are now more than ever incited to be hunting for the lost Pegleg has been discovered, and over that time, though the thermometer is 120 degrees in the sun, work is carried on day and all are in money, good. The discovery has created a great stir in the mining industry and working for them. They believe the end is at hand the remains of men who had lost the treasure and were killed by Indians. No one although the mine is owned by the old shaft, but little will be done by the miners.

Rudolph Cohen, once a very wealthy merchant and leading citizen and one of the residents of San Francisco, died at yellow fever August 14th, at San Nicolas, Central America. Cohen came to California in 1850 and engaged in business in Santa Barbara, where he amassed a fortune within a few years. He acquired a great deal of valuable land, but little or which was in dispute for years, though he was eventually successful. He moved to San Francisco and married Miss Emma Sonn, at that time the Jewish society belle of the city. Cohen retained his interests in Santa Barbara and was interested in West Texas. His interests in Texas were the heaviest and largest on Chicago. In 1872, when West Texas is nearly deserted, he held large quantities for prices well, though he would have made nearly $1,000,000 at one time. He was subsequently obliged to sell out at great loss. He was associated with Daniel Meyer in milling and merchandising in Tyler, Nev., where he again made money. Later he opened an extensive business in Tombstone, A. T., invested in land in Mexico and came out of the speculation with a heavy loss, saving but little from his fortune. He left San Francisco December 28, 1894, in the interest of a merchant, where he visited the capital of Ecuador, Bolivia and Chile. He died at San Nicolas.

A Visit to North Carolina.

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa.—"Some years ago I had occasion to visit North Carolina, and while there had one of my bilious attacks. Hearing, for the first time, of Simmons Liver Regulator, I tried it. Nothing before had so effectually relieved me. I could in no way, with justice, more than by giving such a remedy in their behalf." N. N. Shepard.
