Contemplated Reclamation of Land in Snake River Valley.

SAD ACCIDENT IN COLORADO.

The Use of the Thumb Screw in Mexico—Mines and Mining.

Robert Fraughton received a painful [illegible] serious injury while on a recent hunting expedition. He was carrying a deer on his shoulder with [illegible] behind and when he dropped his game a prong of one of the horns gouged into his leg and under part of the [illegible] just back of the knee.—Wasatch Wave.

A sad accident occurred at the Legal Tender mine, Colorado, on the 5th [illegible] resulting in the death of Robert A. Smith. He was warming some giant powder at the blacksmith forge when a premature explosion occurred. [illegible] eyes and one hand were blown off, one leg broken and face badly disfigured.

Wm. Morrison of Monroe, Sevier Co., was arrested last week by a U. S. [illegible] on a charge of committing [illegible] in [illegible] up on his homestead [illegible] in Clear Creek canyon. He was taken before Commissioner Phillips of Salina, and his examination set for Monday, but as the defendant's attorney could not attend the case was put off till Saturday.

Diphtheria has broken out in the family of Joseph Herron at the point of the mountain below Annabella. Two daughters, Sarah and Minnie are down with the dread disease, and Dr. Palmer, the Richfield quarantine physician has been treating them. As the [illegible] girl is weakly and subject to throat diseases, the doctor seems to have but little hope of her recovery.—Richfield Advocate.

On Sunday Joe Martin and Fred Colling, while up the river hunting in the vicinity of the Elkhorn ranch, discovered a couple of black sheep-[illegible] in the timber and shot them both. The [illegible] were brought to the city, and have been identified. They [illegible] belong to the eagle family, and [illegible] measured seven feet nine inches from tip to tip.—Sacramento Daily Record Union.

Major Hyndman writes from New York that arrangements are completed to rebuild the Silver King mill and hoisting works as early as possible in the spring. Also, that the Atlanta company which operated in Eureka canyon, Sawtooth, some years ago, will resume development work on its group of three or four patented claims, with a working capital of $[illegible].—Hailey (Idaho) Times.

A young man who used to [illegible] in Richfield as a watchmaker under the [illegible] of Rose, and who claimed to be from Gunnison, was arrested in Gunnison last week for having stolen a watch from John Heppler of Glenwood. He was brought before Commissioner Thurber on Thursday, but on account of his attorney, Wm. K. Reid not being able to attend, his case was put off till next Thursday.—Richfield Advocate.

It is rather shocking to learn that the mediæval method of forcing confessions from suspected criminals by torture still survives in enlightened America. But such seems to be the case in our sister republic of Mexico. The Two Republics, speaking of a recent robbery in the City of Mexico, says in the most matter of fact way: "A cargador who recommended the woman was arrested by the Seventh station police, and the thumb-screws will be applied with the view of obtaining a confession, as he is suspected of being an accomplice."

Tim Regan, who is in from Owyhee county, said today that he had withdrawn his miners from the Stoddard, and would do nothing further until the courts had passed upon the merits of the controversy existing between him and the DeLamar Mining company. He still characterizes the dynamiting of the Stoddard works as an outrage, and thinks the DeLamar people greatly regret the lawless occurrence. If the latter do not take the matter into the courts, he will.—Boise (Idaho) Stat.

The Crystal river country, along which are the celebrated Yule creek marble beds, to say nothing of various other resources, is attracting the attention of Denver capital, as the recent organization of the Crystal River Land and Improvement company indicates. So states the Denver News; also it is confidently expected that this section will be reached by a railroad from the Rio Grande and Midland early next season, and that there will then be open to settlement and improvement one of the richest and most attractive portions of Colorado.

H. B. Henry narrowly escaped being crushed by a freight train yesterday on Waterville avenue, in Globeville. Mr. Henry was driving home from Denver, and was looking at the crowd standing around the polls, which were located alongside the Union Pacific track leading to the Globe smelter. He is extremely deaf and did not see the freight train which was backing down at a rapid gait. The crowd, seeing the danger, shouted but he did not hear or heed them, and continued driving. Finally two men standing close by the track grabbed the horse and jerked it back, the car grazing its head.—Denver News.

The Shoshone Falls of the Snake river of Idaho are coming to the front, says an exchange. A body of water nine hundred feet wide has a fall of two hundred and ten feet. It is stated that a company under the title of the Shoshone Falls Electric Power and Irrigation company has obtained the water rights on both sides of the Falls, and will very soon begin operations. The first work of this company will be an attempt to reclaim the land in the Snake River Valley, which is at present unproductive for lack of water, but the soil of which would otherwise be unsurpassed. To this end wires will be run up and down the river, and pumping stations operated by electric motors of large capacity will be established at suitable points, and by this means the water will be elevated to canals through which it will be distributed to the adjacent lands.

A week ago last Sunday, just after the afternoon church services, a two-year old critter dashed down Eighth avenue and turned northward on Main street. There was a broken barrel hoop clasped around its body, the jagged ends gouging deeper into the poor beast's ribs at every jump, and a tin can securely attached to its tail, which bounced from one gambol [illegible] to the other at every step. Last week both the scene was reenacted with a slight variation. It was an old cow whose nutritious milk had, in all probability, furnished food for a family for many winters. To her tail was attached a large can into which was placed a large stone to make it weigh down heavier and strike harder upon the poor animal's legs at which two viciouis curs were biting at every opportunity. Surely there is a good field here for an active humane society.—Wasatch Wave.

The Irish Terrier Now in Favor.

Every dog has his day, and the Irish terrier at length has his. He is not all the [illegible] in London, and [illegible] wonder why he was so long placed "coming in," for, with his beautiful [illegible] and pretty head he is beyond question one of the [illegible] of the canine tribe. He is an "all round" dog, ready for a romp with the children or a rat hunt. He takes to the water like a duck, to "kill them" in a wild [illegible], [illegible] flashing and [illegible], and, as any man will tell you from Hall to Cunningham, he is "a darling wid the rabbits." He ought to be proud of himself today, for his market value ranges from ten to twenty pounds.—Pall Mall Gazette.

In the lottery of life there are more prizes drawn than blanks, and to one misfortune there are fifty advantages. Despondency is the most unprofitable feeling a man can indulge in.—Dr. Talmage.

Pliny tells us that any pain [illegible] by a [illegible] before sunrise on a person, if [illegible], tied on the left arm of an ague patient, without his knowing what it is, will cure the disease.
