The Bisbee, Cal., Gazette regrets the coming of one power of sparks from the Bowbells mine smelting furnace.

T. J. Cowling, who attempted to assassinate Chief of Police Hawes at Oracle Creek, has been sentenced to twelve years in the penitentiary.

About thirteen miles from Cuchillo on the Hooker, says the Advocate (Mont.) Standard, is a grand and imposing giant at least 150 feet high.

Dr. Goodwin of Florence, A. T., who has long been the champion swimmer, is to swim his little son for a Gallup county man has challenged him.

A herd of sheep numbering one thousand was sold in Greenhorn county, A. T., last week at $1 a head. A year ago last year the price would have been about $2.

It has been decided that the swimming ordinance of San Jose, Cal., does not shut out those who desire to "shake" for fritters or cigars, at which there is great rejoicing.

Sam Murphy, a Seattle prisoner recently sawed his shackles off by using a piece of steel from his coal bucket, after working 18 months with a knife. He did not escape.

A letter mailed in Prescott, A. T., December 5, 1893, to a gentleman at Fort Tryon in the same Territory, reached its destination March 15, 1894. The distance is sixty-five miles.

The American Metal Extraction company has filed articles to operate in Arkansas county, Colo., with a capital stock of $100,000. The object of the company is to deal in patent devices for the extraction of gold, silver and other metals.

The Cheyenne, Wyo., Tribune, learns that the board of control has charge of the matter of holding a state tournament and every effort possible will be made to hold a successful tournament at some point in the state during the summer.

Governor Waite, of Colorado, has issued an order to county assessors directing that the enrollment of the militia of the state shall be dispensed with this year. The governor is authorized by law to dispense with the enrollment on account of the expense incident to the work.

The coroner's jury in the matter of the murder of Mrs. Adolfus Eggleston in Aitkinson valley, Nev., has concluded its labor, and returned a unanimous verdict charging O. H. Strickland and wife of that valley as the murderers. The testimony was all circumstantial, but of a strong character.

While a man named Hahn was engaged in stacking hose at his home, near Helena, Mont., an explosion took place in the mixture and the boiling lye was thrown over Mr. Hahn and his little son, who was near. The latter was badly burned, but the boy was even more seriously injured, as the boiling lye was thrown into his eyes. The inner sides of the lids and the eyeballs were horribly blistered. He may be totally blind.

Two young men named Hillberry and Tussing, of Fishing Dog, says the Sheridan, Wyo., Post, were caught in a tent over near the head of Lone Tree creek, where the late storm caught them. The wind blew their tent down over them, and they had under it for two days before they dared to expose themselves. When they did crawl out they found their horses frozen to death where they were tied up and starved.

The remains of an unknown man were found on Friday morning about 300 yards below Mathew's bridge at Tombo, Cal., by a boy, who was hunting along the stream. The man was lying on his back on a sandbar some distance from the water, and stripped of every vestige of clothing. His knees were badly lacerated, evidently from having fallen, and the lower part of his body showed signs of having been dragged, though there are no indications that he was foully dealt with. The police are of the opinion that the man's neck was broken, and that he was killed in some dive, stripped to leave no chance of identification and taken out of town.

Frank Kaufman, a Sonoma, Cal., farmer who lay in a stupor for three days, died on Saturday. He had been paralyzed since Wednesday, but though the extremities were more the body in the region of the heart was still warm. At the request it was thought not that a second and fatal first attack of his trouble two years ago and the affliction returned when he became conscious. The feeling began to come over him early last week, and he went to Stockton from Sonoma to be treated by the physician who had helped him before. He was melancholy and apparently out of his head when he got there. The jury brought in a verdict of death from congestion of the lungs.

The contest between two factions of Alameda, Cal., ladies to obtain possession of a building has ended in the superior court. The Alameda Ladies' Relief society brought a suit against the ex-manager, Mrs. Susan Carpenter and other ladies, to oust them from the building. Mrs. Carpenter had a number of ladies who took an interest in her behalf, and the result was that the quarrel between the ladies became bitter. A short time ago one faction captured the building in dispute and fled it moved away at midnight. The society went into court, and now it is decided that the right action was within to the building, and judgment given against Mrs. Carpenter and her colleagues for restitution of the premises, damages and costs. This decision will end the whole trouble.

Says the San Francisco Chronicle, of Sunday last: A young and pretty girl took her own life last night under circumstances which make the tragedy unusually pathetic. Going to her husband's neglect and unreasonable suspicions she seized a pistol and in a fit of anger fired a bullet into her breast. The act had been premeditated only four months, but during that time her life with her husband was a miserable one of quarrels and reconciliations, perhaps and maintained by the husband. The victim was Mrs. Nellie Gilbertie, a girl 19 years of age. A week ago she told her husband she would go to the city. He was seeking employment, but realized that there was little prospect of success. The young couple went to the home of the wife's mother. The husband's conduct at once caused comment. He would not allow her to go out of his sight for a moment. Even in the presence of her mother he scolded and upbraided her apparently without cause. Mrs. Gilbertie also had a sister, Mrs. J. Wilson, living at 18 Hoadly Park. Once or twice during the week the young couple visited the sister's home, but the wife was never allowed to go alone. Yesterday afternoon, while Gilbertie was away seeking the means to get to Seattle, he or she, or both, had some word out for a week. They went to the Lick baths, and at 4 o'clock all were home again. Shortly after, Gilbertie returned. He asked his wife where she had been. She told him. He made a scoffing reply, which resented from her an angry retort. One word led to another. The young wife stamped in a fit and seizing her husband's pistol ran into the next room. In a moment a report was heard and he hastened in to find the young and fallen in the arms of the girl. She had shot herself in the breast. "My God, Nellie, what did you do?" the man cried. "I did," was the reply, and the girl was dead.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS

A specific for Headache Constipation, and Dyspepsia. Every dose Effective

DR. SCHENCK'S

Mandrake Pills have a value as a household remedy far beyond the power of language to describe. The family can hardly be true to itself that does not keep them on hand for use in emergencies.

MANDRAKE

is the only vegetable substitute for that dangerous mineral, Mercury, and while its action as a cathartic is fully equal, is possesses none of its pernicious effects.

In Constipation, Mandrake acts upon the bowels without disposing them to subsequent costiveness.

No remedy acts so directly on the liver, nothing so speedily cures Sick Headache, Sour Stomach and Biliousness as these
