TABERNACLE SERVICES.

Elder Brigham Young the speaker at the Tabernacle on Sunday.

Elder Henry P. Richards of the High Council officiated as presiding officer at the Tabernacle services yesterday afternoon.

Choir sang the hymn:

Sweet is the work, my God, my King,
To praise Thy name, give thanks and sing.

Prayer was offered by Elder Wm. McLachlin.

Choir hymn:

Things in the current church below
The wheat and tares long for grow.

Elder Brigham Young of the Council of Apostles was the speaker. He said that in arising he desired to say a few words to the Latter-day Saints, and to that end he asked the faith and prayers of the brethren and sisters, that his remarks might be edifying to those whom he addressed. The speaker said that this was a day of warning, a day in which each man had need to warn his neighbor. It took all the intelligence and faith that the Saints could muster to comprehend the signs of the times. The Saints had performed a great work for not only the salvation of themselves but for the salvation of their kindred who had passed from this probationary sphere, and the more they did in this direction the more and they see they up before them to accomplish in this respect. It was incumbent upon the Latter-day Saints to perform this labor and to persevere in proclaiming the glad tidings of great joy to the nations of the earth. A people having those responsibilities resting upon them should strive to retain the spirit of the Lord that they might remain steadfast in the work and keep their shoulder to the wheel in rolling it on. It was said by the Saints that the Latter-day Saints were turning the world upside down; if they were doing this it was only because of their pressing in all manner of ways the same principles which Christ and His Apostles taught to the people anciently. God had permitted His work to come forth upon the earth in these last days to give the people living in this dispensation a chance to serve Him if they saw fit, thus securing for themselves a salvation in His kingdom. If they did not see fit to serve Him they would rob themselves of that happiness and joy which the Gospel was calculated to bring to its adherents, and they would be counted among the wicked, receiving the judgments of the Almighty in His own due time.

Elder Young said that in early days in these mountains there, the Saints were united and God-fearing; they had thrown off Babylon and were all of one heart and one mind in the service of God. Today things were different in the midst of the Latter-day Saints. The people had begun to put on Babylon, and wickedness had increased to such an extent that at present vice and immorality was a glaring condition which existed in our midst. The speaker felt that it behooved the Saints to be on the watch that they might throw a safeguard around their children and see that they were not mixed up with the wicked and ungodly. The politicians should be those of honesty, virtue and close morality, and they should always be ready to take to side only persons fear of God and in his commandments rather than making up with the vile and wicked world of the world.

It is never designed that the Latter-day Saints should become poverty-stricken and blessing with naught. Time, he said, and that the Saints should offer themselves for His service, and never did He design that they should suffer a lack of the common necessities of life. At the period when these necessities, although cheap and plentiful, were beyond the reach of some of the Saints, because they had no money with which to purchase them. In the early days of the Church money was in paramount existence. The Saints exchanged their property with each other and there was no circulation into so. There is at the present time. The land was and had been blessed of the Lord and it yielded in abundance sufficient to meet the wants of His people. With energy and industry and prudence and economy it was starting them to the use. These conditions had been brought about through the influence of the priesthood, they had led us to be much attention to the life of the world and had made the things of God a secondary consideration, and in some instances to cast aside the counsel of God. They had become cold and lifeless in spirit. These to different circumstances had led that they were above their companions, who were not so well fixed financially as they. They had driven up into the house and had added to such a way to separate them the spirit of the Lord.

The speaker concluded his remarks by urging the Saints to look to God the Father, to put their trust in Him and thereby receive His blessings and to strive to keep themselves unspotted from the sin of the world. If they did this they would be blessed and prospered and all things would work together for their good, and their glory and exaltation in the Kingdom of God.

Choir sang the anthem:

Jesus, Lord, we love thee.

Benediction was pronounced by Elder Joseph E. Taylor.

HAVE NOT GOT THE MEDAL.

Denver Enrolled People Have Not Rewarded the Band.

When the Knights of Pythias band of this city won the first prize at the Denver Eisteddfod the $250 was paid to the band's manager with the assurance that the medal was not yet made but as soon as it was completed it would be sent to the band. Since then no word has been received from the Eisteddfod manager in regard to the trophy and the donors of the medal were asked to investigate, with the result that the following letter has been received:

DENVER, Col., Oct. 8, 1896.

Mr. A. S. Kimmerson, Manager K. of P. Band, Salt Lake City, Utah:

Dear Sir—Your favor of the 1st was duly received. On account of the Mountain and Plain festival here this week, we have been very busy, and were not able to investigate the matter until today.

We agreed to give the Eisteddfod society a gold medal for competition. They were the award it to whom they deem it. We noticed in their program that this medal was to be awarded to the best band. We have acted in good faith in the matter. We had a very fine medal made and we gave it to them. Now they tell us that you do not deserve this medal, that you positively said for winning the first prize, and that they thought that by give medal to anything else. We have done everything that we agreed to do, and we believe that you should have the medal. If you wish to be fair about matters without consulting us, and we probably would never have heard of it if we had not received your letter which caused us to investigate, Mr. Vincent Harper has promised to make up and we will give the medal, and we shall assure you that we shall do what we can to have the medal go to you if you are entitled to it. We understand that we had the honor in the festival. We simply submitted a good medal. Like a good many other merchants, we thought the medal be made in other arrangements.

Yours respectfully,

THE MOUNTAIN PLUM CO.

The Band was invited to all the Eisteddfod entertainments and in the official program as being a part of the program. Perhaps neither has been sufficient, and the action of the committee in putting the trophy in a position not to be looked upon by the members of the R. of P. band so as efforts to their dignity and ability. They are determined, however, to pass the responsibility in a manner satisfactory to the Denver people to disgrace. Immediate action will be taken.

Funeral of Hattie Morris.

Sadly and tenderly the mortal remains of Miss Hattie P. Morris were laid away in the family burial plot yesterday. The funeral rites were conducted in the sixteenth ward meeting house by Bishop Keeler. The young lady's worth and the sympathy that is felt for the sorrow-stricken father, the little mother and sisters were eloquently alluded by the large concourse of friends at the obsequies. So great was the crowd that many persons were unable to obtain admission to the building.

Several speakers referred briefly to the many virtues of the deceased which they had known in life as a kind of loveliness—a gem of good, a person wise and useful beyond her years. The true heart of her character was in the divine art of making others happy. Hattie Morris was a rare flower in the garden of youth and her influence was sensately with long be cherished by those who knew her in the world she witnessed the last and efforts to be helpful. Final tribute was paid to the child in which her body reposed and floral tributes sent from view her newly made grave. A select quartette rendered choice music both at the meeting house and cemetery.

There is one medicine which every family should be provided with. We refer to Chamberlain's Pain Balm. When it is kept at hand the severe pain of a burn or scald may be promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which makes a cure in most cases take the time (three to four days). Cuts and bruises should receive immediate attention, before the parts become swollen, and when Chamberlain's Pain Balm is applied it will heal them without matter being formed, and without leaving a scar. A severe cut may be healed in one night. A piece of flannel dampened with this liniment and bound on over the seat of pain, will cure lame back or pain in the side or chest in twenty-four hours. It is the most valuable, however, for rheumatism. Persons afflicted with this disease will be delighted with the prompt relief from pain which it affords, and it can be depended upon to effect a complete cure. For sale by all druggists.

"While down in the southwestern part of the state some time ago," says Mr. W. Chalmer, editor of the Chico (Cal.) Enterprise, "I had an attack of dysentery. Having heard of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy I bought a bottle. A couple of doses of it completely cured me. Now I am a champion of that remedy for all stomach and bowel complaints." For sale by druggists.

Mr. J. K. Fowler, secretary and treasurer of the Cottonwood Mill, Canal and Stock Co., of Cottonwood, Utah, in speaking of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy says: "I consider it the best in the market. I have used many kinds but find Chamberlain's the most prompt and effectual in giving relief, and now keep no other in my home." When troubled with a cough or cold give this remedy a trial and we assure you that you will be more than pleased with the result. For sale by druggists.
