SERIOUS IN BRAZIL.

The Monarchical Movement Gaining in Popularity.

HIGH MILITARY OFFICERS JOIN IT

And Newspapers Clamor for the Overthrow of the Republican Form of Government.

RIO DE JANEIRO, April 8.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—The monarchical movement in Brazil is beginning to take a very serious turn. Profiting by the general discontent which obtains among the republicans by reason of foreign and domestic troubles, the monarchists are picking up courage and declare openly their intention to restore the monarchy. As long ago as November this last they made a considerable demonstration at Rio and San Paulo in favor of restoration. What adds to the gravity of the situation is that numerous officers of high rank in the army and navy are now have hitherto maintained their neutrality have declared openly for the monarchy. Gen. Thomaz Pompeo, prisoner in the military school at Fort Alea, a few days ago at a public meeting invited his people and colleagues to join the monarchists. The republican journal Fala recently demanded that all soldiers and sailors above a certain rank declare their faithfulness to the republic. Very few army officers have responded, and many are suspected of sympathy with the conspirators.

The dispute over the Amazon territory is not as well solved as it might be under it seems. Popular demonstrations have taken place at Para and at Rio against the project of a mixed commission to report on the question which the government has signed to Vegin Cabral, the Brazilian governor of Amazon, who is almost entirely responsible for the disturbance over the Amazon question, is to Rio ostensibly working up a party of sympathizers with his claims.

The dispute over Trinidad, the trouble in Rio Grande do Sul and the intemperate tendency of the Jornaes, all serve to encourage the monarchical conspirators in their campaign against the government. They have no sympathies all over Brazil, as well as the world they go through the press. Several new monarchical newspapers have recently been started, and a number of the established journals do not hide their sympathy for the imperial regime.

The actual situation in Brazil is considered serious.

Sensational Suit.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 3.—The issues in a sensational suit in the United States court have been served. It is the suit of Y. O. Dillman, a prominent real estate dealer of Spokane, against the Northern Pacific Railroad company, and in the complaint is told in full the story of the gigantic frauds practiced by Schulte in connection with the sale of lands in and adjacent to Spokane.

Dillman sets for the return of $10,000 of which he says he was deliberately defrauded, for $112,400 damages, which he claims to have suffered by reason of false representations, and for the further sum of $50,000, which he claims it cost him out on promissory notes signed in behalf of the road.

The suit is directed against Henry Mellizzy and Bigelow of the eastern district and Bennett Bridgeman of this district, and also against the Farmers' Loan and Trust company, as holding a mortgage on the Northern Pacific, complainant claiming that the money has passed into the hands of the receivers and has been used by them to pay interest on the mortgage, and that they now hold the balance in the treasury, of which they have control.

Dillman states that the receivers are perfectly willing to make a proper adjustment if the complainant decree the property belonging to Dillmandown, and asks that the deed to the Spokane property be declared deed to his benefit, and that the property be exonerated from the mortgage held by the Farmers' Loan and Trust company. He asks that all persons in anyone from taking possession of the property until the case is settled, that the property held by him can be had, and that the very existence of pending of the suit from the hands of the receivers into those of a court, and that the court hold not just and adjudicate to his rights, and those rights shall be decreed by the court.
