David Lewis of Sandy, Utah, is One of the Victims.

BANK OVERDRAFTS UNDER BAN

New Ruling on Jan. 10—Mrs. John Parker Again Becomes Demented—Brown Divorce Suit.

Ogden, Jan. 4.—Superintendent Man- gers' office has received official report from Elko, Nev., of the wreck which occurred there Thursday, an account of which appeared in last night's "News." The report, however, makes the wreck more serious than at first given out, as two men were killed and three were injured. All were occupying a box car. The men killed, according to letters found on them, are: David Lewis, Sandy, Utah. Ballard, address not known. INJURED. John Flynn, Breckridge, Minn., leg fractured thigh. Tony Foster, Cushing, Okla., ribs broken. George Gale, New York, head scalp wound. A coroner's inquest was held yesterday, but in its verdict no blame was attached to anyone.

NO MORE OVERDRAFTS.

Banks Make New Rule Operative January 10.

Ogden, Jan. 4.—All persons doing business with banks of Ogden have received the following notice, "Ogden Clearing House association, rule 11. On and after Jan. 10, 1908, overdrafts will not be allowed. Parties desiring to use funds of the banks must make arrangements before issuing checks, or they will be refused." It has been customary with all the Ogden banks to allow most of their patrons the privilege of making small overdrafts without first seeing the cashier and a small amount of interest for larger sums, hence the necessity of the rule just issued.

ARRESTED FOR ASSAULT.

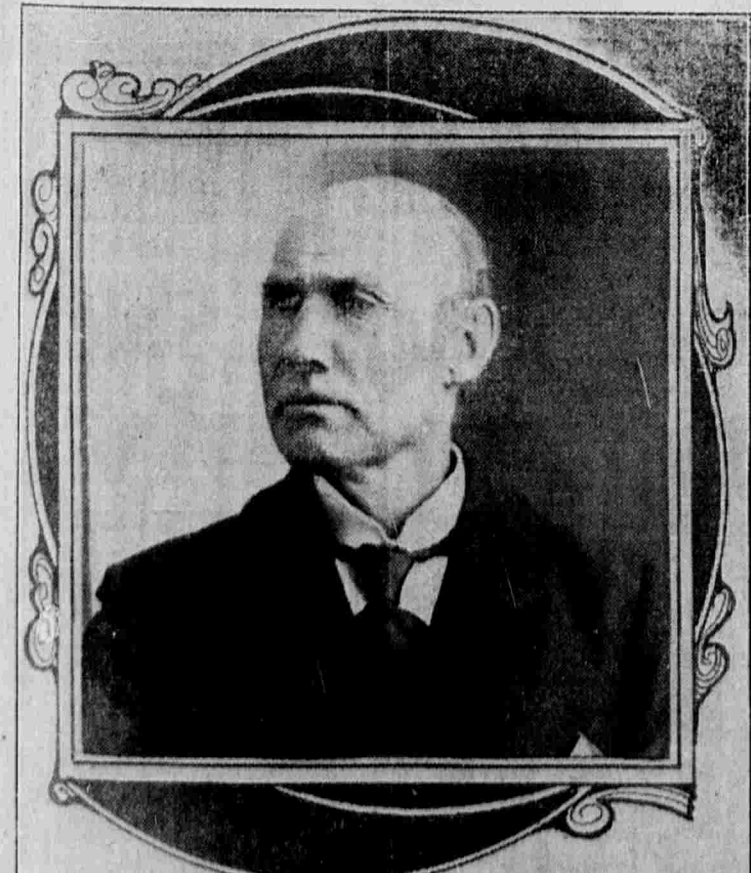

H. B. McCordell has been arrested on complaint of Edward Spennings for assault with a deadly weapon. The two men quarreled over McCordell using the Spennings telephone and the form- er struck the latter with a pistol, caus- ing a gash over his head.

MRS. BROWN SEEKS DIVORCE.

Ada Brown has commenced suit for divorce in the Second district court against Charles W. Brown. The com- plaint alleges that they were married Jan. 28, 1896, at Ogden, Utah, and that three children are living as issue of said marriage. She charges that during the past five years defendant has been guilty of habitual drinking which has given him a bad temper. A number of times during the past few years he has wilfully abandoned his wife and children and has several times threatened her life. That on Dec. 27 on Grant avenue he threw a brick at her, striking her on the head rendering her unconscious. A decree of divorce, custody of the children and other relief is asked for.

JOHN C. TURNBOW. One of the Pioneers of 1847 whose Demise Occurred This Week. John C. Turnbow, one of the pioneers of Kansas, Sumner county, was buried at that place Monday, Dec. 29, 1907. He was the son of Samuel and Mary Hart Turnbow, and was born in Perry county, Alabama, Sept. 13, 1831. Mr. Turnbow had been a resident of Utah since Sept. 24, 1857, when he arrived in Salt Lake valley in Capt. A. C. Smoot's company of 60. Mr. Turnbow saw service in the Echo Canyon war, known as the Bu- chanan expedition, being a member of Lot Smith's company of cavalry. He married Elizabeth Horn and is survived by five children. He was a brother of Robert F. Turnbow of Farmers ward. It was in the year 1861 that John C. Turnbow and his wife moved to Kansas, and that was his home until his death. The exercises were largely attended, and President Moses W. Taylor and other speakers dwelt upon the upright life of the deceased.

HOLIDAY SOCIALS.

Much Sickness Prevailing—Large Cat- tie Shipments—Kicked by Horse.

Special Correspondence. Nephel, Utah Co., Jan. 2.—The holidays are passing off quietly at this place. Socials and dancing parties form the main attractions. Saturday evening the Cornmeal club gave a very merry Christmas social, the evening being spent in listening to a well arranged program consisting of songs, musical selections, speeches and recitations, concluding with a dance, and a fruit and cake hand around.

The students who have been away at- tending school are home for the holi- days, and return to their work Jan. 10. The public school teachers went to Provo to attend the teachers' conven- tion Wednesday, the last inst., and will return Saturday evening.

Considerable sickness amongst the children prevails. Fred Garrett, Sr., was kicked by a horse and his arm was broken the other day.

Another large stock shipment of 20 cars left this place today for California.

BEAVER CITY.

DEMISE OF BISHOP JOSEPH.

Harlin Knightlinger Run Over and Fatally Injured.

Special Correspondence. Beaver City, Beaver Co., Jan. 3.—Bishop Joseph Henry Joseph, a resident of Adamsville, this county, passed to a well earned rest Dec. 15, 1907, of general debility. Deceased was born Llanely Camarthenshire, South Wales, Nov. 17, 1830. His father died when he was 18 years old, leaving his mother and young brother in his care. His mother lived until her death at the age of 85 years.

Deceased became a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints early in life, and came to Utah in 1860, living in the Parowan, Pan- gutch and Adamsville. He was for a number of years bishop of Adamsville ward, and was eminently successful in his calling, ending his life as a mem- ber of the high council of the church. He was devoted to his religion and people, and has left a void in the hearts of his associates. His wife, Mary Ann (Rich- ardson) Joseph, preceded him about six months before.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

Harlin Knightlinger, at one time an em- ploye of the Telephone com- pany and latterly of the Beaver River Power company, met with an accident Dec. 26, 1907, by being thrown from a wagon, which passed over his body. He succumbed to his injuries the next day. He was buried on Sunday, the 29th, by his lodge, with the ritual of the order.

PARK CITY.

FINAL COUNCIL SESSION.

Showing for the Year—Many Miners Leaving to Seek Employment.

Special Correspondence. Park City, Jan. 2.—The city council met last evening in final session. All bills for the month were ordered paid. The report of the city sexton showed that during the year 1907, 68 persons had died in Park City. The report of the fire chief showed that Park City was well protected by fire apparatus.

The council of the new city officers were presented and accepted with ex- ception of the city treasurer, and his bond was not high enough, as the law provides that his bond shall be double the amount of taxes for the preceding year. Council then adjourned till Mon- day morning at 10:30 to turn over the reins to incoming administration.

The trains are loaded going out every day with miners who are out of work. Some are going to seek work in Colo- rado, Butte, Mont., and elsewhere, while some are going home to visit their relatives in the old country.

SPRINGVILLE.

GRANDFATHERLY REUNION.

Sorrow Mars Holiday Happiness—Fun- eral of Mrs. J. D. Reynolds.

Special Correspondence. Springville, Jan. 2.—The holidays have been spent in a very quiet manner. To many it has been joyous, while to others sad, as there is considerable sick- ness in the city. Fourth ward has been very low with pneumonia, but it is thought his con- dition is changed for the better.

The funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Samantha J. Reynolds, wife of Joseph D. Reynolds, were held Sun- day, Dec. 29, at 2 p. m., Bishop O. B. Huntington presiding. The speakers were Elders J. S. Boyer and James E. Hall and Bishop Huntington. Mrs. Reynolds had been ill with typhoid pneumonia for three weeks and passed away Dec. 27. She was the daughter of Allen Salter and Sarah Jane Coon, and was born in Harrison county, Ia., Jan. 13, 1855. She became a member of the Mormon Church and came to Utah in 1876. She leaves a husband, four sons and two daughters, and an aged moth- er to mourn her departure.

Monday, Dec. 3, the Grandfatherly reunion was held at the Reynolds hall, at which there was assembled a great host of the clan.

Alfred But- tress was sustained as second counselor to Bishop Frank C. Parkinson, which now makes the bishopric completely organized. Appropriate music was fur- nished by the ward choir, in charge of H. A. Benson.

A ward reunion was held on Friday, Dec. 27, and an enjoyable time was had.

The holidays have been well spent as regards amusements. Dancing, roller and ice skating, the theater and home socials and gatherings have been the chief features.

The sugar factory closed this sea- son's campaign Thursday, Dec. 26. In all it has been a very successful run. Supt. P. T. Richards of the sugar

CARDSTON, CANADA

Holiday Cheer Marred by Deaths—Open and Mild Winter.

Special Correspondence. Cardston, Canada, Dec. 28.—All in peace and happiness through this season of mirth. The weather has been propitious, the temperature has not dropped to zero, although without snow so far. The threshing, together with all other work well rounded up, left the people ample time and in good spirits to participate in the season's festi- vities. Family gatherings have consti- tuted the most pleasant features in the many entertainments, although public balls were numerous. About 35 people took advantage of the holiday rates to visit with friends in the south country.

Two sad events only marred the otherwise perfect season of greetings. One is the death of Mrs. A. M. France, who has been a long but patient sufferer, until the end came peacefully. The other was the death of the 2-year-old baby of James and Lena McIlvaine Aus- tin. Mrs. France was the daughter of Lot Smith, and leaves a husband and four children besides a host of friends to mourn her demise.

The fine open weather, prevailing has permitted building operations to continue without interruption, al- though most people are curtailing ex- penditures until lumber and other ma- terials are within reach of those not fortunately included within the mil- lionaire class.

SESSION OF CITY COUNCIL.

New Officials Assume Control Monday, January 6.

Murray, Jan. 4.—A certificate from Daniel Simper, stating that he had ac- cepted 164 rods of fence erected along his land on Liberty street, was read and ordered placed on file.

Engineer Limer reported that he had seen the surveyor-general about re- establishing the meridian line west of State street, and was informed that the would be objections to the city engineer doing so.

The matter of electric lights in the firemen's hall was referred to Coun- cilman Townsend with power to act. While the matter of purchasing a story for the same place was assigned to the mayor.

The road supervisors' reports for De- cember were read and accepted and ordered placed on file.

The resolution of lighting the streets was read, and after some discussion, a motion was made to adopt the res- olution. An amendment was made to change section 3 and 6 of the resolu- tion, but the amendment was lost and the original motion carried.

An adjournment was taken until Monday, Jan. 6, when a special ses- sion will be held for the swearing in of the new officers.

TWO PROMISING YOUTHS CALLED.

Funeral services were held Thurs- day from the Second ward meeting- house over the remains of Franklin Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel B. Jones, who died very suddenly last Sunday. The services were largely attended, and the floral trib- utes were beautiful and profuse, evi- dencing the esteem in which the de- ceased was held. He died at the age of 48, and his father was an Ameri- can. He was respected and admired that you had left behind a personal friend.

It is certainly true that I left the United States after my visit to them with an enhanced affection and ad- miration for the great people who in- habit them.

I believe that the supposed "ill-feel- ing" toward our country, of which one hears in certain books, is greatly ex- aggerated, and what there is of it is rapidly passing away with more frequent in- tercourse and the kindling of many friendships on both sides of the At- lantic.—London Dolesan Magale.

ROUNDING UP RAZORBACKS.

The wild hog is still to be found in the Choctaw nation in Oklahoma. W. A. Dandridge, a citizen of that tribe, says the land owners there count on these hogs and try to keep tab on them just as they did many years ago before any good hogs were raised there.

He says that farmers are raising good breeds of hogs, but that they still own some wild hogs which run in the open country in the heavily-tim- bered districts. As many of these hogs as can be caught when they are small are marked on the ears, and some are branded. Then they are turned loose and allowed to run wild with the other hogs till they grow up.

"The round-up," says Mr. Dandridge, "is exciting sport. There is no use try- ing to round up these hogs on foot or even on horseback. They can outrun

When It Comes to Candidates Democratic Stable is Well Filled.

If the next legislature should be Democratic?

The possibility is one to discuss sofly, and after it is thought of it is time to whistle in the same tone, for the woods are full of Democratic senatorial material, and "Say," said a prominent Democratic leader yesterday, "do you know that if the Democrats should have the opportunity of selecting the next senator, we would have the liveli- est little scrap all among ourselves, that you have heard of in many a long day."

"Not mentioning Aquilla Nebeker," he went on, "I would say that at least a dozen fully desirable candidates for nomination as senator. I know a good many of them want it. I know that certain people in the party want a good many of them."

"And how about the Nebeker boom?" was suggested, since the Democratic prognosticator was beginning his list without him.

"Well," was the response, "Henry Ryan isn't out here this time, and he couldn't give it a start. If he was here 'Quill would be in the running with the bunch."

"You're a bunch—"

"And the list that was furnished had the following lead favorites:

Samuel Newhouse, who is frequently mentioned as the coming "Guggenheim of Utah."

Simon Bamberger, one time state chairman, one time state senator, al- ways prominent in party councils.

Wesley C. King, who has overlooked no opportunity of late to "get into print" on the proper course for the party to pursue, one time congressman, and always the mainstay of party orators.

W. W. Powers, one time state chair- man, once a candidate for national committee, always a prominent orator, recently candidate for the lower house of Congress, and a Democrat the party ties to pretty strongly.

James H. Moyle, who is put on the program whenever they want something really sound and full of good thought.

Recently a candidate for governor, a strong factor in party councils, and a type of the "high thinking Democrat" which is the party's pride.

William M. Roylance, ex-mayor of Provo, a strong southern party in con- vention, of going into "caboches" with Weber county, and swinging these two ends of the state against the middle make Roylance stronger than Salt Lake's make wish to admit.

Fred J. Kiesel of Ogden, who has the same advantage as Roylance. Kiesel would probably say to only thing he would want to do with the office if he got it would be to gather in all the col- ors of Washington and all of the cus- toms house, and invest it in irriga- tion projects, selling bonds against the project to run the government. In- stead, Kiesel's activities have

IMPRESSIONS OF THE BISHOP OF LONDON.

From New York we went to Wash- ington and here the real business for which I had come over began. I do not refer to my speech of the day with the president, although if you were to believe some newspapers on both sides of the Atlantic this was the primary object of my visit to America. How that friendly game became so famous I have never been able to discover. There never as a single combat between us, as the kindly president thought I should have more fun in a "four game, but Mr. Garrison, son of the late presi- dent, and himself minister of the in- terior, and I played against the presi- dent and Mr. Cooley, assistant attor- ney-general, and when, after a most exciting game, our side won the Washington Post—a name which al- ways reminds me of the children's dance at Fulham—was quite correct when it said "the president looked as pleased as if he had seen a man with 20 children"—a sight which is supposed especially to gratify his patriotic soul.

With regard to the president him- self, I feel it would be impertinent to say more than I ventured to say at the farewell dinner given to me in New York afterwards, that "he was one of the most interesting and stimulating personalities I had ever been my good fortune to meet, and that he had the great tact of a host in giving you the impression on leaving the White House
