An American Eagle Attacks A Telephone Lineman at Los Angeles.

ELECTRIC LIGHT FOR COALVILLE.

A Break From Jail.—Strawberries One Cent Per Pound in Oregon.—Tricks of Denver Officials.

Strawberries were selling in Portland, Ore., a week ago as low as 1 cent a box, and to cases of the unfortunately low price growers in the vicinity have ceased to gather the ripening crop.

It is reported from Watts' valley, Cal., which is the center of a large sheep country, that young sheepmen will not shear their ewes this fall because they cannot obtain money with which to pay their shearers.

A movement is on foot to establish a weather signal station at Coalville. This would be of great benefit to farmers, as it would notify them forty-eight hours ahead what the weather was going to be. We hope to see it established.

James Miller, the stage-robbing son of Joaquin Miller, the poet of the Sierras, has been released from Yuba county jail where he had been serving a short term of imprisonment. Miller was at once rearrested on a warrant issued by Mr. Downing, superintendent of the Oregon state prison.

The preliminary examination of Probate Judge E. W. Pruyn, of Prescott, A. T., has resulted in the justice holding him to appear before the grand jury in three charges of larceny, embezzlement and preventing a peremptory warrant of payment. Bail on each charge was fixed at $500. The bonds will probably be furnished.

The Idaho state board of equalization has fixed the assessment of railroad lines as follows: Main lines $9000 per mile, branches $5000. The Utah Northern, from Poleville to the Montana line, $5000. This is a reduction from last year of $500 on the line of the Union Pacific and the Utah Northern, and an increase of $2000 per mile on the Northern Pacific.

The San Francisco and San Mateo Electric Railroad will soon, it is announced, carry parcels and United States mails as far as Baden, thus entering in this respect into competition with the Southern Pacific railroad. It will also, so it is stated, carry bona-fide passengers, when desired, to the cemeteries of San Mateo county. The arrangements are about completed for this.

Dennis Collins, bound over for shooting Section Foreman Martin Coleman and another man at Hanser Junction last June, dug his way out of jail at Rathdrum, says the Idaho Build. He was captured by W. S. Gill and Curt Sheffler. While returning the prisoner broke loose and attempted to escape in the brush. Both officers fired and Collins dropped, with a broken thigh. The wound is pronounced fatal.

Holden Chaveon, who has become so well known to us in the past two months, writes the Coalville Chronicle, in his endeavors to locate an electric light plant in our metal is on the ground for business and has been at work all the week getting the necessary supplies on hand and has some some wiring. We will doubtless have a first-class electric light plant in operation within four months and then we can say that our light is darkness.

There is a movement on foot to establish a United States north of Fayette. The party are followers of the Bernarr Cotler, and native of the same country. The leaders of the movement are at present in Salt Lake City but they have already taken possession of the land. A homestead entry in the name of Joseph Mashlich near the land of the Sevier river is the place appointed for the organization of the city, and work will be commenced in a few days.—Manti Sanbeat.

Bert Barnes is a lineman in the employ of the Sunset Telephone company in Los Angeles, California. The other day he was sent to the San Fernando valley to make some repairs on the line. He had climbed to the top of a telegraph pole and never dreamed of a visitor like the one that came to him. Finishing the repairing he stabbed in cement, when he heard a scream of unusual harshness, shrill and drawing. Looking around Barnes was startled to see an American eagle of immense size swooping down toward him. Dropping everything but his pony, he prepared for a fight. The eagle darted upon him and struck at him fiercely with talons and beak, the lineman wielding his hammer with such effect as to finally drive the bird into a tired way, leaving him bleeding from the raw wounds and almost exhausted.

Says the Beaver News: The city is paying $4 a day for teams on the sprinkling department. The names of half the gang politicians and deputy sheriffs are on the pay roll. These two sprinkling drivers and teams for from $2 to $3 a day and are pocketing the difference. The roll for August is nearly $1600, of which probably $1000 was divided among the gangsters and never reached the men who did the work. The head of the scheme is that the street cleaning must stop because the appropriation is exhausted. There is enough money left to the city in the sprinkling department each month to more than maintain the street cleaning department. If street and teams may be had for $2 a day, why doesn't the city secure them at that figure instead of paying $4 a day? It believes with pulls, thus enabling them a profit of $60 to $80 a month? Acting Mayor McMurray is the leading financial light of the administration, but the queer state of affairs seems to be escaping his eagle eye. Nobody can deny the truth of the figures given above, so far as the taxpayers are concerned, every cent diverted is practically stolen.

How Old Is Good Old.

The Spanish sot and philosopher, Quevedo, who in his time gained a reputation for knowing everything, was asked if he knew of a person whereby a person could avoid growing old. "Most certainly," replied "I know of certain rules which will surely prevent you growing old."

"What are they?"

"Keep in the sun in summer and in the wet in winter, that is one rule. Never give yourself rest, that is another. Fret at everything that happens, that is another. And then if you take care always to eat most coffee and drink plenty of cold water when you are hot you may be perfectly sure that you will never grow old!"—London Tit-Bits.

Antiquity of the Fan.

The antiquity of the fan in the east, particularly in Asia, extends far back beyond the possibility of ascertaining its date. In India and India the only and method of the fan was the use of a hand and at one time was part of the insignia of imperial authority.—Washington Star.
