TRANS-MISSISSIPPI CONGRESS.

The Next Session Will be Held in February or March Next.

When the Trans-Mississippi Congress adjourned at Ogden, it was to meet in San Francisco. The date was not definitely fixed, but it is now reasonably certain that it will be in the latter part of February as early in March next. The California delegates to the last convention are already engaged in the business of arranging preliminaries for the next meeting. They held a session on Thursday evening, at which T. J. Parsons, vice chairman of the recent congress, presided. The delegates adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas, By the united efforts of the California delegation to the Trans-Mississippi Congress, held at Ogden on April 20th, 1892, the next congress of the trans-Mississippi states and territories west of the Mississippi river will be held in the city of San Francisco at a time in the spring of 1893 to be in the future determined upon; and whereas, the bringing to this city of the representatives of these states and territories will be of great and lasting benefit to the city of San Francisco and the state at large, be it

"Resolved, That an executive committee be constituted by the selection of two members from each of the following organizations for the purpose of making all necessary arrangements to make the meeting of this congress a success, viz.: Chamber of Commerce, Board of Trade, Produce Exchange, State Board of Trade, Mechanic's Institute, Board of Supervisors, by the Mayor, Mining Association, League of Progress, Mayor of Oakland and the Board of Trade of Oakland."

The understanding was that these communications would ask representative persons all over the state to join with them in the committee. It was decided to ask the mayors of all incorporated cities to appoint two members each, all county boards of supervisors one member each, all boards of trade two members each. The various local organizations will be notified immediately and will be requested to select their representatives by July 15th. A conference will then be held.

MARGARET ROUSURE DEAD.

One of Utah's Noble Women Crosses the Silent River.

At a few minutes before 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Margaret Conlan Rousure, of Kaysville, Davis county, died at the Holy Cross hospital in this city, of pneumonia, contracted while undergoing treatment at the hospital for an injury which she received on the 16th of January last.

On that date she was at her home in Kaysville, and was passing from the cellar to the house with a pan of milk in her hands. There had been a slight fall of snow in the morning, and this covered up a patch of ice which was on the walk. She slipped on this, and slipped and fell. The blow injured the left hip so that she was unable to regain her feet, or move from the position in which she had fallen. She lay there for half an hour before being discovered. Then she was taken into the house, and every attention that could be was shown to her. Yet the injury was so severe and painful that for two months she was unable to be down and rest.

Skilled surgical attention seemed to avail but little for her relief, and two months ago she was brought to the Hot Springs, in the hope that she would receive benefit thence. Three weeks ago she was removed to the hospital for treatment, and seemed to be getting along fairly well when on the morning which caused her death.

Sister Rousure was the wife of Hon. Thomas F. Rousure, who was twice a member of Kaysville, member of the Territorial Legislature and in other ways has brought him prominently and favorably before the people. She was a native of the Isle of Man, having been born at Ballaugh, September 28th, 1811. In 1856 she, with her husband, emigrated to Utah, and located in Kaysville, which has been her home ever since.

The deceased was a most estimable woman, and in her long lifetime and her high sense of duty, none knew her but to respect her highly. It was at her home that President John Taylor died, in 1887, and where during the illness every need of that could be given under the circumstances of his calls was administered unto. The life of Sister Rousure was an example of noble womanhood. She leaves a husband, four sons, the daughter, eleven grandchildren and a host of friends to mourn her departure.

The funeral services over her remains will take place at the Kaysville meeting house tomorrow, Sunday, June 25, at 11 o'clock a.m. The body will be conveyed from this city on the Union Pacific train which leaves at 10:45 a.m., and will be taken direct to the meeting house. A number of friends from this city will go up on the same train.

Today's Probate Court.

Estate of Enoch Jones, deceased. Hearing on return of sale of real estate and sale confirmed.

Parowan Stake Conference.

The quarterly conference of this Stake convened in Parowan meeting house Sunday and Monday, June 18 and 19, 1893. There were present upon the stand, Utah T. Jones, Morgan Richards, jr., and Francis Webster of the stake presidency, members of the High Council, Bishops of wards, etc. Sunday morning 10 a. m.—After the usual opening exercises, President U. T. Jones regretted briefly the condition of the stake. He said the sacrifices that the Saints had made in assisting in completing the Salt Lake Temple had been attended with blessings and outpouring of the Spirit of the Lord. Societies and schools in the stake were generally on the improvement. He exhorted the Saints to patronize and encourage our home institutions and to produce and manufacture as much as possible the things that we need.

Elder Morgan Richards jr., was the next speaker. He dwelt upon the subject of veneration—said the youth in Zion should be taught to have honor and respect for the aged and those in position, and to honor and obey their parents. He also referred to the necessity of cleanliness, beautifying and improving our homes and surroundings.

The remaining time was occupied by Elder Francis Webster upon the following subject: restoration of the Gospel through Joseph Smith the Prophet, placing good examples before the children, teaching them correct doctrine, etc., and the condemnation that will come upon parents who neglect their children.

Sunday afternoon 2 p.m.—The Sacrament was administered, and the remaining time was occupied by Patriarch Henry Lunt of Mexico, one of the pioneers of Parowan, and 72 years a resident of Cedar City. He gave a short account of his experience and labors in Mexico and spoke upon the subject of man's agency, home manufacture, and the effects of fashion, etc. He then read the 18th chapter of Mathew from 21st to 35th verses and made some comments upon the same.

Monday 10 a.m.—The time of the forenoon meeting was occupied by the Bishops reporting their wards, and from the reports given it was shown that some of those professing to be Saints were becoming very careless and neglecting their duties, while with the majority there was a manifest improvement.

Monday, 2 p.m.—The speakers were William C. Mitchell, John Perry, John Eyre, Thomas Durham and James Dalley, who discoursed upon the effects of true religion upon the human family; extending our farming lands and bringing under cultivation the unoccupied land and thus give room and make homes for the rising generation; the principles of the Gospel, and various other subjects tending to encourage and build up the people in their faith.

Elder U. T. Jones was pleased with what he had listened to during the conference and hoped the Saints would strive to remember and put in practice the counsel and instructions given. He urged all to remember and observe the Sabbath day, and remember our fellow-generally, crying to have charity, and cultivate a feeling of love and reverence for each other.

The general and local authorities were sustained by vote. The singing by the Parowan choir during the meetings make the proceedings very interesting. The weather was fine and the time was one of interest to the Saints.

Conference adjourned to meet in Cedar City, in September.

Stake Clerk.
