

BREVITIES.

New York has about 600 French inhabitants.

The ambulances of the army of the Rhine comprise beds for 26,000 patients.

A Missouri minister will marry a man "cheaper than any opposition firm in the State."

Tight boots are ascertained to have a most injurious effect on the vision. Tight without boots produces a similar effect.

A Louisville correspondent describes "the average Cincinnati" as sharp, hard, material, undemonstrative, well dressed, clean, temperate, and given to cheap cigars.

A Constantinople paper gives quotations of female slaves. A negro woman in good health brings about $400; a Circassian girl of twelve, $1,000, and of sixteen, $4,000.

A journal asks what is the difference between a soldier and a fashionable young lady? and replies, "One faces the powder, and the other powders the face."

The same surgeon prescribed for Edgemoor, on her last arrival at Hastings, who had prescribed for Louis Philippe on his arrival in England over twenty years ago.

They say an Idaho girl puts on style because she cleans her teeth with blacking brush. She says she was brought up to be neat, and doesn't care what folks think.

A good deal of the consolation offered in the world is about as solacing as the assurance of the man to his wife when she fell into the river, "You will find ground at the bottom, my dear."

A Boston dry goods firm has a lady customer whose bill for goods purchased for personal wear during the nine months ending July 30, footed up over $9,500.

The Omaha Herald says that Cincinnati is going to have a convention of fat men. Were the case one of brains, Cincinnati would fall, but being one of bowels, it will undoubtedly achieve success.

M. Grasso, of Italy, lately disappeared. His family were getting anxious about him, when a police brigand sent them one of his ears as a sample, and offered them the rest of him for 4,000 ducats.

A gentleman in Paris recommends the colonists to introduce foxes as a means of keeping down rabbits in Australia, adding that when foxes become too numerous, packs of hounds can be established, the equilibrium maintained, and sport procured.

"My dear," said a lady to her husband, "these friends here will not believe me when I say I'm only forty years old. You know that I speak the truth, don't you?" "I certainly shall not deny it, my love, since you have stuck to the point for the last dozen years, to my certain knowledge."

A banker lent a graceless scamp fifty dollars in the hope of getting rid of him; but, to his surprise, the fellow paid the money punctually on the day agreed upon, and a short time afterward applied to him for another loan. "No," said the banker; "you have deceived me once, and I am resolved you shall not do it again."

There is nothing in human conduct more sublime than that patient endurance of wrong which a calm and quiet trust in the future inspires. It is the mark of a great spirit to rise above the present and stay itself upon the eternal principles of right.

A gentleman had a little marble statue of Cupid in the parlor of his country house—bow, arrow, wings, and all complete. A visitor indigenous to the region, looking pensively at the figure, asked the lady of the house, "If that was a statue of her deceased infant?"

"Well, David," said a poor worthy citizen to one of the old State street magnates "the world has prospered with you and they say you are immensely rich." "Well," replied David, "perhaps it is true, but we cannot take our gold with us when we go." "It would melt if you did," was the quick retort.

A pretty story is told of Mrs. Ulrich, the wife of the Governor of Strasbourg, and who was the famous danseuse Taglioni. Her boy, Albert, went to Wootton and was reported among the slain; the affectionate mother walked to the battle field; found the youngster asleep in a barn, kissed him, and stole away so as not to disturb his slumbers. "You will tell Albert I came and kissed him," she said to a man outside.

Two Prussian regiments having committed excesses in the little French towns of Falkenberg and Remilly, such as pillaging houses and destroying property, General Bismarck has ordered the names of these two regiments, and those of their officers, to be published in all the German papers. The Germans have reimbursed the French inhabitants as far as it was in their power. A rigorous examination has been instituted by Bismarck, and the regiments sent to the rear, being stripped of their banners and all emblems of honor. The guilty regiments were the Second Heese Darmstadt Infantry and the Twelfth Prussian of the line.

I would rather when I am laid in the grave, that some one in his manhood should stand over me and say, "There lies one who was a real friend to me, and privately warned me of the dangers of the young; no one knew it, but he aided me in time of need; I owe what I am to him." Or I would rather have some widow, with her choking utterance, telling her children, "There is your friend and mine; he visited me in affliction, and found you, my son, an employer, and you, my daughter, a home in a virtuous family." I would rather that such persons should be found standing at my grave, than to have erected over it the most beautiful sculptured monument of Parian or Italian marble.

The heart's broken utterance of reflection of past kindness, and the tears of grateful memory shed upon the grave, are more valuable, in my estimation, than the most costly cenotaph ever reared.—Dr. Sharpe.
