MORE OF THE COUNT.

Utah and Juab Completed—Weber and Sanpete in Progress.

The Utah Commission spent the day in going over the returns from Sanpete county for the Constitutional Convention delegates, and had not completed the count up to the time of going to press. In fact there is considerable work yet to do in the county, which may cause it to last longer than today.

The canvassing board for the general returns completed Juab and Utah counties, and at 3:30 p.m. resumed work on Weber county, which probably will be completed before any other county is taken up, as the way is now clear.

The result achieved today shows as follows:

AMUSEMENTS.

LED ASTRAY.—Much to the general surprise, the long-talked-of society amateur performance of Led Astray at the Theater last evening failed to draw a large audience. Everyone looked to see the house packed, and when only a mediocre turn out attended, everyone wondered what the reason could be. It would perhaps be most nearly correct to say that there were a variety of reasons for it. First, perhaps, was the general feeling that the amateurs had attempted something in choosing Led Astray that they could not do justice to; second, there was an impression that the deserving cause of the Pioneer library was being used to boom a performance that was not altogether without speculative features, in other words, that the affair was not entirely for the benefit of the fund; thirdly, amateur performances nowadays in Salt Lake never do go with the zest and earnestness ... the general curiosity that they do elsewhere, largely because they have been done to death for the past fifteen years.

As far as the performance of Led Astray is concerned, it ought to be said that it possessed many meritorious features, and that the young people who enacted the various roles ought to be credited with conscientious endeavor and very hard work. When it has been said that the main fault was due to the selection of the play, and that nearly everyone was overweighted from the leading lady down, the main adverse criticism has been passed; this is not saying that there was not many individual bits of brightness; the play was most handsomely dressed throughout; Miss Long, the leading lady and directress of the affair, in the quieter parts was easy and natural, it was only when attempting to scale somewhat dizzy dramatic heights that she fell short; Mr. Westervelt was easier than any one else in his role, but it was generally too much for him; Mr. Kerr was a thing of beauty and a joy temporarily; by which we mean to say that his dress, make up and manner were excellent, but his dramatic episodes short of the ideal; in some respects his part was the most difficult in the entire cast, and that he was not able to do it full justice, is not his fault. He was at any rate as good a Miss Paulo, who played with Katherine Rogers years ago. Mr. Jennings, a professional, was easy but not always audible; Mr. Cobb struggled manfully with a part also beyond him, and it got the better of him; Mr. Glendenning was quite good as the Irish baron; Miss Roundy was quite sweetly natural; Miss Jennings rather inaudible; Miss Clawson, who has before shown herself a clever little actress, was suffering from a bad throat in the first place, and in the second never should have been put into an elderly lady's part; the other parts were acceptably filled.

The play goes tonight for the last time; the Ladies' Literary society is expected to attend in a body.

THE DRESS REHEARSAL operetta will be presented for the first time by the Young Ladies' Aid society next Saturday afternoon. It is in good shape now and should make an enjoyable entertainment.

Territorial Paragraphs.

Brigham Bugler: Wednesday Peter Peterson of the Third ward received a letter in which no name was signed. It told him to be at the train next day to receive a Thanksgiving present. Mr. Peterson was on hand and sure enough there was his present. Concealed in a box was a live infant, a tiny boy, with no clue whatever as to its parentage. This innocent breathing package had been expressed from Salt Lake, a distance of sixty miles. The waif has fallen into good hands, and it would appear the sender is pretty well acquainted in Brigham City. . . . Last week Bishop A. Nichols brought an ear of new corn to this office which he had just picked from the stalk. It was as young and tender as if it had been picked from the earliest matured green corn of the season. There are no flies on Brigham City, which now has a record of ripe strawberries, ripe raspberries and green corn in November. . . . Last week Mrs. Alfred Frodsham of Lake Side died. Some internal growth resembling a cancer or tumor had for a long time been sapping the poor young mother's life away. Sunday the day before an operation was to have been performed. Three little children, a husband and numerous relatives mourn this irreparable loss.

Price Telegraph: Wellington has been made a flag station. Trains numbering two and three will stop there for passengers to get on or off. This will be a great convenience to the people living at Wellington, but the company should go farther and give them a station and shipping facilities as the town deserves.

Payson Globe: One of our leading merchants purchased a new shotgun a few days ago. He did not possess the necessary patience to wait until he had time to go out and try it on a jack rabbit, but stuck up a spot in the back yard, slipped out and blazed away at it and then ran in the house before the neighbors could get out to see who it was and report him to the marshal for shooting in the city limits.

The Cooking Class.

SATURDAY EVENING.

As it was her own bread that won Mrs. Ewing a gold medal at the World's Fair, the ladies of the cooking class Saturday evening anticipated an interesting and instructive lecture, and were not disappointed. Most delicious muffins and pop-overs were baked and passed around for the class to examine.

Much of the success of corn bread depends upon the meal being thoroughly scalded when it is made into bread, hence the bowl in which it is to be mixed, the cup with which it is to be measured and the spoon with which it is to be stirred should be heated. Mrs. varies as to the amount of water it will take to mix it, but the average is one cup of hot water to a cup of corn meal for corn muffins; add to these one-half teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of sugar, half a cup of milk and two eggs, the white and yolk beaten separately. Turn into hot muffin tins, filling about two-quarters full, and bake about forty-five minutes.

Popovers: Cup of milk, cup of flour, one egg and a pinch of salt. Put the flour in a bowl, add half the milk, then add the egg; beat to a light batter with an egg-beater, put in the remainder of the milk and beat only enough to thoroughly mix it. Fill buttered muffin tins about half full, bake for three quarters of an hour in an oven which is about the heat for baking bread.

Besides the muffins and pop-overs Mrs. Ewing gave the class her formula for that famous dish—Boston baked beans—Put a quart of beans, which have been sorted and washed, to soak in five or six quarts of water, let them soak over night. Turn out the water, put in another water with a teaspoonful of soda and one of salt and parboil. Pour off the water and put in a bean pot in the bottom of which is half a pound of salt pork for every quart of beans you have, a tablespoonful of sugar and a little pepper. Fill the pot with hot water, cover and put in the oven, let the heat be great enough to keep them simmering. They should be cooked the greater part of two days. When done drain and serve.

The lecture this (Monday) evening will finish the course and will be upon the subject of salads. On Tuesday evening by special request Mrs. Ewing will repeat her lecture on pastry and pie-crust.

THE LAST OF THE COURSE.

Salads was the theme discussed last evening, Dec. 3, and it finished the course of lectures given by Mrs. Emma P. Ewing at Unity Hall. The subject being an especially interesting one every seat in the large hall was filled.

Harmony with a certain contrast being the most important consideration in salad making it is quite necessary to know how to suit the dressing to the salad. For example, mustard, which generally occupies such an important part in salad dressing, should never, according to Mrs. Ewing, be used with lettuce or cabbage. For those who do not care for the flavor of oil in their salad dressing, a most palatable cooked dressing is made as follows: Two eggs, four tablespoonfuls of vinegar—boil the vinegar and stir into it the beaten eggs, stirring all the while with an egg-beater; as soon as the mixture boils, lift from the stove and stir into it a piece of butter the size of an egg. When the butter is thoroughly mixed add to it, when cool, add salt, pepper (white) and half a spoonful of sugar and if it is to be used with a salad with which mustard is desirable, half a spoonful of mustard and two tablespoonfuls of whipped cream.

A most dainty and delicious salad can be made of tomatoes. With a sharp knife halve the tomatoes, loosen the quarters and take out leaving the shell perfectly clean. Sprinkle the quarters with salt and allow to stand for a few minutes; then drain, mix with the dressing and put back in the cups and serve on a lettuce leaf or an ornamental leaf. If the flavor of onion is not objectionable a teaspoonful of minced onion added to this dressing greatly improves it for tomatoes.

Mrs. Ewing declared herself delighted with our beautiful city and said that she hoped some day to visit us again. This evening she will give a special lecture at the usual place, her subject being puff paste, pastry and pies.

Davis Stake Conference.

The quarterly conference of the Davis Stake of Zion was held at Kaysville, Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 1st and 2nd, 1894. On Saturday there were present the Stake presidency, High Councilors, the Bishops of the various wards and their counselors and a good attendance of the Saints. At the morning and afternoon meetings the following speakers addressed the Saints: Elders Nathan T. Porter, P. G. Christensen, Stake President John W. Hess and his counselors, Joseph H. Grant and Joseph S. Clark, Elder John W. Woolley, Bishop H. K. Egan, of South Bountiful, and Bishop Barton, of Kaysville. The subjects treated upon were teaching our children by example as well as by precept, keeping the Word of Wisdom, paying our tithes and fast offerings, feeding the poor, etc.

On Sunday, in addition to the Stake and ward authorities, we were blest with the presence of Elders F. D. Richards, F. M. Lyman and A. H. Cannon, of the Council of the Twelve, who, filled with the spirit of their high calling, gave unto the Saints good counsel and rich instructions on the words of wisdom, fast offerings, the law of tithing, etc., showing unto them plainly that if the Saints would only keep His laws the Lord would bless them with health, give them strength to withstand all their sins temptations, prosper them in basket and store, and above all that He would fill them with His Spirit so that they would become live and energetic members in His Church and servants in Mount Zion.

Joseph Smith, of Centerville, Thomas F. King and John Walsh, of Farmington, were set apart as alternates in the High Council of the Stake.

Conference adjourned for three months to meet at East Bountiful.

JOHN J. SMITH, Clerk.

Star Valley Items.

The Y. M. M. I. A. conference of the Star Valley Stake of Zion convened at Afton, Sunday, Nov. 25, 1894, with a good attendance of young people. Great attention was paid the speakers; there were various M. I. workers, who delivered lectures from the Book and Hebrew Mormon. Good and interesting sermons were also delivered by the following named brethren: Charles Kingston and his counselors, Elders George Osmond and G. D. Cazier. The remarks were principally on the benefit of M. I. work and urging the young to own their condition and counsel, and think if there is not room for improvement preparing themselves for the future events of life and to be instrumental in assisting to roll on this great and marvelous work of improvement. It was briefly explained by Elder Osmond how the authorities of our Stake and other business men are beginning to notice Star Valley and her productions. Some have had the idea that Star Valley is nothing but a den for wild beasts; but it when people will come and visit us and stay some of our conferences they will feel amply paid for their time spent.

The people here are in general prospering nicely both spiritually and temporally. We have several young men missionaries at Provo now, and more that are going in the near future. Some of our Elders are also in the field expounding the principles of the Gospel.

Bad colds and coughs seem to be going around among the children, but nothing dangerous. No snow in our valley yet, and plenty of feed for stock. Beef is being brought from the range and shipped back East nearly every week by some of our residents.

Timber hauling is the principal work of the day here at present.

DANIEL T. WOOD,
Stake Secretary of the Y. M. M. I. A.

Lecture.

Elder B. H. Roberts will lecture before the Ninth ward M. I. A. this evening. Subject: "The New Witness."

The Briton's Attitude Abroad.

The game of the Briton in a foreign land is ever the same. It changes not from generation unto generation. Bid him to the feast and set before him all your wealth of cellar and garner. Spread before him the meat, heap up for him the fruits of the season. Weigh down the board with every vegetable that the gardener's art can bring to perfection in or out of its time—white potatoes, sweet potatoes, lima beans, fresh peas, sweet corn, lettuce, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts, tomatoes, muskmelons—all you will—he waits till you hear from him till he has looked over the whole assortment and discovered that you have not the vegetable marrow and that you do not raise it. Then will he break forth and cry out for his vegetable marrow. All these things are as nought to him if he cannot have his vegetable marrow, and he will tell you about the exceeding goodness and rarity of the vegetable marrow, until you will figure it in your mind like unto the famous mangosteen fruit of the Malay Peninsula, he who once eats whereof tastes never again any other fruit of the earth, finding them all as dust and ashes by the side of the mangosteen.

That is to say, this will happen unless you have eaten of the vegetable marrow, and have the presence of mind to recall to the Briton's memory the fact that it is nothing but a second choice summer squash; after which the meal will proceed in silence.—The Story of a Path, by H. C. Bunner, in the [illegible] number of Scribner's Magazine.

PROVO.

PROVO, UTAH, — DEC. 4, 1894.

First District Court.

The first case called yesterday morning was J. W. Beesley vs E. H. Sparks et al—suit to recover $[illegible] for brick taken possession of in August, 1893, at Nephi, under an execution in favor of Read & Bryan. E. H. Sparks's connection with the case comes about through his being a constable and making the levy under the execution. The execution was against Samuel H. Beesley and defendants claim that the brick belonged to him, but John W. Beesley denies this and claims the brick. The case was tried last spring and a verdict returned in favor of plaintiff for $[illegible]. Defendants appealed and the case was sent back for a new trial.

The motion to vacate judgment in the case of John Elliott vs John Hastings et al was adjourned and taken under advisement. This case involves the title to valuable mining property in Tintic, now claimed by the American Eagle Mining company. Judgment was taken by default in this court last summer, and plaintiffs, who are English capitalists, are seeking to have the judgment set aside, on the grounds that they had not proper notice of the case coming on for trial.

Andrew Peterson, of Scipio, has commenced an action against Thomas F. Robbins, justice of the same place, for $250 damages and cost. He alleges that defendant caused an execution to be issued against him, after he had filed notice of appeal.

In the case of Anna Tanner vs Myron Tanner; plaintiff's demurrer to cross complaint was stricken and overruled. Plaintiff is seeking to collect alimony awarded her by the probate court some years ago. Defendant asks to have the decree modified as he claims he is unable to pay it.

Notes and Personals.

Joseph McCullough of Thistle was fined $[illegible] and costs by Justice Wedgewood, last Saturday, for selling liquor without a license.

Charles F. Lewis, aged 22, and Margie Mortensen, aged 20, both of Provo City, have received a marriage license.

Andrew Johnson, of Spanish Fork, appeared yesterday before Commissioner Dusley to answer to a charge of adultery. The case was dismissed.

Thomas D. Mendenhall, aged 26, and Rachel A. Huntington, aged 21, both of Springville, and Calvin J. Stewart, aged 21, of Nephi, and Margaret Craig, aged 19, of Spanish Fork, have taken out marriage licenses.

Mrs. Marie Kopp died suddenly at her home in the Fourth ward last Friday from paralysis of the heart. Mrs. Kopp emigrated to Utah from Palestine about seven years ago. She leaves several children to mourn her loss.

Mayor Holbrook returned from the Transmississippi Congress yesterday greatly pleased with the reception given to the Utah delegation. At the meeting of the city council last evening he gave an interesting report of his visit. He also presented a receipt from the city treasurer for $[illegible]. This amount was appropriated by the city council to defray the expenses of the delegate appointed by the council. He had asked that this appropriation be made before he had any idea that he would be the delegate, and he did not feel that he could accept it.

Deputy Marshal Payne came up from the south last evening and arrested Alex Jennings on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. Jennings was indicted by the grand jury of the second judicial district. He was tried and convicted in this court last October, on a similar charge, the victim being Ammon Robison, of Fillmore, and the medium a rafted mine. He moved for a new trial, which was granted. Nephi Jennings and Thomas Gull, tried at the same time and for the same offense, were also convicted, and are now serving out a term in the county jail of Millard county.
