A SALT LAKER'S LOSS

A Brother, Wife and Two Children Killed in the St. Louis Tornado.

HIS MOTHER IN THE HOSPITAL

With Two Seriously Injured Grandchildren—Their Home Swept Completely Out of Existence.

What may be termed very lurid news concerning some of the later work of the recent St. Louis tornado has just been received in this city by a Mr. Thomas Grieve, a conductor on one of the Salt Lake company's lines. Mr. Grieve lives at 721 Washington avenue. Today he had charge of car No. 10 which ran between the Union Pacific depot and Kim Waterloo. A News man was a passenger on one of the trips and from the grief stricken conductor obtained the following story:

"On the day of the St. Louis cyclone one of my brothers, his wife and two children, were instantly killed, while two more of the children and my mother were seriously injured and are now in the hospital. Mother is reported to be doing nicely, but I don't know whether the cyclone will get better of her. I haven't yet met my partners and what I saw here caused me to see a couple of nights ago from a strange lady who learned that I was living in Salt Lake and wrote me."

"But didn't you read the names of the dead and injured in the Salt Lake papers at the time of the terrible storm, seeing that you had relatives where it occurred?" asked the newspaper man.

"No," was the reply, supplemented by the statement, "at least not all, and what I did read more particularly was about St. Louis; my folks did not live in the city but eleven miles southwest of it, at Birkner station on the L. and M., which is in St. Clair county, Illinois, and which was, it seems, directly in the path of the cyclone. There was not much said about damage over there and as I got no word from the folks I thought it meant just here. Now it seems that nobody was left to write to me. Later before to me the lady left in the death of my brother James, his wife and their two children, and I believe the little one. I had two other brothers living near the same place, I think know why I haven't heard from them and don't know whether they live, are killed, or maimed or what. I have written to them but they don't reply and it troubles me greatly. If I knew the worst I could go back and run them. As soon I port my here and find out the worst my I can. Just was with 25 years since and I have lived and the rest of the time I spent in Portland, when I came to Salt Lake in 1."

Mr. Grieve says that there was, according to the Belleville Advocate, published in St. Clair county, Ill., no one name left standing in the village of Birkner station, which is the station named. All others were simply swept and entirely away. Towards report, in describing the tornado the Advocate, say: "The storm was one of the worst ever witnessed in that section; that the property followed three houses, the first one containing the home of the late children, the second and third to a mile. Remains of wire and broken rope were."

Is It Backman Bicks?

For some weeks past Eli N. Hicks, the well known backman, has, as frequently chronicled by the daily press, been missing from his accustomed haunts. Neither his family nor his friends have been able to locate him. It is believed that he sought solace in the mountains during a spell of temporary insanity; that he went into the mountains via City creek canyon. A careful search was made up into the hills at the time and again yesterday and today on account of a well known answering his description said to have been seen running aimlessly about some miles above Bonneville.

ACCUSES THE BIRDS.

A Grand County Fruit Grower Makes Serious Charges.

MOAB, Grand County, Utah, May 31, 1896.

To the Editor:

I saw an article in the News some time ago in regard to the protection of birds. Now, Mr. Editor, I will ask you a few questions and I would like you or some one who knows to answer them. I will answer so far as I know.

What do you know for or against the crow? I have seen him picking the eyes out of a live sheep; have seen him carrying off eggs and chickens, have known him to kill little pigs; have heard crows destroy twenty bushels of corn in a day. All the good I have had him do for me is to hunt worms on potato vines and vetgetable poppers when he could not get corn. As for keeping the sly old crow out of the corn field, it would be impossible if you do not have a gun to kill him with; I have tried it with scarecrows and had my corn destroyed.

Now for the nice songsters which eat my cherries, peaches, or anything else, I do not know of any thing that can offset the damage done by them except exploding of the birds in one of my cherry trees. But I do know of some who do not want to make a market of the bird in question. What good are they, what good? I have two trees covered by strawberries; the year they have deposited a cherry tree of my fruit trees. I have other fruit trees, other trees. They must have seeds in the few cherries they, the way they are in strawberry. I have had birds destroy my strawberry and peaches—they always take the largest and best. I have one tree from which cherries were worth at a time. I can enjoy the singing the sweet songsters as well as any city people when my children are gone and I will be old enough to be out of the way and my children have gone to school and their children have gone to school. Which of produce does our farm produce? Fruit never set without birds when they can get at it.

Let me close with a reference to the crow. I have not heard over a chicken's feather in a year and I never knew of any good he was ever guilty of.

Being city counsel, but cut something in their law.

A NOTEWORTHY FACT FOR THE MOURNING.

WESTMINSTER, Co., March 21, 1894.—I am now 78 years of age, and have for many years been afflicted with a very severe form of kidney trouble, so that I could not lie down in bed for my life, I would be obliged to sit up to prop it up for 12 or 15 days. Remembering that I saw a Dr. Chase's Kidney Pills form in my place, I sent for a bottle, and rubbed in, till and pain immediately with it, commencing to sweat freely, and within an hour I was completely relieved. One application did come the business. It is the best Kidneys on the market, and I will always be a positive advertiser. E. T. HARRIS. For sale by Co-op.

Having used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family and finding it to be a first class article, I take pleasure in recommending it to my friends. J. V. Porter, Westport, Cal. For sale by druggists.

Home Times for 1896 is published each week with a story in the outlook, followed by sketches. Take a couple of doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and was immediately relieved. I consider it the best medicine in the market for all such complaints. I have sold the remedy to others and every one who uses it speaks highly of it. R. J. W. PINCHER, Valley Center, Cal. For sale by druggists.

SELF-ADJUSTER MONSTER.

With Many Makes Yields.

This discovery of Prince Wolkonsky has been known in Salt Lake City for the last while in operating over the system of the Hotel Knutsford, and yesterday morning seemed a wonder which he gave to the Shaker motion, which placed it in warm water in a glass of water and kept it alive for over four hours, during which time it was without any nourishment of potatoes.

This seems to be a wonderful medicine, for a remedy that will do this will certainly do for, as it is attempted by the great number and great variety of patentees that are commencing to the outside office, and a week ago some of the best medicine a variation that is known to the medical world.

The old man is speaking highly of the wonderful work it is doing in curing a Hemorrhoid, as well as relieving patients, and all are recommending convinced that the Shaker Medicine are a blessing to suffering humanity.

OPINIONS OF OUR LEADING MEN.

President Angus M. Cannon says of the Keeley treatment:

"I thought it impossible for one man to do what Dr. Keeley has done scientifically in counteracting the terrible evils of intemperance. His treatment strengthens men physically, mentally and morally. Under these circumstances they are given another opportunity to become men amongst men. Is there a man who loves his fellow beings that can fail to say, I view Dr. Keeley as engaged in a most humanitarian work? I trust his good work may continue."
