NEWS OF THE WEST.

A Murdered Man Found After Three Months.

A DOCTOR POISONS A PATIENT.

A Slanderer Becomes a Murderer—Cigarmaker and Free Speech—Women Have a Scrap.

Jack Sirosie, a butcher, was run down by a train Monday, in East Oakland, Cal. He received injuries from which he died in a few hours.

Thomas Sanford, a coachdriver, fell off the rear balcony of a San Francisco lodging house Tuesday morning, receiving injuries which will prove fatal.

Alexander Hach, an expert accountant, who was formerly a salesman in a Stockton, Cal., lumber yard, and who of late has been keeping house in a lower room, committed suicide Monday night by swallowing opium or whisky. Tuesday was expected to bring out an by obituaries. Hach was 41 years old and unmarried.

News of a dastardly outrage to the harvest field was received at Albany, Or., Sunday evening. For shredding one of F. B. Williamson, on the Kingman farm, ten miles distant, were all more deathly sick by drinking water from a spring into which some one had poured some poison. Two of the men are dangerously ill, but it is thought none will die.

T. B. Burns, president of the Cigarmakers' union, was arrested Sunday afternoon while addressing a crowd on Third street, near Market, San Francisco. A policeman told him to "move on," and on obstinately the street, but he claimed the right of free speech, and was arrested. His case was called in the police court next morning, and when Judge Conlan learned the facts he dismissed the charge. The judge said Burns had as much right to make a speech on the street as did Dr. O'Donnell or anyone else.

Deputy Sheriff Nesbitt, of San Mateo, Cal., has taken Tom Coughlin to Fort Lafayette. Coughlin acknowledges that he killed his partner, Charles Milner, whose body was found partly cremated near Chalmers, but refuses to make any further statement. The coroner found that Milner had been shot through the head and the wound had been smashed by some blunt instrument. The face was charred beyond recognition, both legs were entirely burned, and the heart and entrails were exposed. The murderer was generally known as "Hairy Ape Charley." Coughlin said he was partners in a chicken ranch near Chalmers.

At North Yakima (Wash.), Sunday night, Charles McGonigle shot and killed his father, and fatally wounded a blacksmith named Eaves, then gave himself up to the neighbors. The trouble arose over the slander of Eaves' daughters by young McGonigle. Eaves, his wife and daughter drove to McGonigle's house to try to make Charlie retract, when the shooting occurred. Young McGonigle shot at Eaves, but, missing him, killed his own father. He fired again at Eaves' daughter, and, missing her, hit her father. Eaves has small chances of recovery. Eaves fired once with a revolver, but missed young McGonigle.

The inquest at San Jose, Cal., over the remains of Eleazer Frost has been completed. It was resumed this morning, and several witnesses were examined. As a result, Dr. Henry Case, the physician who attended the deceased, occupied a cell in the county jail, charged with manslaughter. The verdict was reached after a very short deliberation. It was "that Eleazer Frost, a native of Kentucky, aged 74 years, met his death from mercurial poison contained in the medicine prescribed and prepared by Dr. Henry Case and administered by Dr. Henry Case and members of the deceased's family. It may have been through negligence or design, we do not know." The verdict was signed by all the jurors.

Richfield, Sevier county, Jefferson G. T. Bean Jr. has had a bad fall. A week ago out near Deseret, while driving a heavy load down hill, the brake broke—itself, not the wheel—the wagon was thrown against the horses, and Bean, with one of the horses, fell under and were run over. No bones broken, but some pretty bad bruises were the result of the smash-up. The horse was killed.....Over at Elsinore the other day we heard of a thrilling little melee engaged in by two of the belles dames of that city. The ladies couldn't agree on the price of a pan of peas, and, failing to convince one another of the power of forcibly expressed logic, exercised their rights (and their hefts) and practiced a little on manly art and each other's noses. The result was a couple of "new women" wearing rustic nail scratches, beautifully tinted eyes, artistically negligee hair, and evening gowns of a decidedly equestrian decidedness out of tenor.

Sunday evening two men discovered the lower half of a human body on a snag in the Feather river about six miles below Oroville, Cal. Coroner Workman was notified and made an investigation. The upper half of the body had either been washed away or cut in two by the murderers. The latter theory is the generally accepted one. The remains were out of the water entirely and had no doubt lodged on the snag three months ago, for it had been that long since the water was high enough to reach that point. Although the flesh had shriveled away, there was sufficient left to show that on one leg had been inflicted a deep gash from an ax, and that the bone of the other leg had been shattered by a bullet. No clothing or other article was found whereby the identity of the dead person could be ascertained. It is quite probable that the remains are of a Swede Bohemian, Nelson, who murdered a Chinaman about three or four months ago in that vicinity. He probably came back after his retreat to get his boat, and the Chinaman waylaid him and threw him in the river. It is not likely that any one will ever know the whole truth regarding the matter.

Ordered on Trial.

OAKLAND, Cal.—"About two years ago I contracted from J. H. Oates a City, San Francisco, a bottle of Simmons Liver Regulator on trial, and as satisfactory has been its use in expelling bile from the system, and regulating the action of the liver, that from an order of one at a time the order has risen to a dozen bottles at once."—H. V. Lawrence.
