Third District Court.

Judge Anderson sats out in the Federal courtroom this morning and after giving his decision in the case of Ben F. Shearer vs. the City Council, reported in another column, resumed the hearing of the Mormon Church vs. Squires ejecting suit. Further testimony was taken and the case is likely to last for several days yet.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CASES.

Judge Zane sat in Chambers this morning, but only the following matters came under his notice:

The case of W. A. McCurdy vs. G. W. Cheever et al., remaining plaintiff's motion to strike out answer. Defendants' counsel read from the files and moved for leave to file. Judge Zane granted the motion to strike out was allowed. Defendants were granted leave to file to answer.

Utah Central Railway Company vs. J. C. Larson et al. In this case Le Grand Young was for the plaintiff and J. M. Bonny for the defendants. This was a hearing on order to show cause why an injunction should not be granted against the defendants, and arose out of a recent claim for wages brought by the latter against the company. The arguments were in progress when the court adjourned at noon.

THE REVOCATION INVALID.

Judge Anderson Decides the Case of the "Variety" Theatre Losses.

HE ANNUL THE COUNCIL'S ACTION,

And States His Reasons for So Doing. —The Plaintiff Theatre a Suit for Damages.

Judge Anderson, upon the opening of his court this morning, gave an opinion in the case of Ben F. Shearer, proprietor of the Franklin Avenue Variety Theatre vs. the City Council of Salt Lake, which was a suit instituted by the plaintiff to test the liberty of the defendants' action in revoking his liquor license.

He stated that in this matter he had asked or render a written opinion, but had not found time to prepare one. The facts of the case were that on the 20th Sep., 1891, plaintiff presented his petition to the Council asking for a license to sell intoxicating liquors at the Franklin Avenue Theatre. This was granted, and he gave a bond, as required, in the sum of $500. The term of such license would have expired on December 20th. The grounds urged against the granting of the plaintiff's license as against the action of the City Council were that the license was granted without his receiving any notice of the proceedings, and without any evidence being taken, or any witnesses examined at the time of such cancellation. From the record and agreed statement of facts upon which the case had been submitted by counsel, it appeared that the only showing made against the petitioner was a communication from the city marshal, directed to the mayor. This was as follows:

HEAD QUARTERS
DENVER—As per your request, I present statement in regard to Franklin Avenue Variety Theatre.

For some time past, complaints have been made to officers in the service in regard to the character of this theatre. These complaints for the most part have been made to Franklin ave., and in consequence some of the officers have called on him to see that the proceedings without was unable to stop the nuisance complained of, as he was given to understand he had no license to do so. The officers have been unable to find any good reason why this place should be allowed to continue in business, when it appears it is a place where the most degraded women are permitted to congregate, and the dances being carried on by one of the employees, the actresses in reality do some of a lewd character, on the back of kegs on the out door of the house.

In regard to the sale of liquor, can only say that up to a short period there has been impossible to tell, in the liquor question, and in the gallery the orders could only be given to the saloon, from which the boxes have not through the partition into the gallery, and I am informed by the officers that now being served in that part of the house.

There have been few disturbances of any kind brought to our notice, and the place has been well conducted in that respect.

Yours truly,
J. M. YOUNG, Marshal.

That, continued his Honor, was all the showing made before the City Council, and on which they acted. It would be observed that the communication was not sworn to, but simply made on the complaints of drunken men—men who were too intoxicated to identify the persons with whom they dined. No notice of the intention of the City Council was served upon the plaintiff, nor any notice given him to appear and show cause why his license should not be revoked. Neither, as he had before said, were any witnesses called, nor was any evidence of any kind offered beyond the mere report of the city marshal's letter. He did not think that the City Council, under such circumstances, could revoke a license, and of course the question as to whether they could have done so upon a proper showing was not here presented. In this case the City Council took the plaintiff's money for such a license and received by the license, and still retained it, so far as appeared on the record before him. No offer to return any part of the money had been made. Action was taken by the defendants simply upon a mere presumption of a mere rumor, the information coming, in part at least, from drunken men. The license was summarily revoked, and if that could be done in one instance, his Honor did not see why it could not be done in any other. If no notice was to be given, no evidence taken, and no hearing had in such cases, it would mean that a man held his license subject to the mere whim of the City Council. It might be that the Franklin Avenue Theatre was not a very respectable place; but, at any rate, the courts did not know, there was no evidence to show, neither was it a matter of appeal, that its reputation was any worse at the time of the cancellation of the license than when it was granted. He presumed it was about the same. He was of the opinion that the City Council could not revoke a license in that way without some sort of trial or investigation, and the judgment of the court therefore was that the action of the defendants be annulled.

The plaintiff's attorneys were Bailey and Rees, and the former gentleman informed a News reporter this morning that a suit for damages to the tune of $10,000 would be filed immediately in behalf of the plaintiff against the City Council.

Amusements.

"CLEMENCEAU CASE"

was presented last night at the Salt Lake Theatre to a full house. It is the famous story of Dumas, dramatized by Fleming, and it has proven quite a sensation wherever played. The theme of the tragedy is a piece of real life, a picture of love, sin, jealousy and revenge, and so far as the circumstances human actions and passions fallibly, so far it deserves recognition as a work of art. It seems, however, to be liable to several grave objections. One is the close resemblance of one character to the famous Clemenceau case, in the minds of many people. There is no resemblance in the picture. All is shadow. Deception, hypocrisy, levity, boldness, unprovoked jealousy meet the spectator everywhere. This is not a true representation of human life, neither is it true to life anywhere else. There is some virtue, some goodness, some nobility of character left. The author of the Clemenceau case not been entirely blotted out from the human soul. A man that makes fatal error in his life, but who, afterwards, by his noble conduct, more than atones for the error, is a character worth the time to see and study. Even the question fallibly arises, if the author intended to picture a man who has committed the Clemenceau case, did he intentionally intended to implant this lesson, that failing with the sacred relations that one sins, those between the sexes, is a crime which brings punishment with it, sooner or later, and this could be the strongly urged in an age of similar levity, licentiousness. But it is doubtful whether any effort in this direction can be predicated by the author. In very many instances prevents it from producing any lasting beneficial impression. The sickly sense, which has spread in some circles, that sin is to be sought after, and indulged in, for the sake of experience. In conclusion would be an instrument in the hands of the Lord, if, as it is to be so, it would be a good thing for the people. The general application. When the betrayed husband takes revenge by killing his faithless wife, and her lover, he is hailed as a hero, and the people are made to feel that the law is a great. This, however, is strongly a matter of public opinion. The drama representing Francois Mr. Jaques let the force and sensation to French audiences, and it is to be hoped that it will not be so in this country. Mr. Sullivan, who had "Clemenceau" in his mind, did not appear quite enough as a lover of the betrayed husband, but as the injured husband, he appeared to much greater advantage. Mr. Nesbitt did well as Francois Hugo, and the other supporting characters were fairly good, except perhaps Mr. Gillmore, whose part as a count was too much like that of Count Jolivet in the Clemenceau case. The scenery was good as a French mind, when it is remembered that the blood girls over there are not the opposite, from the constant poor ladies with whom we are familiar here.

The performances selected for this week are: Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, "Ma" was good was not appreciated, but the continuance of the play are not those of the Salt Lake public. Unfortunately, the performances will be performed again to night.

The new year will be ushered at the Theatre with a presentation of the enchanting entertainment of this renowned magician. He is assisted by Madame Herrmann, and Abdul Khan, an East Indian conjurer. This season the programme includes, besides his well-known sleight-of-hand work, "Mistaka," his new illusion, which has created such a sensation in New York city, at the Madison Square Theatre, ice cream rain of 100 nights. Abdul Khan, the original turbe, the postcard and silver-coil binding "A slave girl's dream," "New black art," "Elusion, child of the sky," and other mystic novelties.

THE CORONER'S VERDICT

Over the Remains of Franklin M. Anderson, Yesterday.

OFFICIAL REPORT OF THE INQUIRY.

The Railroad Company Exonerated by the Jury—The Company's Attorney Present.

Coroner Harris, yesterday afternoon, after the News had gone to press, held an inquest over the remains of Franklin M. Anderson, who was killed on his the Grande Western train at the intersection of Tenth South and Fifth West streets on Monday evening, December 14th.

The jury was composed of C. Cline, M. O. Price and W. T. Paterson.

Mr. Hinckley, of the law firm of Prescott, Thurman and Hinckley, was present as counsel for the railway company, with a stenographer. The latter took a full account of the proceedings.

Following is the official report of the testimony as taken by one of the jurors, who acted as clerk for the coroner:

The first witness was Benjamin F. Jones. He testified: I am an engineer on the Rio Grande Western, and on Sunday evening I started with train No. 6 for Provo. I pulled out of the station at 6:30 p. m. I was west of the Meeting house corner, which covered it so that I could not see anything two feet ahead of the engine. On reaching Tenth South street, on the line of the road, I was looking out on the west side of the engine, and saw a horse coming down Tenth South street to cross the track. The horse was not hitched to the buggy was attached. It was then 12 minutes after 6. I stopped the train and backed up and my fireman and others got the deceased into the baggage car, and brought the body back to the depot.

John E. McKeary testified: I was firing on train No. 6 last evening. We were running south at the rate of from 12 to 15 miles an hour, and I was firing the tender. I had just left the fire box and was firing up, when the engineer stopped the train, telling me he thought he had struck something. I went back and found the deceased lying 8 feet 8 inches from the track. He was not quite dead, but never spoke after we reached him.

George Nold testified: I am a conductor on the Rio Grande Western and had charge of train No. 6 on the 14th city last evening. A heavy snow storm was raging when we left the depot at 6:30. When we passed this crossing the fireman came back to me and said the engineer thought something had been struck. I walked back with him and found the man first. He was lying a little southwest of the buggy, and was not dead. I heard the bell ring and the whistle blow after leaving the depot. After the train was stopped we ran back six car lengths.

Andrew P. Angell testified: I was looking on No. 6, bound south, last night. We left at 6:30, and I heard the bell ring and the whistle blow for the crossings. I was inside the car when the accident occurred and did not hear the bell. It was strong enough that I could see one mile from twelve feet from the train. I was in the rear coach on the train.

After a brief consultation the jury rendered the following verdict:

TERRITORY OF UTAH,
COUNTY OF SALT LAKE.

An inquisition holden at the south Tenth West street in the city of Salt Lake in the county of Salt Lake, on the 14th day of December, 1891, before T. D. Harris, coroner of said county, upon the body of Franklin M. Anderson, there and there lying dead, by the jurors whose names are hereunto subscribed.

The said jurors on their oaths do say, from the evidence presented, that the said Franklin M. Anderson came to his death on the night of December 14th, 1891, at the Rio Grande Western Railway crossing on Tenth South street, from being struck by a locomotive Western passenger train No. 6, moving south, during a heavy snow storm. We further find that the accident happened due to any negligence of any upon the part of the agents or employees of the company or other blame.

In witness whereof the said jurors as aforesaid, do hereunto have subscribed their hands the day and year first above written.

C. C. CLINE,
M. O. PRICE,
W. T. PATERSON,
E. G. IVES,
Jurors.

T. D. HARRIS, Coroner.

LAST NIGHT'S TUG OF WAR.

Three More Exciting and Interesting Contests in the Pavilion.

SWEDES, SCOTS AND NORWEGIANS WIN.

Germans, English and Irish Once More Defeated—The Tug at the Theatre, in January.

The attendance at the tug of war tournament in Walker's Pavilion was very heavy again last night. The first struggle for supremacy was between the Swedes under Captain Al Eckland and the Germans under Captain Jaeger.

When the signal to start was given, the Germans drew an inch of rope to their credit. By a new hard tugs they doubled this. Captain Eckland allowed the rope to slip gradually from the hands of his men for nearly half an hour. By this time the Germans had, by hard work, gained about three feet and it looked as though they would surely win. Suddenly the captain of the Swedes gave his men a series of signals which they responded to with such alacrity and strength that the Germans were soon pulled to gradually give up the rope. The little 50 of cities was were hauled back to the point of commencement and the friends and admirers of the Swedes cheered lustily for their victory. Then that time Eckland's men pulled rapidly and powerfully, and when the ribbon was within six inches of the line of victory the Germans gave up the struggle. The second pulled struggle was close, the Swedes been were the recipients of many compliments as it left the pavilion.

Arrangements Mr. Eckland is seated to be seen, notice it to Charles Lange of the Salt Lake Lodge.

ENGLISH AND SCOTCH.

The next struggle was between the English, under Captain Reynolds, and the Scotch, under Captain Ballard.

It was soon visibly demonstrated that the English team had in 10 with the hardy work through, he is said to theirself, that they made a much better showing than on the occasion of their defeat by the Swedes, on Friday night last. Having been defeated twice they which now contest for the prize.

At the called the Scots took the lead and kept it until the close of the second which ended following minutes.

The third and last contest made between the Norwegians and Irish. The contest was of the third duration, the Norwegians winning in fourteen minutes. The Irish team was made up of the boys by John. That is the third victory for the Norwegians.

Following is the record that for month by the Norwegians: Monday, week, three, last week twelve, was two, last week Scotch, was two, Irish, two, Norwegians, was three. Following was each, one Germans, Irish and English, last two each, with Swedes, last one.

There will be a tug at the auditorium during one in the Theatre sometime during the latter part of January next.

According to general arrangements the contests will all be between the Dane and Italians, the Swedes and Americans, the Scots and the Germans, the Norwegians and the Irish.

Richard Thompson is under arrest on a charge of drunkenness and disturbing the peace.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

AN AWFUL STORY.

Three Persons Killed and the Murderer Escapes from Jailer.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 29.—Marion and Dave Beatty and Orin Bowden, of Pickens county, on upper Tennessee, lie dead in their houses, and Ewen Bowden, their accuser, is a fugitive from justice with a reward offered for his apprehension.

These facts are, Mary Beatty, the sister of the two boys, lives and the belle of upper Tennessee county, is about this society. Then it became noised about that the young women had become a mother. The story was substantiated some time after by the sudden arrest of Cal Gates Beatty, a basket at the richest man in the county, at the instigation of the girl, his daughter, who charged him with being the father of her child. Yesterday at the same hour, the fearful news the jailer and sheriff of the county that they removed Kim from jail and that another county for safe-keeping. The neighbors and friends began to take sides, some with the wronged girl, and others with the father. Finally, Beatty gave heavy bond and left the county.

Mary Beatty went to live with some distant relatives, Hiram Harris' family, who lived at Atlanta, not far from Jamestown. Harris' family, accompanied by Mary Beatty, came to town Monday to do some trading and to spend the day. Ewen Bowden came to town against her father. The Beatty's were there with their friends and relatives. The crowd adjourned at 4 o'clock and after nothing more happened the Harris family and Mary Beatty started home. When the Harris family left the town Bowden rode up to Mary Beatty and Beatty, the brothers, mounted their horses and followed them. One mile from Jamestown Marion Beatty met the party and ordered Mary Beatty to get off the horse with him, emphasizing the command with a gun in his hand. The girl refused to get off the horse and ordered her brother to leave with him again. Beatty again ordered Bowden, when Harris pulled a revolver and shot all three men and killed them.

The Beatys have always enjoyed the respect of the people of the county, and all years ago Cal Gates Beatty was a leader representative. He was extensively engaged in the general merchandise and livestock business. Many years before Mary Beatty's mother was born. She was an educated, intelligent Kentucky woman about twenty years old and enjoyed the affection of all who knew her. The family is a proud one and the people of the county. A report that Mary Beatty and young Harris were married some time ago in Scott county is current, but cannot be confirmed.
