COMMISSIONER ROSS and family after visiting the World's Fair went to New York and Brooklyn and spent an enjoyable time. Mr. and Mrs. Ross have married daughters in each of these cities where they had not seen for years. The ex-fireman and his family are now "doing" the New England towns, where they also have numerous relatives. They will be absent about two weeks more.

SOME TIME ago the city street department on irrigation, acting under order of the council constructed a waste water ditch on Third street in the Seventeenth ward. The banks and dirt from it were thrown into the road making a ridge a block long. At first it was supposed this material would be removed. Those who thus hoped have been deluded. Now the street is almost impassable. Will it be fixed?

Death of Mrs. Peck.

The friends of Sarah Ann, wife of Dorr Peck, will be pained to learn that she died at the residence of her father, Richard Matthews, in the Seventeenth ward yesterday (Sunday) morning at 12:10 o'clock. Her illness was a brief one and her demise unlooked for. She was born in Salt Lake City, January 19th 1856. She leaves a husband and three small children to mourn her death. Funeral services were held at the Matthews residence at 11 a. m. today.

Double Bereavement.

Yesterday morning the family of David McRae, of the Eleventh ward of this city, were called upon to bear a heavy loss. Two members of the family, bright little boys, aged five and three years respectively, have been suffering from diphtheria for about a week past, and yesterday morning both of them succumbed to the dread disease. Their bodies were laid to rest in the cemetery today. The sympathy of a host of friends goes out to Brother and Sister McRae in this time of affliction at being thus called to part with their beloved children.

COMMISSIONER EMPEY

He Makes Report to the Territorial Board of Utah's Showing.

A WORTHY & CREDITABLE EXHIBIT

Favorable Comment From Visitors and Flattering Notices by Newspapers.

Executive Commissioner N. A. Empey, after fully looking over the Utah exhibit at the World's Fair, and inspecting the building, and after receiving the coal and the general showing, reports as follows to the Board of Territorial Commissioners:

Gentlemen—I submit herewith a report, stating briefly the condition of affairs as I find them in Chicago.

I have given my personal attention to the moment of the business of the commission since May 1st. I find upon investigation that Utah has both a worthy and creditable exhibit, and that we are receiving favorable comment from visitors and flattering mention in eastern newspapers.

As an advertisement of our resources our exhibit is such that a wonderful amount of good will accrue to the Territory as a result of our participation in the Exposition. Hundreds of visitors call daily to inquire about some special feature, and already a large number of people have gone out to Salt Lake, Ogden and other points to make a personal inspection of the resources represented here.

I find upon examining our several departments that we have done much better than it was first expected. I am gratified with what I hear from the mining Department. Experts tell me that it is the most varied collection of minerals and natural products generally to be found in the great mineral building coming from any particular state or country.

Attention has been called to many things which excite general interest among capitalists and others on the lookout for something in the way of new enterprises in which to invest their money. Our mining booth is constantly thronged with visitors, and the clerks take great pleasure in explaining the nature of the exhibit, and it is useless to say he always has an interested audience.

Our agricultural exhibit presents as fine a collection of grains and grasses as can be found from any other part of the world, and in quality and variety of agricultural products Utah has nothing to be ashamed of when brought into competition with the world.

The irrigation system which we exhibit is one of the most interesting features of the Agricultural building to people outside of Utah who are not familiar with irrigation. Hundreds of farmers come daily to examine the system, and when they see the actual products of the soil, the result of irrigation, on exhibition they go away declaring it be by far the most perfect farming system in existence.

Our village farm system also attracts many people, as Utah is the only place in America where it is in successful operation. Our wool exhibit has not been placed yet, but when it is I have no reason to think it will not be as good as any to be found on exhibition and in many instances it will be far superior.

Our forestry exhibit, while not as extensive as others, is still in keeping with the lumber industry of Utah, and is in every way creditable. The chief of the agricultural department has certainly gotten together in the Agricultural and Forestry building a collection of Utah products that does credit to the Territory, and is doing a wonderful amount of good in an advantageous way; in fact, I think we are more than already compensated for the expense we have been to in preparing the exhibit, and his assistants have performed their respective labors in a most pleasing and satisfactory manner.

Our educational exhibit is a revelation to most Eastern visitors, for the reason that it shows that Utah has a school system which, when perfected in all its branches, will be equal to that of any state. Our exhibit today compares with any of the Western states, and this is saying a good deal, because one thing is apparent in the educational department, and that is, that the West finds left to excel the East in educational matters. The chief and his assistants in this department are to be congratulated.

In the Women's building Utah has the most interesting silk exhibit to be found on the grounds. It attracts more attention, the material is of better quality and the workmanship is equal to the best. I wish to say that Mrs. Salisbury deserves the thanks of each individual citizen of Utah for her work in this department. Utah is presumably ahead of any state in the Union on silk.

What we have in the way of a manufacturers' exhibit in the Utah building is most creditable in every particular and helps wonderfully in advertising the resources of the Territory. I only wish we had more.

Our building is credited with being the most hospitable and home-like of any of the state buildings, and as each state is credited with excellence in some one or more features, I feel glad to know that we are accounted hospitable, and that visitors come to see us because they feel and know they are welcome, and then it is a pleasure to hear the commendation people, all of whom say they are more than pleased with our building. Such commendation caught is compensate us for many weary days of labor and worry.

Our ladies' board is one of the main stays of Utah's portion of the great Exposition. They have worked with untiring zeal, and their efforts have borne good fruit. The decorations of our building attest their handiwork, and I must say it has been a labor of love in the very strictest sense of the term. To each one of them from the president down I wish to publicly express the thanks of the commission.

From personal knowledge I am prepared to say that all money expended on our exhibits has been judiciously and economically expended, and, all things considered, I know it has been expended to the best possible advantage. I believe the vice president, who has recently been here, will corroborate this statement.

The officials and employes here have performed their respective duties to my entire satisfaction. The work is at times laborious and at all times more or less vexing, yet everything is moving harmoniously.

In conclusion I wish to advise every citizen of Utah who possibly can to visit the Fair. It is the event of a lifetime, and none can be better here in view by observation that can be obtained from books in years of study.

N. A. EMPEY,
Executive Commissioner.
CHICAGO, June 14, 1893.

TO ANSWER FOR CONTEMPT.

Mr. George C. Whitmore, the Nephi Banker, Is Involved in Law Once More.

George C. Whitmore, ex of "gold brick" history, has to answer for a alleged contempt of court. The matter was called up in Judge Zane's court later on Saturday afternoon, having been put over from the morning (when it was to have been heard) and occupied quite a long time.

Readers of the News will probably recollect that some time since the case of L. A. Scott-Elliott vs George C. Whitmore et al was tried before J. H. Harris, referee. The question involved was as the ownership of valuable water rights on Grassy Trail creek, and the referee found that the defendants were entitled to sixty-seven one hundred and fifteenths of a cubic foot per second of the water and the plaintiff to the balance. This finding was confirmed by Judge Zane, and later W. P. Hardesty was appointed by the courts a commissioner to take charge of the matter and construct a measuring box which would apportion the waters of the creek according to the terms of the decree. Mr. Hardesty did as directed, and all went on well until Sunday (yesterday week) when, according to the allegations in the affidavit upon which Mr. Whitmore was arrested, he tore out the measuring box and since that time has diverted almost the entire amount of water to his own use, much to the plaintiff's detriment. On Friday an attachment issued out of Judge Zane's court for the arrest of Mr. Whitmore, and Deputy Marshal Redfield of Provo took him into custody. He on Saturday afternoon he was on hand to answer to the charge of contempt.

Attorneys Brown and Henderson for the defense, argued a motion for continuance on the ground that they had not been served with any of the papers in the case, and needed time to prepare a defense. Attorneys C. S. Varian and John M. Zane for the plaintiff, objected to any continuance, claiming that Mr. Elliott would be irreparably damaged if the matter was not adjudicated upon at once. The court allowed the defendants one hour in which to answer the complaint. Then they returned, and filed their answer to the affidavit of plaintiff. It recited that the District Court ever possesses jurisdiction of the same, and avoided that the plaintiff had been deprived of any of his rights under the terms of the decree. It was further alleged that the box put in by the commissioner of the court was not such a one as the decree provided for, inasmuch as it gave plaintiff seven cubic feet of water per second instead of five cubic feet per second as required by the decree; also, that plaintiff is still getting the full amount of water to which he is entitled. When the argument had ended the case was set down for hearing next Saturday. Mr. Whitmore was released on a bond of $200 until that time.

John Cassidy.

It is not unlikely that the man reported in Saturday's News as being found dead at Red Cliff, Colorado, is John Cassidy, of Hot Springs, Wyoming. The information from Red Cliff did not give Cassidy's Christian name, but described him, and W. A. Linn, of this city, who was well acquainted with John Cassidy, says the description fits him. Mr. Linn also says that Cassidy came to Salt Lake five or six weeks ago, from Hot Springs, where he has a wife and family. He stayed here about three weeks, and boarded with a family named Smith, at 271 west South Temple street, where Linn was also a boarder. Cassidy was a member of the Odd Fellows' society, and had a card with him. Since his departure from here there has been some correspondence between the two men, and Linn's last letter remains unanswered, though there has been ample time to reply. He says that while there are many Cassidys he is satisfied that the one found at Red Cliff is the man he knew in this city.

The Gentlest Boat in America.

The most expensive illustrated book yet made is said to be a Bible now issued by Theodore Irwin, of Oswego, N. Y. It is valued at $10,000, for Mr. Irwin paid that sum for the work. The original was in seven volumes, folio, and to the addition of drawings and engravings, it was enlarged to sixty volumes, each 18x24 in., which occupy seventeen feet of space on the shelves. This remarkable book contains 1500 pen and pencil drawings, etchings, engravings, lithographs, oil and water-color paintings, and water-tints. Among the illustrations are parts of the "Great Bible of Cranmer," printed in 1539; part of "The Bishop Bible," printed in 1568; of the Nuremberg Bible, the first illustrated Bible published, printed in 1476, and of "Luther's Version," and "The Breeches Bible." The extender has brought together the best and rarest efforts at illustrating the text of the Bible, and also the art of modern painters and engravers, making it the most complete and valuable Bible in existence.—Scribner's.
