PASSED AND LOST.

Final Action on a Number of Bills in the House.

ADJOURNMENT OF THE COUNCIL.

Temper of the House in Respect to Financial Legislation.—The New County.

Towards the close of the third week of the session, the House is beginning to show definitely its disposition regarding the disposal of measures that are up for final action. That disposition is to dispose of them quickly. In about an hour yesterday afternoon the House debated and passed three bills, and killed three more.

One of the bills passed, H. B. 42, was designed to correct an oversight in a law passed at the last session, which required county collectors to receive Territorial warrants for taxes, but did not authorize the Territorial treasurer to receive the warrants from the collectors. In consequence of this legislative blunder a number of county collectors cannot settle with the Territorial treasurer, until the relief afforded by this bill shall be extended to them. The House did itself credit by the careful investigation it made into the scope and effect of this bill, before passing it.

The next bill passed, H. B. 81, was also designed to correct an omission in the present law, by allowing city councils to elect a mayor pro tem from among their own number, during the absence or disability of the mayor.

The next bill passed was H. B. 55, extending the time of redeeming real property sold under mortgages of execution, to one year, the present term of redemption being six months. The bill also gives one year in which to redeem real estate sold under trust deeds. By its terms, however, it is made to apply only to mortgages, executions and trust deeds, given or issued in future, and does not affect existing obligations. In an able speech Representative Allen, of Salt Lake, opposed the bill, fearing that it would operate naturally rather than intentionally to the borrower. He argued that lenders would be unwilling to renew existing mortgages and trust deeds, because such renewed contracts would come within the operation of the law. He deprecated meddling with our present statutes upon such subjects, because frequent changes of these laws made capitalists shy, whereas if our Legislature would show a disposition to legislate wisely rather than hastily, the confidence of money lenders would be increased.

Various replies, conceding weight to Allen's objections, and claiming that the bill related to a question of policy which the Assembly should decide, followed. The judiciary committee, which had drawn the bill as a substitute for others, had given a hearing to attorneys, bankers and others, and had erected the modification that the relief to borrowers which this bill would afford, should be given, and that the result would be more good than harm to the debtor class.

The bills lost were: H. B. 15, amending the chattel mortgage law; H. B. 36, regulating the practice of medicine, and H. B. 45, relating to the recording of waters. The medical bill was a similar one with the House, by a unanimous vote, rejected. It prescriptorily forbade any person to practice medicine or obstetrics without a diploma, except in districts where no physician with a diploma, resided. The House will not entertain any more such propositions as this, lodging by its action yesterday.

It seems highly probable that the petition, having about 700 signatures, which asks for the creation of the new county of Carbon, with the county seat at Price, will be granted. The bill creating the new county was favorably reported by the House committee on counties yesterday, and no opinion to the contrary seems to show itself.

While the contempt proceedings were pending in the Council yesterday, and especially after the case of H. E. Smith was disposed of, there was a sparring between Democrats and Republicans, which did not relate to any parliamentary question before the house, and was largely personal in character. In fact, considerable acrimony was developed, and it was a wrangling to outpoint, which the Council did for the day, after the contempt case of Mr. Lund was disposed of by his acquittal. No legislative business whatever was done in the Council yesterday.

In the debate on the wool memorial in the House this afternoon, Utes led off in opposition to it. He claimed that the allegation in the memorial, that the development of the wool industry would have been impossible but for protective legislation, was untrue. He favored tariff for revenue, with incidental protection. He was of opinion that placing wool on the free list would reduce its price but that the wool industry was so well established that it could take care of itself without protection. He did not think the price would go lower than it is now were the tariff removed, but it would be less than the average for several years past. He gave figures, compiled by himself, on the cost of caring for and profit on 3,000 sheep in this Territory. He put the sheep at $2 per head, or $6,000 for the capital invested, the expenses at $3,000, the product in wool and lambs at $4,000, and the net profit at $2,000. He claimed that the sheep industry was suffering now, not because it was not profitable, but because of the general financial distress, which makes all industries suffer. He held that the low price of wool had stimulated the manufacture of woolen goods in the Territory.

HOUSE.

After the close of the News' report yesterday, Varian, from the judiciary committee, reported adversely the bill to protect employes and laborers in their claims for wages.

The following bills were introduced:

By Hubbard: H. B. 97, to prevent scab and other diseases among sheep. Requires the office of sheep inspector, to be filled by the county court. Requires all sheep in the county to be inspected between September 1st and November 1st of each year, and makes provisions to prevent diseased sheep from coming through the county.

By Varian: H. B. 98, to protect fish ponds and rivers. The same gentleman introduced H. B. 99, to create a territorial board of horticulture. Apparently these two bills should be combined. The latter provides for a board to consist of nine members, appointed by the Governor, secretary and treasurer of the county, two from the Territory at large and one from each of the seven horticultural districts, which are to be constituted as follows:

First (Logan district)—Rix Elder, Cache and Rich counties.

Second (Ogden district)—Weber, Morgan and Summit counties.

Third (Salt Lake district)—Davis, Salt Lake and Tooele counties.

Fourth (Provo district)—Utah, Juab and Wasatch counties.

Fifth (Beaver district)—Sanpete, Emery and Uintah counties.

Sixth (Beaver district)—Millard, Sevier, Piute and Beaver counties.

Seventh (Washington district)—Iron, Garfield, Washington and Kane counties.

The members shall be practical men, and hold office for four years, except that, of the nine first appointed, four, to be determined by lot, shall go out at the end of two years, when their successors shall be appointed by the Governor. The board shall collect and publish information of value to horticulturists and especially such as relates to the diseases of trees and destructive insects. Varian also introduced H. B. 70, to prevent the spread of fruit tree diseases and pests.

By Preston—H. B. 71, relating to non-assessable stock.

H. B. 54, providing for the redemption of land sold for taxes, was discussed, but taken subject to the call of the committee, on motion of Warner, who said a revenue bill would be introduced today, conflicting with it.

H. B. 35, amending the revenue law, was tabled to come up with the last named, as was also H. B. 59, relating to the same subject.

H. B. 67, which diverts the route of the school taxes from the Territorial treasury to that of the county to which the lands are situated, was laid on the table, subject to the order of the House.

H. B. 89, relating to the inspection of sewer valves, was referred back to the committee on manufactures.

Green asked members to report the number of persons to go to Provo Saturday, so that transportation could be arranged for.

Adjourned.

TODAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

COUNCIL.

Much time was consumed in disposing of the minutes of the doings of the two previous days. This matter was still occupying the attention of the Council at the time of going to press.

HOUSE.

The following petitions were presented:

By Tolton: Petition of W. L. Cook, of Beaver, in relation to survey.

By Cook: Petition of citizens of Beaver county in relation to sugar beets.

By Wilson: Petition from county court of Utah county relating to assessments and the taking of fish from Utah Lake.

The following bills were introduced:

By Clark: H. B. 72, to regulate the practice of medicine.

By Ivins, by request: H. B. 73, to prevent cruelty to animals.

By Warner: H. B. 74, a general revenue bill.

The wool memorial came up. Allen said it was a measure upon which the two sides of the House would differ, and the committee, as author of the bill, reserved the right to close the debate.

NOTES.

The Council minutes for yesterday are very brief.

Hon. J. T. Hammond of Logan was moving among the members today.

The daily attendance of spectators in the lobby of the House continues large.

Counselor Hague, who has been absent for two days on account of illness, was at his desk to day.

Most of the members, some of whom will be accompanied by ladies, will visit the sugar factory, Brigham Young academy and Brigham Young academy tomorrow.

The question is often asked: Could not a Republican member of the Council have voted with the Democrats in the lead memorial, and then given notice that he would move reconsideration, and so have gained time until the Republican members were present? The answer is, that a Democrat might have moved to table the notice, and thus defeat the Republican purpose. The soundness of this answer is open to question.

Robbed and Brutally Beaten.

The Twentieth ward has probably been the scene of as many if not more bold hold-ups and brutal assaults than any other outlying district of the city. In it last night near the corner of I and Second streets, George Davis, a plumber, was brutally felled to the ground by a blow from a slung shot in the hands of a thug two of whom were standing under a shade tree as he approached them.

The blow was so violent that the point of the left cheek bone was crushed in. While there unfortunate victim sought to rise he was relieved of his watch and chain. Before a complete ransacking of his pockets had been made they appeared to become frightened and accordingly decamped without the few dollars they might have secured had they been less hasty. They were heard to remark as they started off, "We struck the wrong man."

Davis laboriously and painfully made his way to the police station, where he related his story and gave a pretty accurate description of his assailants, whom the officers are of the opinion they will capture, for whom they were unable to find last night. Considerable time elapsed before the desk sergeant at the City Hall succeeded in getting a doctor to attend to Davis's injuries, which are very serious and will disable him for some time to come.

Barlow is Repentant Now.

Dick Dalrow, the big burly tough who jumped onto Captain Donovan at the City Hall last night and who was strangled in to submission and then thrown into jail for the night, was brought out and arraigned before Justice Smith this afternoon, when he pleaded him guilty of assaulting an officer. Sentence was suspended until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

While Barlow is sorry for his offence he is still very vindictive, and assigns the infliction of the law's punishment as one quite uncustomed to that sort of thing.

WANT A RECEIVER.

Shareholders of the National Building & Loan Association

ARE NOW ALL UP IN ARMS.

Disatisfied With What Has Been Done, The Aid of the Courts Is Sought.

An action of public interest and importance reached the files of the Third district court this afternoon, the plaintiffs in which, about one hundred in number, include C. E. Loughes, Harry Hayes of Murray; Ex-Mayor Dusenberry of Provo; J. J. Curtis, councilman of Salt Lake City; Mayor Holbrook of Provo; John H. Twelves, cashier of Bankers' Commerce, Provo; Jos. Chipman, banker, American Fork; Dr. F. A. Moeman, city; Attorney George Sutherland, and Louis Gadd of Lehi.

The defendants to the suit are the Western Loan & Savings company, the National Building & Loan Association of Salt Lake city; Hudson, Smith and H. P. Mason.

Shareholders in the defendant companies residing in many points of Utah, Colorado, Iowa, Montana, etc., are also named as plaintiffs. Upon behalf of these and the parties first named the complaint was filed by the law firm of Day & Rawlins of this city.

The complaint (which is a very voluminous document) sets forth, in substance, that the National Building and Loan association was incorporated about March 29, 1889, under the provisions of chapter 12 of the laws of Utah for 1888, and continues to exercise its corporate rights until July, 1893, when its above named business were transferred to the Western Loan and Savings company; that at that time the National had had only a nominal existence and conducted no business whatever; that at the time of the transfer the directors of the National were the defendants Hudson Smith, H. P. Mason, F. C. Schwab, Hugh Price, J. F. Corkle, Charles Bulwin and A. S. Richardson, and that the assets thus transferred, the total value of all the assets not being sufficient by a sum exceeding $25,000 to pay its liabilities which sum was known to some of the shareholders except the directors named.

Without any knowledge of a deficiency of the assets of the National plaintiffs were induced to vote for the transfer, and by reason of fraudulent means made to them.

Plaintiffs further allege that no meeting of stockholders of the Western Loan and Savings company was called for both relating to a so-called "merging or practical consolidation" of the National with the Western, but that all negotiations, contracts and agreements in connection therewith were made and executed on behalf of the Western Loan and Savings company by the directors and officers of the company, without the authority, knowledge or approval of the stockholders of two-thirds thereof, and that no meeting of the stockholders of said company was called or held relating to the transfer.

Plaintiffs then declare, upon information and belief, that the Western, through its directors and officers, were fully advised and well aware before entering into negotiations that the so-called "merging of practical consolidation" of the two corporations was illegal and contrary to the laws of the Territory, that its directors and officers acquiesced and combined with the directors of the National, entered into negotiations in consequence of a premeditated design, and with the intent to illegally and wrongfully transfer the business and assets by means, covert and illegal acts and devices to induce and compel the shareholders of the National to sign agreements to transfer their shares and right to the Western.

It is likewise alleged that certain proxies held by one Clarence Grange, secretary of the Western, were procured by misrepresentation, and by the procurement of the said Western Loan & Savings company, and in furtherance of the general scheme to illegally transfer the business.

After reciting other wrongful acts in regard to certain notes, plaintiffs go on to aver that since the transfer of the business was made to it, the Western Loan & Savings company has usurped and attempted to exercise the corporate rights and franchises of the National, and in general used and appropriated its assets without regard to the rights of the shareholders; and that the withdrawing stockholders have not received anything whatever from either the National or the Western.

It is further averred upon information and belief that the directors of the National have grossly mismanaged the business of the association, falsely represented in addition to the shareholders and paid out its moneys in a manner contrary to law; its assets have been allowed to shrink to an amount exceeding $25,000 below the sum actually due to the shareholders by reason of unlawful payments, etc. It is contended likewise that the directors have issued shares of stock contrary to law and without consideration, and authorized payments of withdrawals in an illegal manner contrary to the charter and bylaws.

Plaintiffs wind up by saying that the National Building and Loan association by its stockholders have suffered damage by reason of the foregoing acts to the extent of $25,000, and that the directors should be compelled to pay such amount in a receiver is taken from them, so that the plaintiffs, as withdrawing members, may be awarded their pro rata share of the amount.

Therefore plaintiffs pray that the transfer of the assets and business and all transactions connected therewith be declared illegal and void; that (among other things) the Western Loan & Savings company be compelled to account with their over all assets of the National; that a receiver, who shall be authorized to pay to plaintiffs, as withdrawing members, successive dividends upon their stock whenever a sufficient amount is reserved to pay a dividend of ten per cent of the amount to which they are shareholders, are entitled to and shall thereafter, the defendant companies be ordered to turn over all books of account and record papers and documents to said receiver; that said receiver be and is hereby authorized to pay ratably and equitably to the shareholders, the assets of the National, and that the shareholders therein, including plaintiffs, against Hudson Smith, H. P. Mason, F. C. Schwab, Hugh Price, J. F. Corkle, Charles Bulwin and A. S. Richardson, as directors and any of the directors of said corporation, holding liable for the recovery of a sufficient damage amounting to not less than twenty-five thousand dollars to take reports and representations of the condition of the corporation to the shareholders made by said directors and stockholders, and for mismanagement and gross neglect of duty in the conduct of the business, and for paying out its money contrary to orders and for illegally issuing shares of stock with no consideration.

Judge Harper, on motion of the plaintiffs' attorneys, has created a restraining order, prohibiting defendants from selling certain real estate at Provo, in connection with the suit.

Third District Court.

There will in all probability be a session of the Third district court tomorrow for the hearing of the usual Saturday motions.

Midwinter Fair Visitors.

Chief Clerk Spencer of the Union Pacific passenger department in this city reports that a good many Midwinter Fair tickets are being sold. He is of the opinion that a good business will be done in that line during the coming three months.

Likes the City.

Mr. J. B. Gross, a prominent merchant and alderman of Anaconda, Montana, is in the city looking up his investments in Salt Lake property and incidentally making some others. He is delighted with the city and predicts a rapid increase in population and real estate values.

A SAD RETURN.

Elder Thomas Hicken, of Heber City, Comes Home Only to Hear of the Death of His Wife.

Elder Thomas Hicken, of Heber City, called at the News office this afternoon and related a sad story to a reporter regarding the death of his wife.

Elder Hicken left his home eight months ago to fill a mission in the southern states. On the 21st inst. he received a letter while in his field of labor, in Sullivan county, Tennessee, from the president of his district, telling him that he was released to return home on account of the serious illness of his wife. That evening he boarded the train for Utah and arrived here today after the 10 o'clock. How ill his wife was he knew not though he worried greatly along the route of travel and had strange forebodings as to the result. The shock he sustained this afternoon on being informed that his wife was dead was a severe one. The particulars beyond the fact that she gave birth to a child a few days before her demise are not known. The funeral took place several days ago. The deceased was the mother of six children whom she leaves for the sorrowing husband to care for. The eldest is but twelve years old.

Colonel Merritt's Commission.

Private advices were received today to the effect that Colonel Merritt's township commission was sent from Washington on the 22nd inst. It is therefore expected to arrive here tomorrow morning without fail, in which event the new judge will immediately qualify and commence to use it.

PROVO.

PROVO, UTAH, - JAN. 26, 1894.

In Legal Circles.

William Ferguson of Lake Shore has filed suit against the Salt Lake county canal companies for the recovery of $4,500 damages alleged to have resulted from the overflow of Utah lake on plaintiff's land in consequence of the unlawful damming of Jordan river. Other suits are to be filed.

Right series of land, the property of H. H. Cluff, was yesterday sold at sheriff's sale for $500 in satisfaction of judgments in favor of James A. Bean against Cluff, Booth & Co.

The Ben Pierce property was sold for $4,953 on a trust deed in favor of D. G. Transtelle.

Notes.

The Annual Order of Foresters have organized a court in this city with a membership of twelve. The following are the officers: Past court ranger, A. Neff; court ranger, M. J. Cottrell; secretary, Thomas Dinsdale; treasurer, J. L. Chenoweth; financial secretary, Charles F. Harris; recording secretary, Richard Brown; senior woodsman, Charles Palmer; junior woodsman, L. E. Mason; senior sentinel, J. H. Blomquist; junior sentinel, J. G. Bailey; trustees, A. A. Nye, Thomas Dinsdale and J. L. Jollings; court physician, Dr. A. N. Richards; court surgeon, John Walker.

Arrangements are being made by the various industries of the city to induce the legislative committee to hold a joint meeting here. As a court will be made to induce them visit the Capitol hill grounds.
