He met him on the road, and he shot him. He shot him with a .44 caliber Smith & Wesson revolver. He shot him in the right leg, above the knee. He shot him while he was drunk. He shot him while he was working at Alta, on the job for Mr. Wallace.

THE IMMIGRANTS.

Twenty of Them Arbitrarily Detained at New York.

The following was received last evening in the form of a private dispatch from New York:

"The Wisconsin company, in charge of the immigrants, called for Norfolk, and via Union Pacific, today. Twenty of the company are detained as ineligible to land."

In answer to an inquiry from here in regard to the cause of detention, Mr. P. W. Gibson, of the company, agent, sent the following, which was received this morning (21st):

"The detention is arbitrary. The commissioners claim the party is likely to become a public charge. They require bonds. I have sent the facts to Mr. Calne, at Washington."

"JIM THE PENMAN."
Opening Night of the A. M. Palmer Company.

The present engagement of Palmer's Madison Square Theatre Company at the Salt Lake Theatre, opened last evening, to a full house. Such an attraction as the great drama of "Jim the Penman" is in the hands of such a company as that of A. M. Palmer, was reasonably certain to crowd the house, especially on the opening night. This company is probably the best on the American stage at the present time, and this consideration. Most of its members have played in this city before, and all of them are thorough artists; none others are admitted to the troupe. Mr. Robinson as "James Ralston," a very difficult role, Mr. Masson as "Louis Perival" and Mr. Savin as "Baron Halstead," all were well pleased for their successful renditions. May Brookby played with marked ability, power and effectiveness, the part of "Nina," and Mrs. Phillips showed herself to be an accomplished and artistic actress in the role of Lady Danvers.

"Tonight another strong attraction, 'Sins and Sinners,' holds the boards, and no doubt it will be witnessed by a full house."
