Gen. O. O. Howard Named as Candidate for the Presidency.

KEEPING FRUIT IN OLIVE OIL.

Lost His Money in a Rat Hole—Lee Fairchild's Marriage—Hoomers Unlawful in Arizona.

The California annual poultry show will be held from Dec. 11 to 17 inclusive.

An 8-year old boy named Harry Erwin was killed at Boise, Idaho, on Friday, by an electric car.

The town of Williams, A. T., has enacted an ordinance forbidding women from appearing on the streets in bloomers.

Three thousand tons of coal are on fire in the bunkers of the Pacific Rolling mills at Potrero, Cal. The fuel will have to be left to burn itself out.

The marriage certificate of Lee Fairchild, who was in Utah during the campaign, and Mrs. Anna Anisen, was filed in Victoria, B. C., on Friday.

A babe about five days old was found on Friday in a lodging house in San Francisco. It was abandoned at least two days before it was found, and was nearly dead.

The dates for next year's exhibition of the Royal Agricultural and Industrial society of British Columbia at New Westminster have been fixed for October 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th.

Owing to financial conditions the council of Hoquiam, Wash., decided that the city could not have electric street lights longer at the public expense. In two days a private subscription list was made up, which will give abundant lights during the winter months.

A new method of preserving fruit for exhibition has been discovered by W. M. Bristol, of East Highlands, Cal. Wishing to keep some samples of the hypocrisy, a remarkable hybrid between the blackberry and the red raspberry, after trying a number of other methods all of which failed, he filled a wide-mouthed bottle with fresh berries, both green and ripe, and then covered them with olive oil. Four months have elapsed, but the berries are in perfect condition save that their color is a little dull. Mr. Bristol says that he has never known of the oil being used for that purpose before.

Nick Leeman, a rich old man living at Kenwood, Cal., has been busy excavating rat holes. Leeman don't believe in putting money in banks and for a number of years he has been keeping his surplus coin in a rat hole near his room. He put about $400 in the hole a few days ago. When he went to take the money out Friday he found that some other fellow had discovered the hole, but all the money was gone. The neighbors told him that perhaps the rats had carried the coin into another hole, so he has been busy prospecting other holes, but without success. He had the coin in an old pepper box, and it is supposed some one saw him deposit it, and when he was away dug it up.

At a joint Thanksgiving service of the First Congregational and Calvary Presbyterian churches in San Francisco Thursday, a Congregationalist minister known as Dr. A. R. Deming rose at the close of the service and concluded it with a startling climax in the following language: "The Presbyterians have great reason to be thankful to God, for he has honored them with the chief magistracy of the United States for three terms in succession. It is hoped He will honour the Congregationalists next time. When Jesus comes with 10,000 of His saints to lord it lords and King of kings to rule the nations of the earth in equity, it is most desirable that he find in Washington a President who is in every way worthy and capable. Such a system is Major-General O. O. Howard, whom I now nominate for the next President of the United States. God grant we shall all become executive of his divine will."

To Dress Mutton.

Salt pork and bacon are becoming scarce, and perhaps stale, and the best prompts one to touch both lightly. Directions for dressing mutton will therefore be timely. Nearly every owner of sheep knows how to dress mutton, and some of them think their own method is better than any other. We do not claim that the method that we are about to give is better than any other, but it is the best we have ever tried. The sheep should be yarded the evening before killing and kept quiet. Butchering time comes the first thing in the morning. The head is usually severed with an ax, but sometimes a sharp knife is inserted behind the ear, thrusting it through the neck with the edge downward, and with an outward cut all the vital parts of the throat are severed. The gambrel is at once inserted and the sheep hung up. An incision is made at the point where one begins to disembowel, and the body is filled with all the cold water it will hold. The pelt is removed, and the entrails are then taken out, but making a small incision in the lower bowel to let the water out. Mutton dressed in this way will be as sweet as lamb or chicken, and there will be no sheep flavor. The unpleasant flavor known as "sheepy taste" comes from the entrails, and not from the pelt. As soon as the mutton is dressed, it is cut in halves and placed in a refrigerator box, or if this is not at hand in an open well to cool. A mutton can usually be marketed before it becomes old, but if there is fear of this it may be well to have with a neighbor.—Homestead.

Stores For Horses.

It is habit that leads one to put away timothy hay for winter feeding of horses when it is worth $10 a ton, and there is a surplus of an acre of corn per head for one month of winter feeding. The stover from an acre of corn will furnish feed sufficient for one horse five months if the corn is a medium variety and has three ears to a hill. It should be cured for as completely as other good feed, put under shelter as soon as cured and not wasted in any way. Timothy good enough was light this season, but it was followed a good field of grass here that one would not sell standing at $8 to $10 an acre. No use of discussing "mountain value" and "pinching land" when one can convert half or three-fourths of a ton of standard timothy into a $10 bill by feeding any stover.—Exchange.
