FRAGMENTS.

THE Territorial Supreme Court will hold business next morning.

COUNTY COURT meets again next Monday.

THE county clerk issued a marriage license to Joseph Gilbert and Miss Amy Cutler yesterday.

MR. CHARLES HEAD will give his popular lecture, "47 to 76," in the Twenty-first Ward meeting-house this evening at 7:30. All invited.

JAMES PRICE, the notorious negro thief who was before Justice Laney this morning, for incebriety, was arrested this afternoon on a charge of grand larceny.

It appears that the farmers of Utah County have taken the hint in regard to the subject of beet raising. They have now tried to save a considerable acreage of ground this season.

THERE are undelivered messages at the Western Union Telegraph Office for Charles Cannon, S. V. Pratt, Mrs. Mary Cagan, L. E. Perkins, Mrs. B. Hogan, Walter Connolly Company.

G. R. SAVAGE will lecture before the Students' Society Institute, beginning at 7:30. Subject: "The Solution of the Sphinx Mystery," illustrated with a map of Africa and charts of the pyramids.

THE New York Mining and Smelting Company have filed articles of incorporation with County Clerk Alton. The incorporators are Peter Jack, M. Franklin, A. L. Thomas, S. Trowack, W. C. Hall and W. S. McCormick.

THE production of "Dipomar" and "Damon and Pythias" by the John T. Lindsey Drama Company at the Theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings next, is looked forward to with no small degree of interest.

BISHOP WHITNEY will address the congregation at the Eighteenth Ward Chapel next Sunday evening on the subject "Relations of Early Church History." Services will begin at half-past six. The public are cordially invited.

A BRAKE boy narrowly escaped being run over by a street car on First South Street today by wilfully and mischievously trying to cross the track in front of the car while going at a high rate of speed.

A BENEFIT party will be given in the Fourteenth Ward Assembly Hall on Friday evening, April 24th. The proceeds will be tendered to Mr. C. J. Greenwood, janitor of the Fourteenth Ward meeting-house. The Newton orchestra band will furnish the music.

OWING to the ill ventilated, foul smelling and overcrowded condition of the city jail, the ordinary drunk, who heretofore was kept in confinement for five days in default of money with which to pay his fine is now imprisoned but twenty-four hours.

AT a meeting of the joint city and county building last evening several matters were discussed informally, all the members of the committee not being present. At the next session of the County Court a report will, in all probability, be submitted as the outcome of last night's meeting.

A SLEEPY driver fell from a coal wagon in front of the new postoffice today and only awoke when he arrived at his destination. He hastily got on his feet and looked sheepishly around to see if he was observed. Without loss of time he grasped the reins that were dragging in the mud, mounted the seat and drove merrily away.

THE members of the Eighteenth Ward Mutual Improvement Association will hold a reunion in the ward schoolhouse tonight, commencing at 7:30. A short interesting programme has been prepared. Good's band will be in attendance and an enjoyable time is anticipated. Tickets may be had at the door. All members of the ward are invited.

IN the case of the North Point Irrigation Company vs. Mary Rickson et al., in which the defendant asks to have the waters of the North Jordan Canal parceled out according to the rights of the respective parties, argument before Judge Zane this afternoon, C. C. Brook, C. E., was appointed to ascertain from the claims of the contestants and report.

THE remains of the man who was found dead in the elevator shaft of the Knutsford Hotel on Monday last have been identified. The name of the deceased is Thomas Gaudin. He was employed as general roustabout at the Walker House Cafe until quite recently, and was known as a sober and industrious man. The body is still unclaimed. Some of the relatives of the deceased are expected to arrive here tonight from California and take charge of the body.

THE taking of testimony in the school land case was resumed at the United States Land Office today. The section in dispute is situate near the penitentiary and is said to be worth upwards of $100,000. The claimants, J. M. Kennedy et al., allege that it is mineral land, as it contains deposits of potter's clay. There appears to be every reason for believing that the evidence will be of a somewhat contradictory character as viewed from the two sides.

Amusements.

"Miss Manning" was presented at the Theatre last night by the Effie Ellsler Company. There was a good house, and Miss Ellsler was well received. Frank Weston's hay fever, was so realistic that many thought it a case of incipient grippe.

Tonight and at the matinee tomorrow "The Little Tycoon" will be presented. An exchange says of it: "Last season no resident company gave the 'Tycoon,' but this year's is a better company, and all theatrical interest attaches to the production in the presence of Mr. Willard Spenser, the originator of every line and note of the popular opera, who in person manages the troupe. Then the scenery—the panorama of New York Harbor and the rich setting of the masquerading scene—are perfect, the novelty of the one and the richness of the other being especially noticeable."

The Apollo Club had a rehearsal last evening in the Templeton hotel parlors. The reception will be held next Thursday evening.

At "Wonderland" this is souvenir day for the ladies. Large numbers of them are visiting it, and all seem well satisfied.

"I've changed my mind since I saw you last," said Cadley. "I hope the new one is better than the last," put in Cynicus, and Cadley got mad.

DONE WITH A RAZOR.

James Hutchins, of Slaterville, Tired of Life, Commits Suicide.

A shocking suicide occurred at Slaterville yesterday morning, the victim of the act being James (better known as "Squire") Hutchins, aged about 55 years.

According to the facts which have been brought to light, it seems that the unfortunate man was apparently in the best of spirits when he rose on Thursday morning. He partook of a hearty breakfast with the members of his family, and spent the remainder of the time up to 11 o'clock reading. About this hour he went out of the house, and shortly afterwards was observed to be walking restlessly around, his face having a decidedly worried look. No particular notice was taken of this, however, Toward noonday, not having been seen in the interval, Mrs. Hutchins inquired of one of the hired men as to her husband's whereabouts, and was informed that he had walked to his other farm, a mile or so away. After dinner, however, upon going into the carriage house the lady was surprised to find him there, kneeling upon the floor in a prayerful attitude, though at first little dreaming of the sight so soon to follow. On pulling him gently backwards after a few moments' hesitation the body fell to the floor with a dull, heavy sound, and the blood gushed from a fearful gash in the throat, some six or seven inches in length. Life was quite extinct, and an open razor lay beside the deceased. Ambulance was obtained and the dead body carried into the house.

At the inquest held during the afternoon the deceased's only son was among the witnesses. He was of the opinion that his father was financially embarrassed (although he had never so stated) and by brooding over the matter had at last become in a measure demented. The jury rendered a verdict to the effect that the deceased committed suicide by cutting his throat with a razor, while of unsound mind.

Deceased went to Cache Valley in the year 1859, and has ever since resided there. For nearly ten years he had held the office of justice of the peace, and was much respected. Until about a month ago he was the owner of an Ogden saloon known as the "Little King," but soon tired of the business and sold it to his uncle. This seemed to trouble him some little at the time. It is thought that his several speculations in which the deceased lately embarked have proved partial failures, and only to these matters can the family attribute his rash act of yesterday.

On Diseases of Sheep.

Editor Deseret News:

I noticed an article in the NEWS not long since, copied from an Eastern paper, on the subject of the cause, nature and cure of the disease in sheep known as "snub," in which it was asserted that the disease was propagated by contact—that it took a sick to start the "snub." While this is true as a rule, it is not invariably so by any means; in fact, my observation has led me to conclude that many cases of this disease in sheep are of spontaneous origin, and are traceable to the sheep having been wetted by rain, overheated in driving, starved or kept in a foul or filthy enclosure and exposed to the elements. The climate of our Territory is specially favorable for sheep raising and it is not nearly so difficult to prevent disease among them as in many other parts of the Union, and one of the most common diseases among sheep in England—the foot rot—is totally unknown here. Still, owing to the carelessness of sheep raisers or the fact of their having such large flocks that they cannot give them proper attention, a large proportion of the sheep of this Territory are seldom entirely free from the scab. The most prudent attention to the flock throughout the year and especially during the winter is necessary to produce a sure and prevent the ravages of this disease. There is no excuse for the existence of the disease among the flocks of this region now than formerly, for the cost of dip can be had now at about half the price it formerly cost. I have the satisfaction of knowing that I saved the Territory about $7000 last year by causing the Eastern manufacturers of "dip," whose product has been extensively purchased by local sheep raisers in years past at an exorbitant price, to cut their rate to compete with a home industry established by myself.

Respectfully,

GEORGE COLEMAN.

BIG COTTONWOOD, April 16, 1891.

Utah Stone Quarry Company.

Articles of incorporation of the above Company were filed with the clerk of the Third District Court yesterday afternoon. The Company is organized to carry on a general quarrying business, and owns the Sucker, Daley, Blue and Enterprise quarries, situated two miles from the mouth of Parley's Canyon, on the line of the Utah Central Railway. The capital stock is placed at $150,000, divided into 1500 shares of the par value of $1 each. The officers are—W. H. Hackett, president, D. Higbee vice-president, S. L. Merritt treasurer and secretary.

Literary Note.

Sir Charles Tupper, before sailing for Europe, completed an article on the Canadian political situation, which will appear in the May number of the North American Review. The title of the article is "The Wiman Conspiracy Unmasked." In addition to an invitation from the North American, Sir Crispi, the late Prime Minister of Italy, has promised shortly to write an article for that periodical.

Octave Thanet has a new setting for a short story in the May Scribner. The scene of "A Spectre of Folly" is a fashionable summer resort in the Province of New Brunswick and the central figure is a Canadian fisherman. F. J. Stimson (author of "Guardian" and "First Harvest") begins a two-part love story in the coming number, the scene of which is in a wild region of Alabama, an important part of the action taking place in the construction-camp of a new railroad.

VIOLATORS OF THE LAW.

The Business Transacted in the Police Court Today.

Dick Todd, an old and decrepit gray-haired man with shriveled form, red eyes and swollen face appeared before Justice Laney this morning in filthy and threadbare garments, on a charge of drunkenness. "Are you guilty or not guilty?" asked the Court of the defendant. "Guilty, sir," said the old man, "with all the word implies, but I haven't been here, your Honor, since Christmas, and I crave your mercy, assuring you that I shall not trouble you again." In view of the prisoner's promise and feasible condition a penalty of twenty-four hours' imprisonment, only, was imposed.

J. B. Russel, a colored cotton picker from Kentucky, was run in by the police last night for drunken and noisome demeanor, and was arrested in front of an East Temple Street saloon. He plead guilty and was assessed in the sum of $10 which he will be compelled to liquidate by the sweat of his brow.

James Price, another "colluded person" who has made an unenviable rival for himself as a foot pad, housebreaker, petty larceny and an active member of the fight fingered gentry, pleaded guilty to being "drunk and full for utterance." In response to a question from His Honor as to whether or not he was under bonds to await the action of a grand jury, he answered in the affirmative. Price was also mulcted in the sum of $5, which he will have to pay in natural labor.

John O'Reilly, a son of the "cold sod" and a consumer of large quantities of Rock and Rye, next came up for sentence. "I was drunk, yes, drunk, your honor, but I couldn't help myself." In this case a fine of $10 was imposed and paid.

A miner from Tintic, with Rip Van Winkle whiskers and look who came to Salt Lake a few days ago and entered upon a protracted spree, was given temporary lodging in the city jail.

THE MEHAN ROBBERY CASE.

The case of White and Holland, charged with robbing a traveler named Mehan, at Hogney's saloon on Wednesday night, near the Rio Grande Western depot was to have been argued before Justice Laney at 10 o'clock this morning. The defense asked for a continuance until Monday next, but the request was refused on the ground that postponements were getting entirely too frequent, and that it seemed to be a custom for attorneys to shift witnesses with manufactured evidence. The law contemplates a fair and speedy hearing, said the court, and delays would not be allowed in such cases as the one at issue, unless good reason was shown. The case was finally set for 3 o'clock this afternoon.

TERRITORIAL OFFICERS.

Their Duties Referred to in a Letter by Auditor Pratt.

The subjoined letter has been mailed by Territorial Auditor Pratt to the various Territorial institutions:

Gentlemen—I observe by sections 15 and 16 of the first volume of the Compiled Laws of Utah, relative to the duties of certain Territorial officers, and my duty in connection therewith as auditor, that the Territorial Board of Examiners, governor, and others specified, as well as all other Territorial officers or agents, having the custody, etc., of moneys or public property, shall on or before the first day of December in each year, report to the auditor an inventory of the property on hand with vouchers for that purchased during the year, and shall also submit a report of receipts for moneys and property paid out during such year ending the November 30th, and it is made the duty of the auditor is required to examine all such reports and vouchers, see that the proper officers have taken and sworn, uniformly expected according to law and the design of the appropriation, and report to the next Legislative Assembly. Also he is authorized to administer oaths, etc., and he is required to make a compilation of the data from these reports and submit the same to the Legislative Assembly, etc.

I have really called the attention of some of the officers named, that it is to furnish these reports to the auditor, but have not given the same careful attention, which I find to be required by inquiry, it seems that these provisions of the law have been generally disregarded. The term "all other territorial officers" is intended to include your board and the boards of trustees or directors of all other public institutions in the Territory. This seems to me the true meaning of the requirement of the statute, and that your board, being in control of a Territorial institution, would be considered Territorial officers in the sense that it doubtless is to have reports made from all officers or agents having the care of public property. These reports should have been made on or before the 1st day of December last, but, not having been made, I now call your attention to the matter then still continues that the time in which they are to be made would probably be considered as directory, the absolute duty being to make the report and equitably and orderly they should be made in the manner specified.

I now request that you make me a report for last year, fully and completely as required by the statute, and shall expect such report to be made at the end of year. It is my design, however, to again call your attention to the report for the present year. Please give this matter your prompt attention and forward the report completed at the earliest practicable date so that I may begin the work of compilation of these reports for the year 1890. Very respectfully,

ARTHUR PRATT,

Territorial Auditor of Public Accounts for Utah.

He "Sold" His Custodian.

A prisoner named F. W. Clark, by calling a piano agent, said who has for some time past been confined in the county jail at Ogden, awaiting the grand jury's action on a charge of embezzlement, yesterday managed to give his custodian the slip and escape. Sheriff Belnap, during the afternoon, accompanied Clark to a barber shop in the neighborhood of the Woolmans building, the latter individual having expressed a wish to "get a shave." The operation of shaving was completed, but just then the prisoner made a sudden dash through the back door of the premises and got clear away. The sheriff at once sent out a number of men to search for the fugitive, he himself taking an active part in the hunt, but up to a late hour last night Clark was still at large.

A FORGER BOLD

Makes His Appearance in Ogden and Finds Ready Victims.

A series of bold forgeries of the most dangerous character were recently executed in Ogden, though the facts have only just come to light. A young man who gave the name of Walter P. Martin has been in Ogden and the vicinity for three or four months past and it is quite well known to a number of people who have met him here during that time. Martin followed from David Phillip, an old farmer who owns 160 acres of land near Hooper, his patron for the purpose of having it recorded. Martin then forged a deed from David Phillip and wife to himself and with this complete chain of title went to Caleb L. McKee, the loan broker at No. 124 Twenty-fifth Street, for the purpose of obtaining a loan on the property. Mr. McKee spent a whole day in visiting and examining the property, which was occupied by a tenant. As the security was amply the title perfect as vested in Martin, Mr. McKee made him a loan of $600. A few days after David Phillip's son came to Ogden to get the patent, saw the deed to Martin and told Mr. McKee that it was a forgery.

Hearing that Martin was in Salt Lake City Mr. McKee dogged himself and, accompanied by Marshal Metcalf, started to find him. Martin had already left for Dallas, Texas. A warrant was issued for his arrest, the Dallas police were notified to hold him and a reward was offered for his capture. It has been heard of in New Orleans, Chattanooga and Memphis since then.

Last week he sent a New York draft to the First National Bank of this city instructing them to pay off the principal and interest accrued on the $600 loan made him by Mr. McKee. Martin forged the signatures of David Phillip and wife, two witnesses and the notary public in making the deed from Phillip to himself. He also forged the notary's and witnesses' signatures in making the trust deed which secured the mortgage.—Ogden Standard.

PRETTY SLOW WORK.

Judges Zane and Anderson Have Another Light Morning.

For the last two days Judge Anderson has found it necessary to adjourn his Court long before the usual noon recess, owing to the absence of suitors or their representatives in cases previously fixed for hearing. Another instance of this occurred this morning. The Court opened at 10 o'clock and an hour later Judge, counsel and everybody else had left the room, his Honor having adjourned until two o'clock. Below is given all that transpired during the one hour's sitting.

DISMISSED.

In the action of Samuel Liddiard vs. William Carroll, neither plaintiff nor his attorneys put in an appearance when the case was called on, and it was accordingly dismissed.

HE WILL COME UP AGAIN.

David Fitzpatrick, a lanky fellow about 24 years of age, was arraigned and plead not guilty to a charge of criminal assault, his alleged victim being a little old woman. The date for the trial of the case was not set.

THE GRAND JURY REPORT.

The grand jury came into Court and reported two indictments found under the laws of the Territory.

As the result of a short dialogue between Judge and Assistant District Attorney Stephens, the members of the grand jury were allowed to suspend their labors until May 25th, when, which date, at ten a. m., they will re-assemble and resume work.

BEFORE JUDGE ZANE.

His Honor had for about half an hour this morning in the upstairs court room and disposed of the following cases:

In the matter of the estate of James Hogel, deceased, judgment was rendered for $200, as prayed by Martha C. Hogel.

The Salt Lake Milling and Elevator Company vs. O. S. L. and H. S. R. R. Co., Order previously made restraining the defendants was now modified, so as to permit them or other persons to enter upon the premises for condemnation proceedings.

The case of William Fennemore vs. Henry Byrnes et al. was passed by consent.

Jones vs. Gallgher; on motion of Attorney Sutherland time to file the transcript on appeal was extended to May 1st.

Henry Schott, a native of England, now residing in Rich County, was admitted to citizenship.

Adjourned until 2 p.m.

The following cases were disposed of yesterday:

In Judge Zane's Court yesterday afternoon, in the case of Mary Alsop vs. Thomas Alsop, in which the plaintiff sought to recover possession of certain real estate situated near Sandy, and valued at $2000, rendered a decision in favor of the defendant.

In the matter of the estate of James Hogel, deceased; the petition of Martha Hogel for a decree requiring the executors to pay her $500 was submitted and taken under advisement.

The case of Evan E. Stacy vs. John Hird was dismissed by consent.

The case of E. A. Smith, trustee, vs. Enoch M. Rose et al. was tried.

In the case of James Quinn vs. Lorenzo Cardwell et al., a decree was granted setting aside tax sale.

In the divorce case of Louisa C. Young vs. Erving Valentine Young, the hearing on order to show cause was continued until tomorrow.

In the case of Lawrence Dubiquet vs. Louisa Pratt et al., twenty days' time was allowed in which to plead.

A Silly Question.

"May I have the honor to conduct your daughter to the supper table?" asked a society gentleman of a lady from the country who is staying with sometimes whom she is visiting.

"May you take her to supper?" was the response. "Why, of course, and you may take me too. That's what we came here for."

PROBATE COURT.

The McKibben Will Contest Case Now Under Consideration.

Estate of David O'Connor; account of executors allowed.

Estate of Mary Yates; claim of White & Sons company allowed.

Estate of Daniel Garn; continued to April 18, 1891.

Estate of John Scott; objections to settlement of account were heard and case continued to May 15.

THE MCKIBBEN WILL CONTEST.

George E. McKibben has presented a petition to the probate court, in which he makes the showing that on the 5th day of March, 1891, Sarah M. McKibben (formerly Mrs. Josh Lane, nee), his wife, died in this city, leaving the petitioner and Emilie C. Fox, her daughter, the only heirs at law; that later a certain paper in writing purporting to be the last will and testament of said Sarah M. McKibben, dated June 2, 1888, was presented for and admitted to probate, and letters of administration were granted to petitioner and Emilie C. Fox; that under the will the following named persons were made legatees: Cornelia Winship, the mother of said deceased, Sarah Winship, Jennie K. Winship, Emelia C. Fox; that Edmund G. Jacobs and Moylan C. Fox were nominated in said will executors; that since the signing and execution of said will and on the 10th day of May, 1889, the said testatrix intermarried with the petitioner and Emilie C. Fox, and ever since marriage they lived together until her death as aforesaid; and the petitioner further alleges that such marriage revoked said will and testament so made and executed by said deceased because and was imperative and void.

He therefore asks that the will be revoked and that the property be distributed among the legal heirs according to law.

The estate is valued at many thousands of dollars, and the contest is expected to be a long and hard one. Judge Powers is counsel for the petitioner.

FIRST DISTRICT COURT.

Levi S. Dunham On Trial At Provo For Resisting an Officer.

The following cases were heard by Judge Blackburn in the First District Court at Provo yesterday:

William Prescott was arraigned on a charge of housebreaking and pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to one year's confinement.

Robert Carney pleaded guilty to the same charge and was sent up for one year.

H. W. Hales withdrew his plea of not guilty to the charge of unlawful cohabitation and pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to one month's imprisonment and costs.

The case of the People vs. Levi S. Dunham then came up for trial. The indictment charges that the defendant on the 21st of June, 1889, resisted Deputy Marshal Bennett, by threatening to shoot and otherwise injure that officer in Sanpete County. The testimony goes to show that Bennett came upon Dunham near Manoes, and tried to arrest him, presenting a warrant which the defendant did not think sufficient authority and refused to go.

Bennett thereupon pulled him out of the wagon and struck him over the head with a revolver. The case went to the jury after brief argument.

In the case of Pointer vs. Chipman, to recover land on the border of Utah Lake near Lincoln, a verdict was signed and submitted to the jury. A verdict was rendered, awarding plaintiff the land in dispute and $150 damages.

ORDER.

The following business was disposed of in the Ogden division of the First District, yesterday, before Judge Miner:

P. A. Maison vs. James Embling; on motion of Miller & Maginnis, order staying execution thirty days.

William Crawford vs. Harvey Booth et al.; on motion of E. M. Allison, order entered for the appearance of Ogden Hiles for the plaintiff.

William Crawford vs. Harvey Booth et al.; stipulated and ordered.

Anderson Press Brick Co. vs. N. C. Chapman; on motion of Kimball & Allison, order granting plaintiff permission to file amended answer to cross complaint.

Indian Citizens.

Among the most civilized Indians in the Union, and at the same time among those least heard of, are the Pueblos, of Washington state. They occupy a settlement which contains about twenty-five square miles of territory near Tacoma. A government commission has lately visited the Pueblos to consider the advisability of opening their lands to white settlement. The reason is that their settlement, by the march of the white man's civilization, has become so valuable that the white man can apparently no longer restrain his itching fingers from laying hold of it.

But it is hard to see why government should discriminate against its red citizens in favor of its white ones. Thirty-six years ago the Pueblos took their lands in severalty, and adopted many of the ways of civilization. They became farmers and herdsmen. There are today among them sixteen judges of their own race and tribe. Fifteen years ago they only numbered 225, all told. Now there are nearly 1,300 of them. Some other bands have joined them, however. Their contents to Tacoma has increased their farms enormously in value. A decision of United States Judge Hanford, made recently, settles that these red men are full fledged, legal citizens, subject to all the laws governing white citizens and enjoying all their rights. They can now, therefore, sell their farms or hold up for higher prices, just as white speculators do.

General Booth, who is trying to regenerate the world, thinks he can even manage the American troops. He proposes to start in New York an establishment that will furnish to the tramp a good bed and breakfast for eight cents. But the price he expects to work out of the recipient by making him do its equivalent in some kind of labor. At least any tramp would probably be willing to do eight cents' worth of work a day the year around for his living, but the trouble would be that no sooner would the institution get fairly started than up would go the cry that Booth was taking work away from industrious mechanics and giving it to tramps.

Three surveying parties are to be started at once to prepare the line for the great Intercontinental railway that is to link together North and South America and constitute a route from Patagonia to Alaska in course of time. Part of this greatest work of the age will be finished in a few years, but it ought to be called the Pan-American railway.

Do you know that floods are increasing in violence and destructiveness year by year in this country, and that at the same time one-quarter of the states in the Union have no Arbor Day, and are taking no measures at all to encourage tree planting and to prevent the hilly parts of the country from becoming rocky desert wastes, and the vicinity of river banks from becoming sands as a place of residence anywhere?

Here is what the Providence Journal thinks of the race problem: No intelligent and unprejudiced man who is familiar with the conditions of things in the south can fail to see that it would be a great mistake to interfere in any way with the establishment of educational qualification in that section. In this limitation of the suffrage lies the only practical solution of the political phase of the southern race problem.

The chief inspiration of the great painters has come from the Christian religion. The successive scenes in the life of its Divine Founder, which are described in the Holy Book—the babe in his mother's arms, the wise men visiting him, the entry into Jerusalem, Christ with his disciples—these have enlisted the almost inspired enthusiasm of the Raphaels, the Murillos, the Vinci, and have thus enkindled the devotional ardor of successive generations of saints and martyrs. If the world owed no other debt to the Christian religion than for the art which it has stimulated, this alone would have vindicated its right to be

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price if satisfactory results do not follow their use. Those remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. A. C. Smith & Co., Druggists. 1 y
