THE CHURCH CASES.

Proceedings Therein Before Judge Zane This Morning.

A PETITION OF INTERVENTION.

Presented by Hon. F. S. Richards, On Behalf of Church Members.

According to prior arrangement, the three cases known by the title of the United States vs. certain real estate belonging to the late corporation of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints came on for hearing today. The question involved is whether the following properties should be escheated: The Tithing-house, Garden House, Church Farm, and Historian's Office.

District Attorney Varian represented the Government and asked leave of the court to have the name of Judge J. A. Marshall entered on the record as associate counsel for the plaintiff; and also that of Attorney J. R. Rawlins, who, he said, had been appointed by the Attorney General as special counsel for the Government of the United States.

The defendants were represented by Attorney Dickson, Hon. F. S. Richards and Attorney Le Grande Young.

Mr. Dickson, in the name, asked permission to file a petition of intervention in each of the cases. From the first one read we extract the following:

Now come James F. Fraser and Spencer Clawson and file this petition in intervention on behalf of themselves and all others who are members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and for their grounds of intervention allege:

That the members of said Church are more than two hundred thousand in number, and so numerous that they cannot, without inconvenience and oppressive delays in the said action be brought before the court; that all of said parties have an interest in common with said intervenors in the subject of this petition and the questions involved in this action; wherefore said intervenors file this petition for the benefit of all the members.

That these intervenors and the members of said church are equitably the owners of the property mentioned in the action, and that the legal title is now held by the defendants, William H. Preston, Robert T. Burton and John R. Winder, as trustees, for the voluntary religious association known as the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, in trust for religious and charitable purposes; that the said Church is, and has been ever since the 3rd day of March, 1887, a voluntary association for religious and charitable uses and purposes, and has the right to own and hold such property, through trustees, to be used for such purposes; that the said defendants were in possession of said property at the time it was seized by the United States Marshal pursuant to the information proceedings herein; said property being a part of what is known as the tithing office and grounds.

That at the time of the enactment of the law of Congress of July 1st, 1862, and long prior thereto, the said Church as a religious association held, possessed and enjoyed the above mentioned real estate and had a vested right to and interest in the same, and it ever since has held and still has such vested right to, and interest in, said property.

After reciting the facts upon which such vested right and the defendants' claim to said property are founded the petition says: Some time in the year 1850 the Church took possession of the south half of lots five and six, block eighty-eight, plat A, of Salt Lake City survey, and placed valuable improvements thereon and have continued to occupy the same with said improvements down to the present time; said lots were a portion of the ten-acre entry made by the mayor of Salt Lake City, as aforesaid, pursuant to the acts of Congress of March 2, 1887.

The said Church by its trustee, Brigham Young, duly filed claim to the Probate Court of Salt Lake county, Utah Territory, under the township set of the legislative assembly of Utah, approved February 17, 1869, for the south half of said lots five and six, and the said court duly adjudicated and decreed premises to Brigham Young, who was then trustee in trust for the Church and took and held the same under such deed for its benefit.

At the time the act of Congress of March 3rd, 1887, took effect, the legal title was held by Robert T. Burton, in trust and for the use and benefit of the said Church; and on the 2nd day of July, 1887, said Robert T. Burton conveyed the same to William B. Preston, John R. Winder and himself, as trustees.

Intervenors allege that no part of the property was ever acquired or held in violation of the provisions of any law of the United States, but all of the property was held for the religious and charitable uses of the Church, and the purchase price thereof and the cost of the improvements were paid from voluntary contributions made to the Church, from time to time, by the members thereof, to be held, managed and applied by the Church through its officers and trustees chosen and elected by the members to religious and charitable uses and purposes in which the Church and its members were interested; that the property and the whole thereof was at all times prior to the time when it was seized and taken possession of by said Receiver held, used and applied by the Church, through its officers and trustees, to such religious and charitable uses and purposes, and not otherwise; and at no time was the same or any part thereof used or applied to establish, maintain, aid, support or encourage the practice of polygamy or plural marriage, or for any unlawful or immoral purpose. And that said property was not worth more than two thousand dollars on the 1st day of July, 1887.

The intervenors further say that the plaintiffs ought not to be permitted to prosecute this action, because all property held by Robert T. Burton, such property, or any part thereof, was barred by section 1047 of the revised statutes of the United States, and the action did not accrue to the alleged cause of forfeiture mentioned in the complained action, within five years before the commencement of these proceedings in the Ring of said substituted, or within five years after the cessation of such alleged illegal conduct.

Plaintiffs have the right to forbid or enjoin the property for the reason that the Church corporation, by its officers and agents, were in the possession and occupancy of all the premises and property prior to and since the 3rd day of July, 1887, the date of the passage of an act of Congress entitled, "An act to punish and prevent the practice of polygamy in the Territories of the United States and other places, and dissolving certain unlawful corporations in the Territory of Utah," approved July 1st, 1862. Petitioners pray that it be decreed that the property subject to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and that the members thereof be authorized to appoint a trustee or trustees to hold, manage, and apply the property to the purposes for which it was originally given; and that the United States marshal deliver to the possession of said property, together with its proceeds and income in his hands, to said trustee or trustees as may be appointed and approved by a general conference of the members of the Church.

Mr. Richards said the other two petitions were substantially the same as the one just read, so far as relates to the acquisition and one of the respective properties.

Mr. Varian objected to the filing of the petitions. These actions, he said, were all brought originally in the form of a general information filed against the property directly by the Attorney General. The practice seemed by the officers of the government had been followed in this court, and judgments entered. That information was a general one and gave notice to all persons claiming any interest in the special property in reply to which it lies this court, on a day specified, then and there to set up claims they might have to the title. The proceeding was equally in the Supreme court, through its Receiver. These were actions at law, having for their object the recovery of property and the title to fee to the United States, to be devoted to certain purposes. The sole ground of action by the United States was, as alleged, that the property was acquired and held in violation of the law of 1862, which prohibits religious corporations or associations from acquiring or holding realty in the territories of the United States in excess of value $50,000. That was the issue presented on behalf of the United States. The defendants joined issue upon that and in addition pleaded the statute of limitations. The holders of the legal title were before the court. Citizens on the other side seemed to have proceeded on a question of equity. For what purpose was leave asked to intervene? To accomplish something that could not be accomplished as the matter now stood. Was not the Church itself prosecuting by these petitions which the legal title as trustee for the Church? It was sought by these petitions to do something that the court could not do. They sought to have an order made by this court as to the determination of this property, which it did not in the hands of the prosecutor of this Territory and which it was to try that purpose, entirely foreign to these actions. He contended that these persons had no standing or right to intervene; and even if they had any interest, they were foreclosed and precluded from coming in now. They were in default for two years past. The court did not sit in these proceedings to allow individuals making claims to the property to come in up to the very hour of the trial and judgment. The property was seized, notice was given on the day fixed for the hearing, and those who had any claim originally came in and had prepared to go to trial. No individual member of the Church could appear in court and litigate this question.

Mr. Dickson submitted that any person interested in the property had a right to intervene and be heard. Nobody was foreclosed or barred, and nobody was in default at all. The proceedings already had, and referred to by Mr. Varian, occurred before that gentleman came into the office of district attorney, and the record showed that proceedings had not been had in one such as were necessary, requiring anybody to appear. Counsel referred the judge to history of these cases, and contended that any directly interested person who chose to intervene in the cause now was entitled to be heard.

Mr. Rawlins supplemented the argument of Mr. Varian.

The court then further discussed and Judge Zane said he was inclined to think that the point should be reached without the interposition of further parties. He did not see the necessity for the present intervention and therefore denied the application.

Mr. Dickson—I suppose it can be filed.

Judge Zane—Oh, yes, so that you can take any exceptions. You have a right to do that.

Mr. Varian then called in and outlined what counsel on the government side proposed to do. After having read from the complaint in the cases before the court, he said they now proposed to offer the records of the soil in evidence, they brought in the Supreme court of the Territory to wind up the affairs of this Church corporation, directed by the act of 1887, also the agreed statement of facts in accordance with the decree and findings of the court, and other documents which he enumerated.

The case was in progress this afternoon.

ANOTHER RAID

By the Police on the French Houses on Franklin Avenue.—Alleged Trespassers.

At an early hour this morning Officers Glenn, Poole & Johnson raided a number of houses of ill-repute on Franklin avenue, which are occupied and maintained by the French women who recently set up the claim that they were being unjustly discriminated against by the police department on account of their nationality.

Five women and the same number of men were arrested and taken to the City Hall. The former are held as suspicious characters and the latter as vagrants. Maggie Lemoux, Minnie La Salle, Alice La Salle, Annie De Haes and Alice Cadin. The men were Charles Lemoux, Charles Lemoux, Edward St. Noel, real estate dealer, Demarque Casimer, broker; Emile Cousin, carpenter; Frank Lemoux, and T. Hoyer, cook. They were to have been arraigned before Justice Cox this morning, but the case was not called until about three afternoon in order that the defendants might have time to consult with attorneys.

Dennis McCarty and Warren Franklin were arrested by Officer Sam Cox this morning, at the instigation of Constitutions Pollard. They are charged with trespassing on the property of the Salt Lake Foundry and Machine company. The hearing is set for this afternoon.

THIRD DISTRICT COURT.

Nine Years of Matrimonial Misery.—Burglar Weir's Trial Fixed.—Court Notes.

Before taking up the Church cases this morning Judge Zane disposed of one or two smaller matters, reported below:

PARDON.

The divorce suit of Emma Pierce vs. Charles Pierce came before Judge Zane this morning. The petitioner has resided in this city some thirty years, and married the defendant, a miner, in September, 1882. She informed the court that during the whole nine years since her husband had not given her more than $25, and she had supported herself by her own industry. He had given way to drunkenness and had assaulted her on various occasions. The last time he struck her was on Monday night last, when, for the 10th instant, badly raising her face (which still bears marks of the violence).

After hearing corroborative testimony, Judge Zane granted the divorce on the ground of cruelty and failure to provide.

WEIR, THE ALLEGED BURGLAR.

Attorney Newton applied to the court for a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Frank Weir, the alleged perpetrator of the burglary at the Occidental hotel, which under was mentioned in yesterday's News. After hearing counsel Judge Zane ordered that the prisoner be discharged, and that Job be set aside, and that the defendant be brought in for trial on Monday next.

FURNISH OR PAY.

The divorce case of J. H. Hughes vs. Ida Hughes was postponed for further order by Judge Anderson.

COURT NOTES.

After a continuous sitting of thirteen days in the adjoining suit of Joseph Gallagher vs. Yosemite Mining Company, Referee Lyle yesterday afternoon took a recess until next Tuesday.

The following judgments have been filed with the clerk of the Third District court by Commissioner Norrell: Gardner, Lantel & Co. vs. S. M. Free, for $156.55 and 50 costs; C. Schilling & Co. vs. S. M. Free, for $126.80 and 50 costs.

The case of Olivia Widerberg vs. John Lamson was dismissed by Judge Zane yesterday afternoon on motion of plaintiff.

The trials of the gamblers are still going on before Commissioner Pratt. The proceedings are being drawn out by the defense to an inordinate length, and at the present time, Mr. H. seems as though the case would extend over the larger part of the ensuing week. Yesterday afternoon Messrs. Marvel and M. F. Hjorth were adjudged guilty by juries, and on the request of Attorney Lewis the hearing of the other cases was postponed until Monday, at 2 p.m. Two of the defendants were fined $50 and costs, making about $130 in each case.

A complete suit of convict's clothing has been found on the Union Pacific depot grounds by a watchman there. The "finger" are said to be those of one of the convicts who escaped from the penitentiary about two months ago.

In the Third District court this morning the jury in the case of a sealed verdict in the damage suit of William Beatie against the Pleasant Valley Coal Company, in which $25,000 was the amount of the damages. They awarded him $10,000. Forty days' stay was granted to enable plaintiff's counsel to file a statement.

A FATAL FALL.

W. T. Rogers Meets His Death in a Well at East Mill Creek.

A man named W. T. Rogers, who has been a resident of this city for some time, met with a horrible fate at East Mill Creek, about noon yesterday.

He was in the employ of Edward Boyntons, who was engaged in sinking a well on his farm. At the time mentioned Rogers proceeded to descend into the shaft, which was 110 feet in depth, but just as he stepped into the bucket the windlass broke and he was precipitated to the bottom with terrible force. The break in the windlass was repaired as speedily as possible and a man lowered into the well. Rogers was found in a sitting position with his face and legs badly broken. He was hoisted to the surface and expired almost immediately afterward.

The remains were brought to this city today and an inquest was being held over them by Coroner Harris this afternoon at the undertaking establishment of Joseph S. Taylor. He was about 40 years of age. So far as known he has no relatives in this Territory.

THE GILMORE CONCERT.

Wagner, Meyerbeer, Verdi and Rossini in the Great Tabernacle.

It has been said, we believe, that the people of Salt Lake City are not particularly enthusiastic in their appreciation of musical entertainments, and it may be added that they may be true. A community in which nearly everybody is an ardent worshiper of Apollo, must naturally be critical and accept with deference any attempts of lay ordinary merit. But when a musical recital, like the one provided in the Tabernacle last night by Professors Gilmore and Stephens, awaits the public, it is otherwise. There must have been over four thousand persons present, and if the profound, breathless silence with which this vast audience eagerly listened to every note, every accent that filled the immense building, if the thundering rounds of applause that again and again burst forth from the otherwise spellbound listeners are true signs, the directors and performers last night had a thoroughly appreciative audience that felt no doubt as to the genuineness.

And justly so. For the Gilmore concert was grand. The selections were all specimens of the compositions of the greatest masters the world ever produced, and were highly interesting, as giving a clear idea of the genius of the different schools of musical art. There were the wild strains of artistically arranged discords of Wagner, creating, meeting, the Supreme court, the autumn shows found in an German castle; the mellow, melting harmonies of Verdi and the Italian records of that master of masters, Rossini, whose chorus sounded as the roar of many waters and yet sweet as the music of forests, and all this was executed by the distinguished artists with a precision and perfection of detail and shading almost perfect.

The programme opened with Wagner's overture to "Tannhauser," by Gilmore's band, after the performance of which two encores were demanded and generously given. "The Mighty Deep," an aria for bass, was sung by Mr. Edward J. O'Mahony, who possesses a voice of great range and strength. The silver march from "Tannhauser," "Hail, Bright Abode," was rendered by the united choirs and band under direction of Professor Evan Stephens. It was one of the features of the evening and was a testimony to the unity, diligence and scientific skill of our own well-known musical director. The duet "Cheerfulness Dwells with a Gentle Mind" from Rossini's Semiramide was another great feature of the entertainment, but the feature was the "Miserere" of Verdi. It was plenty of Duffy's pain in the rear gallery with his euphonium responded to Mr Bole's sonnet on the stand. The choir accompanied by the band performed with a great pleasing effect. The "Pilgrims' Chorus" was led by Conductor Peabody, of the Knutsford, and all the parts were splendid and discharged his responsible duty very creditably. A duet for clarionets by Messrs. Matus and Stockigt, was a beautiful performance, to be appreciated only by those who are familiar with the difficulties of that instrument. The concert concluded with the "Hallelujah" chorus from Handel's "Messiah," rendered by the united choirs and band. Professor Stephens, with a great display of energy, when the mighty strokes of that music, the grandest oratorio ever written, filled the building, the audience seemed almost carried off their feet, and the supernatural melodies fill the space with harmony.

The concert was one long to be remembered in this city.

Floral tributes were offered to Miss Schneebeli, Mr. Gilmore and Mr. Stephens.

They are both prominent imperialists, and this has given rise to the hope among the supporters of the old regime that Dom Pedro will be requested to return to Brazil and take the throne. In case of his declining the offer, the story goes, the throne will be offered to Conde de Eu, the husband of Dom Pedro's daughter. These stories are merely rumors, however.
