ing. He stated that he performed the duty in the absence of Chief Clerk Thomson of the previous session. Mr. Hammond presented the roll of the House as officially prepared by himself, which was upon motion accepted as prima facie evidence of the standing of the members therein named. The roll was called and all the members were found present except one.

TOOK THE OATH.

Associate Justice Barton was introduced by the secretary of state and administered the oath to the members.

The organization of the House was then commenced and nominations for speaker were made, O'Brien presenting the name of Hon. Jos. N. Parker of Weber, for the position and R. Bishop offered the name of Hon. O. G. Kimball of Carbon.

PERKINS FOR SPEAKER.

Upon motion a vote viva voce was taken and Mr. Perkins was overwhelmingly elected.

The speaker was introduced by Secretary of State Hammond and addressed the members. He made a brief and feeling address in which he expressed his appreciation of the honor of presiding over this body of fair women and brave men." While there were other gentlemen present better qualified than he for the position, he would discharge its duties to the best of his ability. He hoped and believed that no law would be enacted except in justice and wisdom by this body, and desired to see equal rights conceded to all.

PROCEED TO ORDER.

Upon motion of Wilson the House proceeded to the selection of the officers, but O'Brien asked that the position of chief clerk, which has been allotted to Weber, be passed for the present.

OTHER FOR DISCOVERY.

Taylor moved that the list of officers be filled in first due regard upon merit and reference to the candidates named. Carried.

The list was being read when Gibson said: "I move that the word 'doorkeeper' be stricken out from the list. I would include the chaplain, for as the boys are determined to have somebody pray for them, I'll for that act. But the Chaplain's work is done in two minutes and he can hold the door while he prays. I believe in economy and if you listen to me we will save it. Let us begin at the seats first and then wind up on the dollars."

Speaker Perkins—"Mr. Gibson, is there a second to your motion? Unless there is it is not yet desirable."

Gibson—"I don't know; I'll find that out."

At this juncture Murdock came to Gibson's assistance and seconded the motion and the latter proceeded with his speech on economies until Romney secured the floor and presented a report of the joint caucus committee fixing the salaries of the officers as follows: Chief clerk, minute clerk, docket clerk, engrossing and enrolling clerk, committee clerk and sergeant-at-arms, each $4 per day; chaplain, messenger, doorkeeper and watchman, each $3 per day.

DISCUSS SALARIES.

It was moved that the report of the committee be adopted as the sense of the House and that the salaries be adopted as fixed in the report.

This motion provoked long discussion in favor and against the proposition to cut the salaries. In the course of the debate Sloan moved as a substitute that the salaries of all the officers be fixed at an equal sum of $4 per day; and Keaner offered a compromise motion that they be fixed at $3.50 per day.

Many members of the House were anxious to have a hand in the debate. Benton renewed his offer made in caucus to do the duties of chaplain free of charge.

WANTED INFORMATION.

Mrs. Le Barthe asked what the salaries were which the officers of the last session received, and after Mr. O'Brien had been supplied with an item he read from the Journal as follows: Chief clerk $4.50, minute clerk $3, docket clerk $4.50, engrossing and enrolling clerk $4.50, committee clerks $4.50, sergeant-at-arms $5, assistants $4, doorkeeper $4, watchman $4.

Sloan, in the interest of harmony, moved as a substitute that Keaner's compromise for $3.50 be adopted in all cases where a cut below $4 had been made.

This brought members to their feet as another motion, the common-law one to protect against over the fifty-cent rule and others to defend the skilled clerks in their compensation.

WANTED $25 AN HOUR.

Sloan said: "We are wasting money at the rate of $25 an hour by this debate in economy, he begged to a vote."

Upon a rising vote the $3.50 compromise motion was lost by the committee recommendation was afterwards adopted.

Wilson then moved that the following persons be elected to fill the offices named:

Minute Clerk—Mat. Thomas, Davis.
Docket Clerk—Joseph M. Cohen, Salt Lake.
Engrossing and Enrolling Clerk—Mrs. A. U. Hobson, Cache.
Committee Clerk—George Hayes, Juab, and Thomas R. Spencer.
Chaplain—Rev. Ira N. Hinckley Jr., Millard.
Sergeant-at-Arms—Aaron Johnson, Utah.
Doorkeeper—Phil Sullivan, Weber.
Watchman—J. M. Grant, Beaver.
Messenger—Frank Biggs, Summit, and Thomas F. Dodson, Salt Lake.

MORRISON FOR CHIEF CLERK.

O'Brien arose in behalf of Weber county and offered the name of James R. Morrison of Weber for chief clerk.

Sloan—I would like to know how these offices are distributed with respect to counties. Are we going to do the thing in counties and another here?

OFFICERS SWORN IN.

After some discussion the officers so named above were elected and Speaker Perkins requested them to come forward to be sworn in. All responded except Mr. Thompson, who is not in the city and the Speaker administered the oath of office.

Kenner moved that the engrossing and enrolling clerks be instructed to assist the members in the preparation of bills, etc., during the two or three weeks in which they will have nothing to do in the first part of the session. The motion carried.

Upon motion of Thirlwall the chief clerk was instructed to notify the Senate that the House was now organized.

RULES ADOPTED.

Wilson moved that the rules of the first session stand as the rules of this session until further adopted.

Kenner thought some of the committees provided for in the 43 rules were unnecessarily in the business of their membership, as he thought the committees be temporarily composed of seven and five members instead of nine and seven.

Wilson accepted the amendment of Kenner and after some discussion the rules were adopted with the amendment.

NOTIFIED THE GOVERNOR.

Romney moved that a committee of three notify Governor Wells that the House was in session and the Speaker appointed Romney of Salt Lake, Mrs. Anderson of Weber and Thurman of Cache as such committee.

SAW THE FIRST VOTE.

Secretary of State Hammond informed the House that the president of electoral college was ready to receive and if the members desired to see the first vote of this State cast for the President and Vice President of the United States they could do so by going to the executive office.

A FREE TELEPHONE.

After accepting the tender of the telephone service from the Rocky Mountain Bell Telephone company the House took a recess till 2 o'clock and the members went to the meeting of the electoral colleges to see the first presidential vote of Utah cast.

THIS AFTERNOON.

Hon. Thomas is Made Chief Clerk by Consent of All Concerned.

The speaker at the opening of this afternoon's session of the House suggested if the committee appointed to wait upon the Governor was ready to report and Romney answered that the House committee desired to wait in state upon the appointment of a similar committee from the Senate to act jointly with that from the House.

WHERE SHALL WE SIT?

Wilson of Salt Lake introduced a resolution providing for the selection of a place in which for the members of the legislature, members over fifty years old, former members and the Representatives to be given preference as to position.

The motion was opposed by Mrs. O'Brien, Keaner and Thurman and was finally defeated, the matter being left over until some future time.

THOMAS IS CHIEF CLERK.

Stewart moved that in view of an agreement made between the legislative committees, as well as an understanding between the respective delegations they represent, that the positions of chief clerk and minute clerk be transposed, so far as the incumbents thereof were concerned, and that Mr. Mat. Thomas be made chief clerk and Mr. Morrison minute clerk. By consent of the House the previous vote was reconsidered and the change made according to the notion of Stewart.

A SECOND RESOLUTION.

Mrs. Le Barthe offered a resolution providing that the Secretary of State be requested to furnish the House with copies of the compiled laws of 1888, 1890, 1892, 1894, 1896, '92, '94 and '96; also a journal of the proceedings of the House at the session of 1895. Adopted.

Here the News report closed.

LEGISLATIVE NOTES.

There is a House clerk.

Chief Justice Zane was waited the presentation of the senate.

Mrs. La Barthe and Mrs. Anderson were the only ladies present.

In Representatives Benslon Mr. Gibson has a good ally in his fight for economy.

Mr. Gibson will doubtless resume his position as time-keeper before the session ends.

Associate Justice Barton of the Supreme court was an interested visitor in the House.

Fred. J. Kiesel of Ogden was interested in the House proceedings late afternoon.

Congressman-elect W. H. King was shaking hands with the legislative members in the House chamber this morning.

E. R. Critchlow, a member of the last House, sat near Speaker Perkins and made timely suggestions occasionally.

Harry Cushing was in the House this morning, one of his old legislative mates, tal Wearing the same genial smile.

It is expected that a joint session of the two houses will be held to-morrow, to listen to the reading of the Governor's message.

Senator Joe Musson came into the House chamber after the adjournment of the Senate and while the former was still in session, and was applauded with Mr. Gibson and other old friends.

SONHEUR'S FIRST SUCCESS.

With Fortune's Favoring Smile Came an Ideal Existence.

Rosa Bonheur gives an interesting account of her first success as an artist in her article, "The Story of My Life," in The Ladies' Home Journal. "Twenty-study hours, in an to impregnate myself with the art," she says. "I spent whole days at the slaughter house of the Rotte in Paris. One must be truly devoted to one's art to live in the midst of such horrors and in such entire company. The men were surprised to see a young woman interested in such things and were disposed to make it disagreeable for me. But presidence never abandon those who strive to do well, and came to my aid in the person of good old M. Raisly, a Hercules in force and physique, who declared that he would take it upon himself to administer a good lesson to the first one who behaved rudely toward me. From that time I needed no other further assurance. The position that my protector occupied was that of sculptor and dresser of calves' heads. Seeing how frugally I breakfasted, he often invited me home with him, and there, surrounded by the curious implements that served him in his profession, his wife, as good and honest as himself, made me partake of many a comforting meal.

"At last fortune smiled on me. M. Tolmon, the picture dealer, bought one of my canvases. The secretary of the arts commissioned me to copy a picture—a 'Flight Into Egypt.' I forget by whom—and I painted another picture, 'The Shepherd and His Flock Seeking Refuge From the Storm,' which I sold well, and lastly, to crown all these happy successes, I was asked to accompany a draughtsman. As the thing stood not attractive, he was pleased. My father's position had improved also, but death overtook him very soon after this brightening up of our prospects."

AN EVENING AT A DOG TOWN.

"Bar-ber, bag-ber!" called the grimy faced urchin cheerily.

The lady with the white coat and the kid gloves looked sideways toward the entry. Its mother was one of the crowd in front of the tenement, which looking at a perfect love of a bonnet.

"Bar-ber, bag-ber!" came the invitation again.

Tolerantly the lady approached the entry and smiled trustfully up at the dingy face. The urchin stepped down on his ragged knees, laid the pages he was selling on the pavement and parted the little kid glove with his red, dirty little hand. "Pretty bag-ber!" he said.

And then the mother turned, ran across the pavement and dragged the baby back. "How dare you touch her, you dirty little good for nothing?" she said.

The urchin grasped his bundle of papers and ran, slipping his toe into the slit of the gutter channel-wally.

"Aw—g'won!" he said sullenly.—New York Press.

He Was Sure.

"Dreamers," sometimes called commercial travelers, are the ministers and doctors fond of chaffing each other.

"I've a great story to tell you, boys," said a commercial to a group in the corridor of the Pendennis last night. "I don't think any of you ever heard me tell it before."

"He is a really good story!" asked one of the party doubtingly.

"It's pretty good, I think."

"They. I'm sure you never told it before."—Buffalo Times.

Rockie's Literary Statement.

Rockie is not exactly 10 years in the business of materials for his "History of Civilization." He is only only a portion of the introduction, which contains a great commment to his literary and professional learnings. If the work had been finished and the same ratio be kept, 100 volumes would not have sufficed.

Prof. A. C. Whiting will give a lecture at the University tomorrow evening, the title of which will be "The Mechanism of the Human Body."

REFERRED TO A COMMITTEE.

W. H. Clayton of Albion, Idaho, made application through Attorney Moyle, for admission. His application was referred to the examining board, of which H. B. Shepherd is chairman.

AMUSEMENTS.

Uncle Tom's Cabin went with a whoop Saturday afternoon at the Theater, when sixteen hundred people occupied all of the available space the house affords, and notwithstanding the terribly rank manner in which it was put on and assisted, it brought out its usual sobs, tears and laughter as the occasion presented. A tin can tied to the tails of the blind hounds might have quickened their pace a little, though it is doubtful, and nothing could ever stone for the attempts at acting of those presenting the play, except they will renounce the stage at once and go to digging potatoes. A fair notion of the evening performance.

Grand.—One of the children matinee audiences filled the Grand on Saturday afternoon, and one of the smooth est performances of The Burglar during the entire week was given. Tonight the week opens at the house with the presentation of Roland Reed's great comedy success, Lend Me Your Wife. Big business is sure to be done this week, as this is the first comedy given at the Grand for some time.

The National Stock company closed their engagement at the Lyceum on Saturday with fair attendance at the afternoon and evening performances. The Fatal Ice was the bill and it was the best acting given by this company during their engagement here.

UTAH'S FIRST VOTE,

For President and Vice-President Cast By the State Electors.

BRYAN THREE, SEWALL TWO.

Lawrence Votes For Watson—Hadley D. Johnson Chosen Messenger to Carry the Vote to Washington.

Utah cast its first vote today for the President and Vice-President for the United States. It was done by the State presidential electors, Robert C. Lund, chairman, Henry W. Lawrence, secretary, and John J. Daly. The meeting was held in the secretary of State's office, and was witnessed by a large crowd of representative citizens. All the State officers were present, Governor Wells, Secretary Hammond, Attorney General Bishop, State Auditor Richards and members of both houses of the Legislature, including the lady members.

After the reading of the minutes of Saturday's proceedings and passing upon the certificate of form, Mr. Lawrence moved that the vote of the members be taken for President of the United States. The vote was taken by ballot and the secretary announced the votes of Lund, Daly and Lawrence unanimous for William J. Bryan, of Nebraska. Loud applause followed the announcement.

The vote for Vice President was then taken in the same form resulting in Daly and Lund casting their votes for Arthur J. Sewall of Maine and Lawrence casting for Thomas E. Watson of Georgia. Hearty applause again greeted the announcement.

Daly moved that they proceed in accordance with the law to ballot for messenger to carry the vote to Washington. Carried.

Lawrence then arose and said, "I don't think any convention has the right to designate who the members of this electoral college, shall appoint messenger. I understand it has been done in this instance. I do so as a precedent for the future I wish to go on record as being opposed to the method, but out of deference to the gentlemen who intended it I vote for him." A ballot was then taken and the secretary announced that the unanimous choice of the members was for Hadley D. Johnson Esq. The meeting then adjourned.

YOUTHFUL TOUGHS.

Four Youngsters Held to the District Court for Housebreaking.

Four small boys, tender in years but tough in character, were before Justice Wenger this afternoon on a charge of housebreaking. They were given a hearing and held to appear before the district court, their bonds being fixed at $100 each. Their names are Teddy Daniels, A. D. Perry, William Saxton and Morris Higgins.

The three former were arrested Sunday afternoon by Officer Shannon and the latter was taken in today. The complaint against them charged that Christmas day, the trio entered the residence of C. L. Lavender near the West Side Driving Park when the people of the house were absent from the city. They took therefrom a lady's watch and several carpenters' tools, and then resorted to pure vandalism by breaking the walls of the house with axe grease and burning things in general outside down. In this condition Mr. Lavender found his home when he returned to the city, and he averaged was he that he should be thus imposed upon that the officers were notified and took the case in hand, resulting in the arrest of the three boys, who were found with some of the stolen tools in their possession.

The lads, whose ages are about 15 years, have been in full several times for just such offenses, and it is a common belief among the officers that nothing short of a term in the State reformatory will do them good.

Police Court Notes.

R. M. Ramsey the keeper of a gambling house, forfeited $50 in the police court today.

Holden O'Connor, against whom stood a charge of vagrancy, had a hearing resulting in his discharge.

Jim Cummings was tried for disturbing the peace, but discharged on a technicality in the complaint.

Arthur Boyle and O. L. Couch were fined $10 each for disturbing the peace.
