WHAT THEY SAY.

IN BRIEF.

An Industrious Colony of Thrifty Transformers a Desert Into a Garden.
—Western Casualties.

Fremont Enterprise—Nearly every building in and about Fremont, in which the owners had left the bulk of their furniture and effects in the expectation of returning as soon as work on the mine was resumed, has been looted by Papago Indians. All evidence points to the probability that this thievery has been going on for several weeks, until every quotentized house has suffered more or less.

Brainerdge Journal—On Wednesday morning last, at the Jennie claim camp near this place, a young man named Sam. Waterman, aged about twenty-four years, and who was employed in skidding timber, was struck in the head by a falling tree. He died from the effect of the blow in about five hours afterwards. The tree which caused his death was a dead sapling, the surrounding timber being cut away a slight wind blew it over, being dead its roots did not impede its fall, and it came down with a crash and caught its victim just as he was raising his head in response to the cry of warning given by a comrade close by who saw his danger. A doctor was summoned and was soon on hand, but no mortal aid could avail him. The workmen at the camp turned out in mass to the funeral on Thursday afternoon. The deceased had friends and several married sisters at Salt Lake City, Utah, but their addresses are unknown.

Los Angeles Express—Yung Him, a vegetable peddler, who farms a portion of the Charnock-Machado ranch, near Ballona, was murdered Thursday night on the road from Redondo to the ranch. The information was brought to the Sheriff's office this morning by Quong Wash and Yung Sin, the latter being a partner of the murdered man.

From the facts given by them Yung Him's horse came into the ranch alone last night, and a search being made the body of his owner was found lying in the road about a mile from a saloon known as Figueroa's. The man's head was fairly drilled with buckshot and the pockets of his clothing were turned inside out. The murdered man's partner thinks the crime was committed by some one who knew that Yung Him had been to Redondo to dispose of his load and was returning with the proceeds of his sales. Sheriff Gibson, Deputy Russell and Coroner Weldon left on the noon train for Ballona, but up to the hour of going to press nothing had been heard from them.

Globe Silver Bell—Chas. Winters was brought in on the stage from Pioneer Wednesday night in a partially demented condition. He was found the day previous by Messrs. Verablyed, Sudo and Reaves about three-quarters of a mile from Pioneer. He had left Wolfe's camp at El Capitan 21 days before, and during all that time had wandered aimlessly about Pinal Mountains and without food except such wild fruit, etc., as he could find, a diet not conducive to corpulency, and those who remember his former rotund figure scarcely recognize him now, so emaciated has he become. When found he was scarcely able to walk and his few days of the farthest, must have succumbed to starvation. He seems indifferent as to his fate and expressed a preference for the cool shade of an adjacent bush to going to camp with his rescuers. He was so weak that he had almost to be carried to Pioneer. Upon his arrival in Globe he made a bee line for a Chinese lodging house, and ate with such voracity that the Chinese attendant had to compel him to desist, for fear he would choke himself to death.

El Paso Herald—In the States of Chihuahua and Sonora, the Mormons are making extraordinary progress. There are over a thousand Mormon families in the valley of Corralitos, in Chihuahua, divided into different colonies. The colony of Diaz is the largest, and has been established seven years. They are transforming the wilderness into a garden. The families are all prosperous and each year put enough money aside to extend their irrigation ditches. Besides digging wells the people of Diaz colony bring water from the mountains for irrigation purposes. The Mormon colonies at Juarez and Dublan are also quite prosperous. The transformation made by the Mormons in this section of the country is bound to make the States where they live the most productive part of Northern Mexico. Their products are sold in the near mining camps, and on the extension of railroads in that region an unlimited market is promised. The North Mexican Pacific Railway through Northwestern Mexico, is progressing rapidly. From Deming, N. M. to Palomas the road is all ready for the rails. This will enable the owners of silver mines to place their ores on the markets of the Pacific coast at a much less figure than is now asked.

The following frank statement from J. L. Hare, of Trenton, Texas, will be of interest to many of our citizens: "My little boy was very bad for two months HEAD: Catarrhal. We used various medicines, also called in two doctors, but nothing did him any good until we used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which gave immediate relief and soon cured him. I consider it the BEST MEDICINE made, and can conscientiously recommend it to all who need a medicine of that medicine." For sale by Z. C. M. I. Drug Dept. ddx

THEY VOTE IN JAPAN.

Paper Is Found a Suitable Contrast to Cloth in This Country.

The polls are opened at 8 o'clock, and [illegible] are used instead of the greater number [illegible] ballot box [illegible] ballot [illegible] the [illegible] of Morning and the Afternoon services.

There was little trouble, but hard argument and no more disputing. Every now and then, the boys having a love, a figure was seen to separate from the fold and move off toward the polling room, and soon another returned. One was among them, here and there, the modern Japanese, with his mixture of foreign garments, in apparent addition elegant, often awkward, and generally out of harmony with the surroundings. But shade them, even the old fashioned rustic, in his best silk robes, with square shaven crown and short queue caught up and tied—perhaps wearing the hakama, or divided skirt, of the old samurai, is unconscious in every act, he bows as he enters to the chief at the door, carefully writes his ballot and affixes his seal, then with great deliberation folds it and places it in the official envelope. For some of the voters it is necessary to seek the assistance of a special clerk in writing their ballots. It is not that they cannot write, for everybody knows the peculiar knot or twist of the writing. They prefer to see their ballots inscribed in the more elegant Chinese characters and then, too, the knot is sometimes ambiguous (for some words have a dozen different meanings), and there is a quaint pleasantness and a desire to have their meaning clearly and correctly conveyed. When the writing is finished the long queue rolls walks over to the tachimiai, or inspectors. Here further affusions of politeness take place, while the voter gives his name, number and address, and is checked off on the register. Then, with another gesture of courtesy, he turns to the ballot box, unlocks a lock, perhaps in duplicate, to the kind old reporter who sits behind the box, he carefully deposits his ballot and quietly retires to another door.—J. H. Wilmade in Scribner's.

Oil from the Porpoise.

The porpoise killed in violation of the fishery and produce most oil. The important source about some feet in length, and has its girth and weight about one pounds. Such a porpoise yields from six to seven gallons of oil. The trainer of a big porpoise weighs about 100 pounds and is one and a half inches thick in summer and two in winter.

The jaws of the porpoise yield a superior quality of oil. When hung up in the oil it readily drips away into cans provided for the purpose, the quality of oil thus procured, however, being not more than half a pint to the jaw. The oil from the blubber gives an excellent light and is in demand along the coast for lighthouse use. It has no offensive odor.

Porpoise shooting is followed at all seasons and in all kinds of weather. In a calm summer's day the porpoise may be heard blowing a mile or two away. If you wound a porpoise, and there are any sharks about, the shark is very apt to share your booty with you even if he doesn't devour it in toto.—New York Recorder.

Fallacy of Fish and Brain.

One popular fallacy in connection with fish may be noticed, namely, the oft repeated assertion that the eating of that particular food increases brain power. No one who has studied the subject can possibly believe the assertion. A man might eat a huge portion of fish every day of his life, and on the day of his death, if the quantity of phosphorus (the brain instigator) he had eaten were to become visible, it would not amount to more than might probably suffice to fill a couple of bottles matches.

Communities have existed that lived almost solely on fish, but these fishy-epitaphs were certainly not famous for intellectual attainments. Nor are our fisher villages, in many of which much fish is presumably consumed, the seat of any great amount of brain power. None of our fisherfolks are remarkable for genius, or even what is called common sense, their views of life and its responsibilities being shrouded in a haze of superstition, which they lack sufficient strength of mind to see through.

No fishing community, so far as is known to the writer, has given to the world a great man. Men of marks—poets, preachers, lawyers, philosophers, warriors and physicians—have emanated, in Scotland at any rate, from all classes except the fishing class.—Temple Bar.

Sarasate, the violinist, is a small man of swarthy complexion and black hair. He is a Spaniard by birth, and is forty-seven years old. He is extravagantly popular in his native town, to which he pays an annual visit.

On the destruction of the hair follicles through a lesion or abrasion of the scalp a free application of oil to the part may result in producing hair of the normal color.

THE CRY OF MILLIONS

OH, MY BACK!

STOP IT NOW, SOON IT WILL BE TOO LATE.

I have been troubled many years with Kidney Complaint and have used many different remedies and have tried many doctors, spending thousands of dollars, and have always received little or no relief. About the 15th of April I was suffering from a very severe attack that almost prostrated me. I was so lame I was bent double, so I was almost unable to get up from a chair, or to turn in my bed. Was kind Providence that led me to Kidney, with the OREGON KIDNEY TEA, to my hope. I have hardly words to express my gratitude for the great good done me by Oregon Kidney Tea. It has cured me in a few days, I can walk as well as ever, and I feel as well as ever. I cannot recommend the tea to all sufferers as I have been.
