NEWS OF THE WEST.

A Butte, Mont., Miner Frightened Out of Sleep for Nineteen Days.

AGAIN THE DEADLY TROLLEY WIRE.

Gray Wolves on the Rampage in Montana—Tramps in Battalions, Etc.

Trouble between the two Chinese societies at Carson, Nev., has resulted in the importation of highbinders and trouble is expected.

Carson (Nev.) Appeal says: An immense meteor was observed on Tuesday morning between 12 and 1 o'clock. The flash illuminated the whole sky, and the fiery trail left by the visitor extended across the heavens from the north to the south.

The Rock Springs (Wyo.) Miner says that John Hull, of Atlantic City, was arrested by Sheriff Whitmore on the charge of shipping East as dried beef just June 5,000 pounds of ore, which it is said he received and concealed. The ore was stolen from the famous Bear mine.

There was a serious street car accident on Tuesday afternoon on the corner of Jones and Geary streets, San Francisco. One of the Hyde and Jones street cars of the California street cable system struck a loiter bolt which had been placed in the channel or slot by some malicious person. Seven people were injured and the car was badly wrecked.

Condemnation is being heaped upon the Fresno, Cal., city board of trustees because they reduced the wages of firemen on Tuesday night. They desire to repeal all the fire ordinances, and owing to the shortness of the city funds they look this means of raising the money. The reduction made is 50 per cent. Some of members say they will resign.

Mayor Van Horn of Denver has received a communication from the sufferers by drouth in western Nebraska making an appeal to the people of Denver for assistance in the way of clothing to protect them from the cold coming the coming winter. It is stated that little children are even now suffering from cold for want of clothing.

The sheriff of Los Angeles, remarks the San Francisco Chronicle, should clear out the tramps who are terrorizing several colony towns near that city. The tramp evil is bad enough when those vagrants come as single spies, but when they come in battalions, banded together for plunder, they should be so soundly punished that they will never have the stomach to repeat their performances.

The deadly trolley wire has caused trouble in Oakland, Cal., again. A team of horses driven by Leslie Hayden of the Oakland Cream Depot were instantly killed on Tuesday. Hayden was driving his team down the street when a dead wire dropped over the trolley and the end of it fell across the backs of the horses. Both animals dropped to the ground and died instantly. The horses were valued at $300. Hayden had a narrow escape himself.

Richard Dower died at his boarding house in the Clear Gift Terrace yesterday, says the Butte (Mont.) Miner. Death was the result of an attack of typhoid fever brought on in a very peculiar manner. A month or so ago he was working in the Orphan Girl mine with a man named Morgan, and a slight cave in earth occurred and rattled the latter. Dower was badly frightened at the accident, as he supposed that Morgan was certainly if not fatally injured, and for nineteen days thereafter did not sleep a wink, by reason of the fact that his nervous system had received a severe shock. The loss of sleep were him almost completely down and typhoid fever then had an easy victim.

A serious accident happened to the machinery of the Stonyville saw mill at Vancouver, B. C., on Tuesday which will cause the mill to shut down for some months. The mill started up as usual at 6 o'clock, but at 10 o'clock the crank pin of the engine broke. The engine raced around at terrific rate of speed before it could be stopped, and the result was that the cylinder heads burst. The machinery required to be repaired at Vancouver. Quite a little history is attached to the engines in this mill. They were built forty years ago for her majesty's ship Sparrowhawk, a gun boat for many years in this station. After fifteen years service she was condemned and dismantled and the engines were purchased by the mill, which used them for twenty-five years.

The gray wolves are on the rampage in the northern part of Gallatin county, Montana, says the Helena Herald. Already they have killed hundreds of calves, and in some instances have been known to attack steers and cows that became separated from the herd. A few days ago a farmer in the northern part of the county shot two large-sized colts to a corral while he took his team to a field. When he came back after the colts a few hours later he found both had been killed by wolves. Another stockman, while riding over the hills, came across two large steers that had been carrying on an unequal fight with wolves. The two steers were surrounded by a number of the big gray creatures and several carcasses, which had been running the cattle about. The steers were badly chewed and they were nearly exhausted with the unequal struggle. At the appearance of the stockman the wolves and coyotes slunk away.

The prevailing mystery at Newberg, Yamhill county, says the Portland Oregonian, about how old man Jones came to his death, reveals the fact that he is not the only puzzle which the people of that part of the state have been called on to solve. The other mystery is as to the identity of the person or persons who stole the safes around near Carlton a year or two ago. A prosperous farmer near that place had started a fine young apple orchard. He set in the morning and watched the young trees grow and thrive, and he concluded that it would sometime be so productive that he could altogether abandon wheat-raising and hop-culture. One morning when he awoke and cast his eyes in the direction of his young fruit farm his vision was unobstructed by the appearance of a tree of any kind. Some one had been there over night, pulled up the trees and carried them off. No trace of the thief was ever found.
