SAVED FROM DEATH.

Twelve Sailors Rescued from a Sinking Vessel.

LA BOURGOGNE'S BRAVE SAILORS.

They Repeatedly Risk Their Lives for the Crew of a Shipwrecked Brig.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Twelve distressed mariners, whose thrilling rescue in mid-ocean last Tuesday from a waterlogged and slowly sinking wreck formed a dramatic incident of La Bourgogne's voyage from this port to Havre, arrived here Monday on board the steamship. Their own vessel, the German bark Erna, from Wales for New Brunswick, has gone the way of all unseaworthy craft.

They were rescued during the night of a heavy gale and under circumstances which severely tried the courage and seamanship of the rescuers. It was witnessed by 500 passengers of the big liner, who clung to reeling taffrail and bowsprit of the fearful rolling of the ship, and the storm's spray which pinted in their faces, watched with unwatched eyes the struggle of the rescuers to reach the wreck.

The tars signalled for assistance and Captain La Bouef ordered the launch lowered with Lieut. Nolay in command. Within a moment it was overboard and its crew were thrown struggling into the water. They were saved with the lines and then nobly manned for a second attempt which was successful.

The small boat having been in a like manner launched they went in company to the Erna, but owing to the high seas it was impossible to get closer than a hundred feet of her. The wreck was only 200 yards away but it took the boats nearly an hour to traverse that distance.

The little boats ebbed and at times, when the waves were at their height, sank out of sight and at intervals would disappear for so long a time that those who watched them feared they had been swamped outright.

Frantic they showed close under the bows of the sinking bark, which seemed just able to keep her drenched decks above water. One by one the crew of the Erna jumped overboard and were picked up by the life savers and taken into the boats. All but three were rescued this way. They refused to trust themselves to the sea on the chance of being saved by the boats, and after vain exhortation and many urgings by the two French officers the boats put back to La Bourgogne, leaving the three men behind. Excited passengers watched their progress with breathless interest and many willing hands were ready to assist the rescued and rescuers on board.

A dozen times the first boat tried to get alongside and as many times it was swept away by the big seas. The enormous bark swung into the trough of the sea and every wave that swelled against her towering sides threatened to crush the boat. Then would billow take the wind-spread sail and a score of feet of her reaching would be brave life view. Bending a yessel under these circumstances is a perilous undertaking, but four peasants finally firmly grabbed some men were taken on board, exhausted and wet and trembling from their exertions and the perils they had passed.

Lieutenant Nolay was washed overboard again while trying to get a line on board, but a line was thrown to him and he the second time he was rescued. But there were still three men in danger. It would not do to abandon the men who had been left on the wreck, and after another effort in which the lieutenant of the Erna took a prominent part all three were rescued.

Captain P. Alerne was master of the wrecked bark.

To Captain La Bouef he said he had sailed in ballast from Carnarvon, Wales, on June 20th, bound for Moncton, N. B. He met a succession of gales from the start and fifteen days out from port springs a dangerous leak. The cargo was jettisoned going night and day and by strenuous efforts the leak was kept from gaining. On the night of July 26th, however, the pumps became choked with sand and there was two feet of water in the hold when La Bourgogne was sighted. The crew of the Erna was sent to Ellis Island and will be turned over to the care of the German consul.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., Aug. 3.—While the workmen were tearing down the papers of the late Eugene Wilkinson this old home near this city he found an express order for $1,500 issued in 1864 at Placerville, Cal., and sent by Mr. Wilkinson, payable to her order. Why the order was never cashed, Mrs. Wilkinson, who is an old woman, is unable to explain. The head of the company in New York has been notified that the order has been placed in his bank for collection.

DIRECT FROM CUBA.

Six Insurgent Officers Arrive With News from the Guidaboes.

KEY WEST, Fla., Aug. 3.—Colonel Joaquin Delgado and Lieutenant Fernando Vasquez of the insurgent army, have reached this city from Cuba with dispatches for Generals Gomez and Maceo. They are the second party of officers of the Cuban junta, Delgado and Vasquez, accompanied by a native boatman, reached Marivel Friday night where they were to take a boat for Key West. While they were on the beach physics, in launch that took their mate discovered by Spanish troops. Vasquez and Delgado were shot down with deadly effect and killed the boatman outright.

Shortly morning their boat sprung a leak and was about to sink, when a Jamaican sloop came to their aid. The sloop brought them within fifty miles of Key West when they again took to their boat, which had been repaired, when within twenty-five miles of Key West last evening they were picked up by the pilot boat Glance, which brought them in. Dispatches they have with them are being taken daily to Fleet on the Glance and the insurgents are nearly always victorious.

He says that Maceo holds all the provinces in the eastern end and is battering Guantanamo. Lieutenant Vasquez is a nephew of General Zayas' staff and says the report of that officer's death is a fabrication.

Not one of the party could swim and they all had very little acquaintance in rowing. The bodies have not been recovered.

NEWS FROM ANDREE.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 3.—Nowhere has been received from Spitzbergen that Prof. S. A. Andree's balloon has been filled and was ready to start on July 17th. The Virgo, with Prof. Andree, on its two companions and his apparatus on board, sailed from Tromsoe on June 15th. Since July 2nd the expedition has been established in Fire's house in the northern bay of West Spitzbergen, opposite Dane's island. The stores and equipments had already been disembarked and the condition was considered very favorable. As the explorer had planned that his preparations would all be completed and his balloon filled by the 15th of July, it seems probable that some unexpected obstacle has been met with in completing the preparations.

FOREIGN BICYCLISTS.

John S. Johnson Does Not Think Much of Them.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Bicyclist John S. Johnson who arrived on the Paris, Saturday, does not believe the track foreign riders are dangerous as they have been painted. He admits that they are a long way from the novice stage, but he predicts that if the pick of the French and English riders are ever allowed to race next season they would have the utmost respect for the Americans.

"These men are fast riders," Johnson said last night, "but they are not speedy enough to beat our best men in contests of the kind we have here. They are up to all the tricks of the trade and can make it very uncomfortable for a stranger if they try, and they generally try. I hope some of them will come over this season, but I doubt if arrangements could be made to get them here, for there is plenty of money in racing where they are."

Tom Eck will continue to manage Johnson and according to the Minneapolis Rider, he remained abroad to secure the American rights for an exclusive business to be used as a pacemaker. Johnson says he saw the machine in operation and that he is not enthusiastic over it. He is on his way to Chicago and will in all probability start for Louisville early this week. The Australian Patons who came over with Johnson is likely looking fellow. He looks every inch an athlete. Of his victory over Zimmerman he had little to say.

CHEAP ALCOHOL.

The New Governor Endeavors to Reconcile Matrimony.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—A dispatch to the Herald Cuban, Urdy, says: Extreme satisfaction is felt here among the Christians at the news that the governor of Candia, whose report of the recent pillaging and burning was not deemed satisfactory, has been replaced by Colonel Tarquin. Martial tranquility established such a satisfactory condition in the same district.

This very prompt action of the Turkish authorities is a striking proof of the good will shown by the Porte, which is the very utmost, I hoped it could have done more or acted more promptly.

Commenting on the above the Herald says:

"The news contained in the foregoing dispatch makes it clear that Georgi Berovitch, Prince of Samos, who at the request of the European powers was recently appointed governor general of Crete in succession to Abdullah Pasha intends to do all in his power to remedy the disorders existing in the island.

"Candia, which is situated about the center of the northern coast line of Crete, is the largest and most interesting town in the country. Of late the villages in the neighborhood have been the scene of burning and pillaging, the Turks throwing the blame for the outrage upon the Christians and the Christians retorting upon the Turks.

The inquiry instituted by the governor general (or Vali) has shown the conduct of the governor of Candia to be not free of reproach and this official has accordingly been replaced in office by Wassos Pasha who hitherto has been acting as Sub-governor of Crete.

"Georgi Berovitch Pasha, the governor general who has thus at a stroke won the hearts of the Christian population of Crete, is himself a Christian. He is an Albanian of the Greek church, and was formerly Sub-governor of Crete, in which position he became well known in Candia. Previous to his recent appointment as vali, governor of Crete, he was in charge of the administration of Samos, and so very relative the idea of Prince of Samos, which officially belongs to the governor of that island. He owned in Samos the vexatious of being an Ottoman administrator. It may be added as well of Candia that to control over the Turkish troops, which still remain under the military command of Abdullah Pasha."

WAR WITH STRIKERS

The Situation at Brown Hoisting Works Considered Serious.

A SYMPATHETIC STRIKE NOW ON.

Five Companies of Militia Now Ordered Out—Prisoners Attack a Crowd.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 3.—The labor situation in this city is alarming critical. A hundred and fifty non-union men went to work at the Brown Hoisting works this morning, guarded by four companies of militia and a large force of police. A big crowd of union men was present, but no violence occurred. The police and militia kept the strikers moving.

The sympathetic strike threatened ever since the strike at the Brown company works began eleven weeks ago, was inaugurated this morning. Twenty-seven men employed by the Van Wagner & Williams company, hardware manufacturers, quit work their tools and walked out. They said their only grievance was sympathy with the Brown Hoisting company's men. Committees waited on other factories to notify the men that they would find out. The leader of the Van Wagner strikers said they would insist on Mayor McKisson, that the non-unionists be discharged, and if this is refused the strikers would call their brothers and compel the non-unionists to give up their weapons by force if necessary.

Shortly before noon Director of Public Affairs Abbott ordered another company of militia to the Brown works, making five companies in all. The officers said he had received positive information which satisfied him that the sole object of affairs was more serious than appeared on the surface. A crowd of union men gathered at the corner of Hamilton and Belden streets this morning and when ordered to disperse refused to do so.

A squad of police charged the crowd, took two men and several charged with violating the riot ordinance.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—W. B. Morrison, member of the interstate commerce commission, is quoted in the Journal as saying that he will vote for Bryan and live for silver stability. "I am for silver the adoption of a free silver platform, and I do not believe the success of free silver would in any way realize the expectation of those crying it. But I do not believe the adoption of free coinage at a ratio of 16 to 1 and the election of Bryan would necessarily precipitate a panic, unless those who control the money market choose to have a panic."

THE LEHI SUGAR FACTORY.

The Season's Work Will Commence Early in September.

Sometime between the 5th and 10th of next month it is expected that the Utah Sugar factory at Lehi will begin its season's grind. The exact date of the commencement of operations is not yet known, as it will depend greatly on the ripening of the beets from which the saccharine product is obtained, but as near as can now be approximated operations will commence somewhere near the dates given above.

For some time past work has been going on at the factory preparatory to the commencement and all that is now waited for there is the delivery of the beets.

Mr. Austin, the company's expert, has just returned from the Provo valley, New Mexico, where he has been engaged by other parties to conducting the establishment of a plant in that locality, and expects the farmers as to the best methods to pursue in raising their beets for good results. He is author of the statement that this year's production of sugar beets will be about 50,000 tons, the product of 2,500 acres of land. This form of beet-growing shows to what extent the farmers of Utah county are being benefitted and only puts emphasis to the contention of many of Utah's business men, that another factory should be built in this State at some future time, giving not only the farmers a chance to be benefitted, but also the factory employes and the State in general.

He was treated very kindly by the people, and his labors were attended with success. He was then transferred to the Kansas conference of the mission, traveling among the people in central south Kansas. Here he was also successful, and was received well by the people, of whom he has many good things to say. In Kansas his headquarters were at St. John. Elder Palmer's health has been excellent during his entire mission, and he returns home feeling highly gratified at the privilege he has had of preaching the Gospel to the benighted where he has traveled.

While absent from Utah Mr. Lloyd visited St. Louis, Philadelphia, Brooklyn, New York and Boston, and also made a run down into South Carolina. The silver sentiment, says Mr. Lloyd, is going forward in the East by leaps and bounds. Its progress was most notable in Brooklyn where it has seized hold of business men and workingmen and has made great headway. Mr. Vanderbilt's present to the bride was a diamond encircling fifty diamonds surrounding a large sapphire.

His present to the best man, Mr. Polk, was a pearl pearl. The bride was attired in a traveling dress of blue silk. She wore some gloves with beaded cloth slipper, and had no a bouquet, a trembling diamond studded with pink flowers. She carried a handkerchief and small Bible. Both son and Mr. Vanderbilt looked remarkably happy. As the carriage was rolling away she threw a parting kiss to her father watching her from the parlor window.

Vanderbilt's valet presented money for the couple for honeymoon, which a portion of the honeymoon will be spent. There were no invitations issued, but cards were sent out announcing the marriage, which took place at noon. "
