LEADVILLE, Colo., Nov. 19.—The most important move yet made by the striking miners is today announced on what is considered reliable authority. In this connection it is stated upon the authority that some statements in Montana have certain upon making reductions on the wages of fifty cents a day. For the Benefit of the Souls.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Professor David Starr Jordan, president of the Leland Stanford university and a member of the Bering sea commission, had another conference today with Assistant Secretary Hamlin on the subject of his forthcoming report.

The professor declined to discuss at any length the facts involved in the investigation, but in response to a question as to the tenor of the report, it was intimation, however, that the Paris award proved ineffective in preventing the wholesale slaughter of seals, which, it was said, in time is practically exterminating the herds. The inhibition of the use of firearms and the substitution of spears had not resulted in the good expected, and on the whole the situation was altogether discouraging to the friends of the seals. The professor expected, however, that the investigation just concluded by our own and the British commissioners would result in a better general understanding and willingness on the part of all concerned to do whatever is found needful to prevent the annihilation of the seal herds.

A CLEVELAND BLAZE.

The Fire Spreading to Alarming Proportions.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 20.—Fire broke out shortly before 9 o'clock this morning in the five story building of the Superior street, occupied by H. W. Lustenmeyer & Co., wholesale hardware and paint dealers. The flames spread to the joint adjoining. The entire building was soon enveloped in flames.

E. W. Lustenmeyer, the son of the senior partner of the firm, was badly burned in attempting to enter the house. The remaining fifty persons in the building, it is believed, escaped in safety. A strong wind prevented the firemen from getting control of the fire and carried the flames high over the adjoining buildings.

It was feared the big six story building on the west side would go and at 9:30 a second alarm was sent out, bringing twenty-two engines, saw the beale and a water tower. At 10:30 a. m. the fire seems beyond all control and is spreading.

The fire was practically under control at 11 o'clock; the firemen having succeeded in confining the flames to Lustenmeyer's building, which was entirely consumed with contents. The adjoining buildings were more or less damaged by smoke and water. The loss on the Lustenmeyer building and contents will aggregate nearly $250,000, partly covered by insurance.

Three men were removed by the firemen, badly burned and almost suffocated.

A great element of danger was a store of cartridges which exploded with terrific effect at short intervals, sending fragments of cylinders to make a wild rush for safety.

THE DEATH OF ARCHBISHOP ANGELIGE.

Three Additional Arrests Made by Detectives.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The general office of detectives today made three additional arrests in connection with the death of Frank P. Arbuckle of Pittsburg. The arrests were of George Stevens, saloon keeper; Joseph Davidson, stenographer; Frederick Menger, bartender.

The investigations of the detectives disclosed the fact that on Wednesday evening Arbuckle was in Lochow's saloon, Fourteenth street and Irving place, in company with the three men named.

On Division one of Arbuckle's men was found. Davidson said they had arranged a meeting for today. Three prisoners admitted having seen Arbuckle in Lochow's saloon on Wednesday night. They denied, however, having gone up town with him. Menger said Stevens was trying to get Arbuckle to go to Harlem with him. He did not know whether Stevens succeeded. The three prisoners were arraigned in Harlem court today.

The men were held for further examination.

Butler, a negro arrested last night, was released today, there being no evidence to connect him with the alleged murder or robbery. Detectives are said to be looking for a man known as "Heavy Sam" who bears an unfavorable reputation and whose hands are in East Fifth. The detectives have learned that this person was in a crowd accompanying Arbuckle while he was in Lochow's saloon. It is alleged after they left the saloon and stood on the sidewalk Joe Davidson, Menger and Menger got into an altercation. It was about this time, it is alleged, that a "crack" game up town was napped. Heavy Sam is believed to have quarrelled with Menger, thinking he was to be cheated out of his share of the Arbuckle money. Menger is said to have left the party after the row.

Arbuckle of Erie, Pa., a brother of the dead man, reached the city today.

Prof. Williams, chemist, is making an analysis of the stomach of the dead man.

Menger has made the following statement:

"I in company with Joseph Davidson and George Stevens, both of whom came from Bentley, Kansas, met Arbuckle at Lochow's saloon, Fourteenth street. They wanted to steer him against a "brass game" and get his money. I had nothing to do with this, but I will stick to my friends Davidson, that is all I know."

Sheridan gave a brilliant reception and dance to the old Blackhawk ball that was the talk of society folks throughout the country. Now Gen. Wesley Merritt is preparing to duplicate the other general's entertainment.

The general's call will be given on the evening of Dec. 4, two weeks from today—in the assembly room of the Auditorium. Some hundred invitations have been issued.

A NEW KIND OF SHEEP.

A Cross Between the Persian and

BERKELEY, Cal., Nov. 20.—The agricultural department of the University of California is raising a new kind of sheep. The superintendent of the experiment station at Paso Robles has succeeded in breeding a variety of sheep that will mean much to the wool manufacturers. It is the result of the cross breeding of Persian and Merino. Experiments along the same lines, though not so complete, were reported by George Washington with marked advantage.

Two years ago three full-blooded rams were received from the Persian government and the experiments were commenced in cross breeding. The offspring resulted in a variety, adjudged by some of the California climate, showing wool and meat above the quality of any yet obtained. They are colored, white, reddish brown and black. The breeding ewes proved fairly fit commercial purposes. The wool was of a texture between the Persian and Merino, the average length being eight inches.

Recently the first sample of the wool was offered for sale in San Francisco and brought $1 a pound, at four cents on the usual price for a pound. The new species attains a tremendous size and are very broad backed.

INTERVIEW WITH SAVOLE.

Not Interested in Spanish Newspaper Rumors.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 20.—The Sun's special correspondent in Rome has interviewed Cardinal Satolli in relation to the report published in this country concerning Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop Ireland and others. He writes as follows:

"I have given his attention to the reports and rumors made about him immediately after Bishop Keane's resignation of the rectorship at Washington ceased to be of the part he is said to have played in it.

"His attention was also directed to the orange said to have appeared suddenly come about in his attitude toward certain members of the hierarchy.

"Various phases and full details of these rumors, as well known to those who have received the publication that arose on this question in the United States during the last few weeks, were evidently quite unknown to him.

"Cliptage which I had made of them from American journals appearing between the 6th and 12th of October were then presented to him for the first time.

"After glancing rapidly over the headings he said: 'You may say that, having seen the text of the Sun's paper, I have no idea of these reports which appeared in the newspapers concerning the matters to which you have just drawn his attention, he says so emphatically that they just merely devoid of foundation, that so far he has been informed, such be is not aware of anything to, in respect to the United States. As a representative of the holy father, he has striven to live and consider that he has succeeded in rising above all differences and personalities.'

"And then, forgetting the formal method of utterance he had been constrained to speak in the first person, he says: 'I have striven on every occasion for peace and common weal of the church and country. Loyalty to church and country, which is the title of my book, has ever been my motto.'"

Arsenic Does Feel Better.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—A special to the Herald from Constantinople says: A prominent Armenian has just written saying that the elective of Mgr. Magnadi Ormanian to the Patriarchal throne has produced an excellent impression in the minds of the entire Armenian people.

A COLONIZATION SCHEME.

Reports from the Hermit Islands Say the Men are Dead.

A San Francisco Corporate Conceives the Idea of Supplying the Husky Maidens With Husbands.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 20.—L. J. Brunnet, a carpenter of this city, is tired of carrying on a hand-to-mouth existence in America and is trying to raise a body of men to undertake a novel colonization scheme. His plan is to buy a vessel, equip it and sail to the St. John or Hermit Islands in the South Pacific ocean, where no inhabitants are left but husky belles whose husbands and brothers have been killed by cannibal wars or taken away by blackbirders. Captain Bergman of the American steamer Bonanza recently sent the news to this city of the peculiar condition of affairs on the Hermit Islands. He said that his ship was blown out of its course and anchored one day close to one of the islands. He was astonished to see some tall women on the shore, for it was hardly to be expected that the women seem like mermaids to the ship. They told of the massacre of men on the island and wanted the captain to take some of the sisters. They said they would keep upon them all the honors of duskey beauty if they would take their residence among them.

Brunnet assures that it is not the report of the outcastaway women that has moved him to project his enterprise. He says it is disassociation with the condition of the later world and the desire to lead a peaceful existence without having to struggle day and night for bread and butter. He wants to form a republic on cooperative means. He says as it is in the South Seas the islands support the native with very little work. By combining forces and pooling interests he believes the prospective band can have all the comforts of life with little labor.

The scheme is for fifty men to put up enough money to buy a schooner and provision her for the voyage and at least a year's stay on whatever island it may be decided to settle upon. On first landing they will build a fort and then take possession of the islands around. With them they will take seed and fruit trees and Belmont says that in a few years they ought to be exporting great quantities of South Sea island products.

Bishop Keane's Successor.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 20.—The Sun's correspondent at Rome cables as follows, from date of November 19th: Rev. Dr. Thomas J. Conaty, rector of the church of the Immaculate Heart, Worcester, Mass, has been appointed by the pope rector of the Catholic university at Washington, to succeed Bishop John J. Keane, who resigned September 23, 1896.

The Chilean Cabinet Trouble.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—A special to the Herald from Valparaiso, Chile, says:

The ministerial arrangements have again collapsed. Admiral Montt, who had accepted the portfolio of the war and navy departments, has withdrawn his acceptance, owing to his affiliations with the clericals, which objected to the presence in the cabinet of Vergara Donoso, a prominent member of the Liberal Alliance. The situation is growing serious and there was a meeting at the president's palace of prominent politicians, leaders of all parties in congress, to discuss a solution of the present imbroglio.

FOR WEYLER'S HEAD.

Five Thousand Dollars Offered for it by the Cubans.

OTHER OFFICERS WORTH LESS.

Barbarous Features of the Cuban War—The Campaign in Pinar del Rio.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 20.—The agent of a powder and dynamite firm passed through here on his way home from Cuba. He went over on the last expedition of the Dauntless and was transferred with the tug's cargo to a fishing smack in the Gulf and was landed at a point sixty miles from Havana. He gave his name as Philip Carroll. Carroll accompanied a cargo of ammunition and note letters to Cuban leaders on the island. Carroll says the insurgents have set a price on General Weyler's head and that he will be taken or killed if he gets near the insurgent lines.

A company of sixty Texas rangers, armed with rifles which will carry a half five miles, landed on the island three weeks ago, and they have set up the lookout all the time for Spanish officers. The rifles which are nearly needle guns with wing guages and telescopic sights bought twenty-eight pounds. The natives cannot use them but an insurgent accompanies each sharpshooter and carries a field glass.

With the ammunition the native insurgents are supplied with Mauser rifles, which are in use in the Spanish service. Many of the rangers are in Cuba, firing from a rest. These Texas operations chiefly from the ships. For every officer they (only wound or kill, they get $1,000, and the men who wounded Weyler, $5,000. Man.

Carroll left Havana on one of the Plant steamers four days ago. He says the cost of filibustering will be transferred from the south Atlantic coast to the Louisiana and Texas coast on the Gulf. The American revenue cutters are keeping the shore a watch on the Georgia and Florida coasts.

WEYLER'S CAMPAIGN NOT A FAILURE

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 20.—Advices received from Cuba today by steamship Woltney cast discredit upon the statement that the campaign of Captain-General Weyler against Antonio Maceo in Pinar del Rio has failed and that Weyler will soonly return to Havana. It is stated on the contrary that Weyler has no intention of returning to the capital, until he shall have exhausted every effort to compel the insurgent chief to accept battle.

When last heard from the Spanish commander was meeting his forces for an attack upon the insurgents, who are said to number only 20,000 men, all told, and are reported suffering from a scarcity of provisions, ammunition is scarce for the insurgents, and, in this connection, news of the wholesale burning of Guines are awaited with much interest. Little or nothing has been heard recently of Gomez, who is believed to be at the head of the main body of insurgent forces. Current report has Gomez and Maceo, that the war in the province of Santa Clara, advancing westward toward Matanzas, the westernmost point in the province of Havana. It is whispered that the conclusion of any pitched battle a truce may be declared and arrangements for a conference between the insurgent leaders and representatives of Spain, looking to a settlement of the war. This is most significant as showing that Weyler is anxious to end the war and its horrors and are longing for some way out of the present difficulties. Under these circumstances an unexpected insurgent victory would almost be hailed in commercial circles at Havana with the same satisfaction as a Spanish victory would be received.

A great deal of money exists in Havana and the outlook grows darker as the days pass. Business is almost at a standstill. Prices on all commodities have gone up to extravagant rates while the loyal portion of the population has been drained of all state money to pay and provision into the field to assist the 200,000 troops operating against the insurgents in various parts of the island.

Quintin Banderas, a well known insurgent leader, was reported yesterday to be in the vicinity of the Pinar del Rio. He was with a strong force insurgent cavalry and infantry. Gallato Alvarez is said to be with him.

SPANIARDS DISAPPOINTED.

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 20.—Reports received by steamer from Havana are disappointing to the Spaniards in the South expedition of Gen. Weyler's operations in Pinar del Rio.

Maceo is entrenched in the Cierras de las Organos in the center of his mountain fastness, and Weyler is in the vicinity of Vegara Downo, a prominent member of the Liberal Alliance. The situation is growing serious and there was a meeting at the president's palace of prominent politicians, leaders of all parties in congress, to discuss a solution of the present imbroglio.

Several of the delegates who voted in the negative said they did so, not because they were opposed to the law of the resolution but because they considered it inopportune to place the organization on record.

Gen. Wheaton devotes considerable space to the suppression of the Yaqui Indians of Santa Teresa Sonatia, who attacked Maxiaus Nogales in August last, and to the raids of renegade Apaches. The latter portion of the effort to rid Arizona of the pestiferous renegades, he says, can be appreciated when he states that the single year he spent in Arizona and New Mexico marched 22,457 miles on this duty.

Gen. Wheaton reports that Fort Douglas, Utah, and the new building of posts at Fort Grant, Ariz., and Whipple Barracks, Ariz., He also urges that the attention of Congress be called to the disparity between the pay of adjutants general in the department compared with the pay of the clerks of the supply department.

OWNERSHIP OF STOCK

Walker Brothers Want Mining Shares Delivered to Rightful Owners.

FRAUGHTON AND HOWDIDGE TRIAL

The Defendants on the Stand—Both are Young Fellows and Fraughton Somewhat Fellow.

Walker Brothers, bankers, commenced suit in the Third district court this morning against Simon Bamberger, W. S. Fugate and J. H. Walker Jr. The complaint alleges that Fugate and others deposited with the plaintiffs under an escrow agreement 179,000 shares of stock of the Oneida Mining company, that on Nov. 8, 1895, J. H. Walker Jr. filed with the plaintiffs what purported to be a contract with Fugate whereby J. H. Walker Jr. claimed to have succeeded to Fugate's rights under the escrow agreement; that on Nov. 14, 1895, the defendant Walker paid to the defendant the amount of money provided in the escrow agreement for the delivery of the said stock and the stock was delivered. Afterwards, on Nov. 17, 1895, Bamberger and Fugate tendered the amount of money required and demanded the delivery of the same stock, under the escrow agreement and an alleged transfer of had the stock by Fugate to Bamberger. The plaintiffs thereupon delivered the stock to Walker Jr., and now have the same in their possession; and they are willing and ready to deliver to the court or such person as the court may designate. The judgment asked, therefore, is that the defendants or any of them be restrained from proceeding against the plaintiffs for the stock in question and that the defendants be impleaded together to establish their respective rights to the stock, and that upon the delivery of the same to the person or persons designated by the court the plaintiffs be discharged from liability. Costs of suit are also included in the prayer.

GRAND LARCENY TRIAL.

Fraughton and Howdidge on the Witness Stand in Behalf of Walker.

The trial of David Fraughton and Will Howdidge on the charge of grand larceny was resumed in the criminal court this morning, the latter being the first witness examined. He is a smooth-faced, short, young fellow of about twenty. His testimony in answer to the attorneys for the defense was to the effect that he was merely driving the alleged stolen cattle for a Mr. Mitchie, who was the party desirous of selling the same. Mr. Whitlemore conducted the cross-examination and Judge Hiles put some questions to the witness.

David Fraughton, the other defendant, testified for the defense in a similar vein to that of Howdidge, saying that he and the latter were hired by Mitchie to drive the cattle to town. Fraughton is 19 years old and gave his testimony in an apparently straightforward manner.

When cross-examined by Mr. Whitlemore he said that he and Howdidge were about to take a vacation and remain away about four or five weeks and on the way home to Ashley when he and Howdidge succeeded in into back and go to Taylorville and get some more money from Howdidge's father. They went to Park City on the way but the witness was totally unable to remember how he spent his money there and was obliged to be a little ugly, saying that he didn't know whether or not the output holder of some of Mr. Whitlemore's questions was "August's business." But the court instructed him to answer the questions. It was then that the witness could not remember how his money had held out. The witness answered in a very shifty manner the questions put to him.

Mr. Howdidge, the first witness, testified that they were both hired by Mitchie to drive the cattle to Salt Lake for a commendation of $2 per day each. Mitchie was with them when they met the defendants in Emigration canyon, but he did not go on or they were to take the cattle to the Church farm in Parley's park, where Mitchie was to sell them. They had no time they were stolen cattle until after their arrest.

Such is the story told by both Fraughton and Howdidge to account for having the cattle in their possession.

Prosecutor Whitlemore read the following copy of a letter which it is claimed by the prosecution Fraughton had written to Howdidge after the former was in the county jail. The letter was as follows:

SALT LAKE CO.,
Salt Lake City, Utah.

Dear Friend Bill:

I have got a chance to give them the hot foot. I want you to be the bearer how my mind. My salt state is going with me and I want you to meet me in the usual place at 1 o'clock. If I get away, throw everything on the road clear yourself. Don't fail to be there. Tell the boys you will explain things to them more fully. Believe me as ever your pilly and

DAVE.

Don't fail to do this, Bill.

Fraughton disclaimed the authorship of the letter of any other transaction statements of the nature, effect or purport contained in the document and their attorneys, Messrs. Hamilton and Murphy, Ray Blakeley was retained. The witness had not fled for the state penitentiary and to answer to Mr. Hamilton said this morning that on the 15th or 16th of August last, he was two or more driving a bunch of twenty-five or thirty cattle down Porcupine canyon. The defendant's lack like Fraughton and Howdidge because they were different horses.

In answer to Judge Hiles the witness stated that he didn't know whether or not they were the same cattle as those driven by the defendants, as he was
