LAST DAY AT CAMP PAGE.

National Guard Boys Participate in a Sham Battle Today.

THE FIGHT A GOOD PIECE OF WORK.

Soldiers Devour Sandwiches and Watermelons With a Relish—Break Camp This Evening.

On the last day of Camp Henry Page the morning rose with a surprise to all but his officer. At 4:45 this morning the camp was quiet and only the tramp of the sentry was heard around the grounds. All the troops were quietly sleeping in their tents, when out on the still air rang the bugle call to arms. It came as a clear surprise to the men, as the orders published last night were to the effect that no one should be awakened at that hour. In a moment the camp was all a-a-ble. The commissary had prepared sandwiches during the night and they were quickly passed around.

DIVIDED INTO BATTLE.

The battalion was divided into two equal commands, Capt. Hessel of company H, being placed in charge of one party H, being placed in charge of one and Capt. Heywood of Co E of the other. At 5 o'clock a. m. Captain Hessel marched to the north, his orders being to march up towards Mayflower, a certain point and then turn south and execute a force marching to attack the camp. A half hour later Capt. Heywood's command was marching to meet the enemy. Both were to reconnoitre in force and determine the strength and disposition of the opposing forces. This was done in fair style to the entire satisfaction of the field officers.

The forces met at the southern mill and the battle began. Men ran down the valley using the cattle of the monastery, and in the excitement of the moment men quickly exhausted their ten rounds of ammunition and went at it hand to hand, and had to be restrained by their officers. During the fight Captain Heywood lost his hat by mere so pris ners. All of the boys pronounced it the finest practice of the camp. By 8 o'clock a. m. all were back in camp and ready for mess.

DRUM TAPS.

The boys are lost in their praises of Lieut. C. O. Winkler, the chief of the commissary. The boys have been filled with commissary ability, everything being on time and the food supplied well cooked and in ample quantity. To this the "News" representative can bear witness as he was the guest of Major Lund at the noon meal today.

There was some talk of a military ball at the Lagoon concert. Major Lund, however, says that when camp is broke the troops will go directly back to the city.

Several of the boys were put in the guard tent under charge of Sergeant Sudell, for general bad. They brought them from the farmer, and were discharged.

Drs. Wilson and Horne were on in camp yesterday. Dr. Wilson remarked that if pillow fever broke out in the camp he dreaded the consequences.

Gen. Wells and staff were expected at the camp this morning, but up to the time the "News" went left they had not made their appearance.

The thanks of the guard are given to Mr. Hamburger for making possible one of the pleasantest camps in the history of the guard.

Capt. Heywood regaled the camp with watermelon yesterday. He said he would repeat the dose but he was afraid of the consequences.

During the sham battle today the field musicians drew their sabers and crossed swords in fine style.

Capt. Hessel was officer of the day and Lieut. R. R. Carter officer of the guard today.

Stakes will be pulled at 6 p.m. this evening.

WHAT HAPPENS ON FRIDAY.

Thought That Many Will be Forced to the Belief That It Is An Unlucky Day.

Many people still believe Friday to be an unlucky day, and there is an equal number of others who laugh at all such superstitious beings. Very few girls would think of getting married on a Friday, preferring to wait a day or a fifth of single blessedness, rather than take such desperate chances. County Clerk Dunbar thinks it the height of folly for young people with matrimonial intentions to give his office the "go" on a Friday and keep himself and his clerks in a constant sweat every other day in the week. It is a fact that during Mr. Dunbar's entire incumbency only two marriage licenses have been issued on the sixth day of the week, commonly called Friday, and these couples were so "ignorant" that they didn't know the meaning of the word "superstition."

As eye witness to the issuance of these licenses referred to, is authority for the statement that one of the bridegrooms was killed three weeks after his marriage and the other poor fellow's wife ran away with a traveling man a month later. The same authority will further have it that the man and woman within a year after their good fortune, concluded to try their luck again, but wrecked getting out a divorce on Friday, and that neither is that both are now extremely happy.

Quite a few who are inclined to smile at this superstitious belief, before the week is ended, be led to take another view of it. Both the Republican and Democratic parties announced that on Friday next they will hold their State and county conventions. Aside from this there are a number of other matters scheduled for the same day and it already begins to look as though many highly intelligent beings will be waiting, before leaving on Saturday, to admit that Friday is indeed an unlucky day.

Two Foxy Chinamen.

Two Chinamen, named Charles Cheng and Wong Chin, were before Justice of the Peace McMaster today charged on the complaint of Deputy Game Warden William Bingley with a violation of the fish and game law. It is needless to add that both pleaded not guilty. Their offense consisted of having, yesterday, shot and killed three wild ducks. By the aid of an interpreter, a son of Wong Chin, and an exceedingly bright little chap, the defendants set up that they didn't kill the ducks but only shot at them. Justice McMaster explained that it was an offense to use shot at ducks, and then the foxy Chinamen claimed that they didn't shoot at all. The dead birds were introduced in evidence as also were two shot guns and a number of empty shells. Not to be outwitted the Mongolians admitted that they had gone out to hunt chunks for medicinal purposes, and never saw a bird at all. The court said he would postpone the case in order to consider some more evidence, whereupon the heathens capitulated and changed their plea to guilty. They were then assessed $5 each and cost, amounting in all to $14, between the two.

An Attempted Suicide.

Johanna McCarthy said to be from Independence, Idaho, made an unsuccessful attempt at suicide at the Railroad Exchange hotel, near the Oregon Short Line depot yesterday. Miss McCarthy tells a story of betrayal and says she prefers death rather than face her parents. The young woman took poison.

Special Council Meeting.

A special meeting of the City Council will be held this evening at which resolutions of respect to the late President Woodruff will be adopted. It is probable that a committee will be named to a Pioneer and others. The meeting is called at the instance of President Barnes and Councilman Calloway.

The case of the State against Frederick Schaefer, the old man charged with attempting to rape sixteen-year-old Caroline Jensen at his place on the 1st of July, was to have been tried before Justice McMaster today, but was continued for a week, both parties, until Tuesday, September 20th.

The Republican State convention will meet in the Opera house on Friday instead of in the Salt Lake Theater as at Thursday. The change was suggested one day out of respect to the memory of President Woodruff.

LITERARY NOTES.

The Forum for September contains the following articles, among others, which will be read with interest by Utah readers: "Gold and other Resources of the Far West," by J. A. Latcha; "Our Polar Crossing Lines," by Frederick V. Castle; and "The Pilgrimage to the Klondike," by Frederick Palmer.

The current issue of Collier's Weekly is a Navy Parade number, and is formally dedicated, on the title page, "To the Victorious Admirals of the American Navy, William Thomas Sampson and Winfield Scott Schley, and to the Gallant Officers and Men under their Command." Full length pictures of Sampson and Schley appear on the first page, and there are in all twelve pages given entirely to the great naval reception and parade in New York. There are also two views of the ships that destroyed Cervera's fleet. Among the illustrations is a double-page drawing by Blossom of Admiral Schley's flagship Brooklyn, by the armored cruiser Brooklyn, passing the statute of Liberty; a full-page drawing by G. A. Traver of the scene at Grant's Tomb, and one by George Varian of the turning of the entire fleet near the tomb. Each page of the Best-Seller New York, Brooklyn, Iowa, Oregon, Massachusetts, Indiana, Texas—is admirably pictured, from photographs, all appearing again and again in detail and in groups. Among other war material of special interest is an article on "The Mystery of the Torpedo," by Lieut. Ackerman, who had charge of two of the Oregon's 13-inch guns during the chase of Cervera's fleet on the fateful 3rd of July.

Gunton's Magazine for September has the following special articles: Results of the War: Opportunities for Southern Women; East Side Living Conditions—Cubans Need Industrial Training; Social Facts and Forces, Distinguished Economists: II—Mathew Trusts vs Trusts; Gunton's Industrial Prosperity, 199-10; Editorial Crucible; Naval Lessons from Santiago.

Story of the Wedding-Ring.

"The wedding-ring is made of gold of the purest quality, signifying how noble and durable is our affection," writes Frank H. Vizetelly of "The Romance of the Finger-ring" in the September Woman's Home Companion. Next, it is made in the form of a circle, a symbol of eternity, implying that our regard shall be without end. Why is this golden circlet placed on the third finger of the left hand? Because among the ancients it was thought that there was a vein that linked that finger to the heart, and the conceit was carried out in the ring, which was thus made to convey from the heart, and the course thus made to convey from the heart, and the course was survived the ages and come down to us from remote antiquity. But there are other reasons why it should be worn on the finger. Because being a finger it could not easily be lost, nor be worn out, and because its distinct purpose is that it is to be the visible, tangible, and unlimited assurance which must never be forgotten. It has been suggested, also, that the form, being without end and without, and imports that mutual love shall flow from one to the other, as in a circle, and that continuity shall endure.

"Sometimes wedding-rings were of gemmed pattern, and occasionally be-sides the usual inscription on the inside, one half of which was retained by each party so that on the marriage-day the lovers may be said to have, in a sense, to the Rev. Charles Wheatley, the commentator on the Book of Common Prayers, the "pledge of faith" was selected as a pledge in preference to any other thing was because among the ancients rings were used as such. With them all valuable goods were signed; thus the delivery of a ring became the sign of highest trust and sacred friendship. Consequently, it was but natural that a ring should be selected to symbolize the affiance of a wife to her husband's custody, and slightly that thereafter she shared his honors and shared his fate. In ancient times, the wedding-ring came into use among the Jews after they found it had been used by the Egyptians, whose authorities state that it was given to one lime instead of divers. The English popular belief that it was the use of the plain gold band to a pledge of wedlock is trade-history practice of the Romans."

PILES

"Suffered the tortures of the damned with protruding piles brought on by constipation with which I was afflicted for many years. I was advised to try CASCARETS in the form of candy. I am now cured and have been entirely free from piles. For fifty years I am entirely free from piles and feel like a new man."
