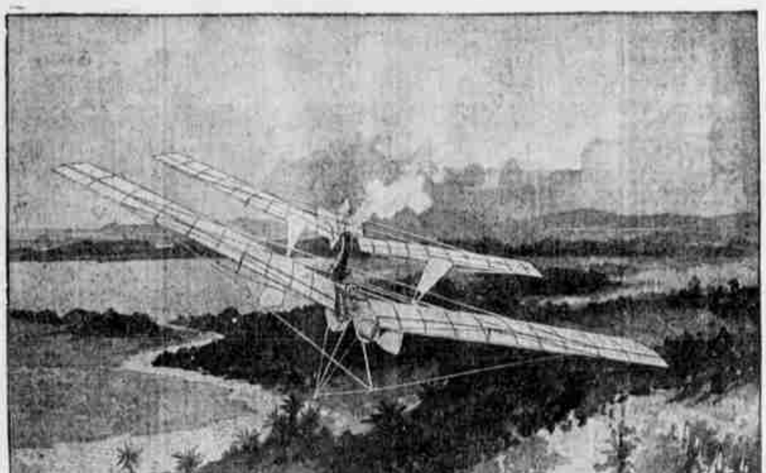
THE GREAT ÆRODROME, PROPELLED BY A LIQUID AIR ENGINE AND BUOYED BY LIQUID GAS.



As was the ironclad battleship to the old wooden frigate, so is this newest engine of war to all defenses afloat and ashore. That is to say, no fort, warship or present system of protection for fighting men is any protection from attack by this flying machine. Professor S. P. Langley has long been at work on this aerodrome. [illegible] In the above picture the aerodrome is seen supported by its wings alone.
